SAYS NOONEY DOWNTOWN PLAN WOULD BLOCK STADIUM FUNDS

Hickok Tells Aldermen Facilities Would Be in Competition—Promoter Defends His Proposal.

Financing for the downtown sports stadium project will be virtually unobtainable if the city authorizes commercial redevelopment of five blocks overlooking the Mississippi riverfront, James P. Hickok, president of the Civic Center Redevelopment Corp., testified today.

He spoke at City Hall at a public hearing conducted by the aldermanic committee on housing and land clearance. The committee is to help the Board of Aldermen make a final choice between Lewis Kitchen's plan for a primarily residential project along Third street and G. J. Nooney's proposal for a principally commercial development.

Nooney contended that his project was economically and esthetically superior to the other, but he asked the aldermen to delay a choice between the two plans.

The city should first obtain reports from architectural experts and land economists on the relative merits of the plans, he declared, and urged also that the legality of the recently-enacted ordinance outlining redevelopment procedures be tested.

Kitchen, a Kansas City builder, proposes to invest about $36,800,000 in redeveloping the five blocks fronting on Third street between Washington avenue and Chestnut street. His Mansion House project would have three 28-story towers containing 1008 luxury apartments, an office building of eight to 10 stories, three smaller commercial buildings and a motel.

Alternate Plan.

Nooney, a St. Louis real estate developer, is bidding for the same area. His St. Louis Gateway project, a $30,000,000 undertaking, calls for two eight-story office buildings, a hotel and a motel.

Hickok brought out that one of the big objections to Nooney's commercial project is the competition it would offer to the stadium project. Stadium sponsors plan a variety of supporting facilities, including a motel and an office building, to provide revenue needed to attract financing for their $89,000,000 project.

"Unfortunately," Hickok stated, "the Gateway plan duplicates the most important income facility in our plan—namely, the motel. It is central to the Gateway plan, but it is certain to take away from the stadium plan because no one will assure us that the area can support both.

Called Incompatible.

"Financing for any type of civic development such as our stadium will not be easy. We sincerely believe it will be virtually impossible to finance the stadium if the Gateway plan and our plan are built simultaneously or in such close a space of time and area to each other.

"We do not believe the Gateway plan, as fine and as imaginative as it is, is compatible at all with the plan for the development of the stadium. We regret this conclusion and wish it could be otherwise."

Hickok said the motel contemplated in the Kitchen pro-

SCHOOL BOARD INQUIRY JURY IS DISMISSED

Nangle Directs New Panel to Pursue Probe—Questions Validity of April Term Action.

A circuit court grand jury investigating possible misconduct of School Board members and employes was discharged today by Circuit Judge James F. Nangle.

In relieveing the April grand jury of further inquiry into the school matter, Jurge Nangle, explained his action was prompted by doubts whether any indictments it might have returned would have been valid. He then directed the June term jury, impaneled yesterday, to pursue the inquiry.

While both grand juries were in his courtroom, Judge Nangle said he had been informed that Special Assistant Circuit Attorney George A. Jensen had appeared at three sessions at which the April term body heard testimony on the school matter.

Nangle added that he had informed Circuit Attorney Thomas F. Eagleton that Jensen had every right to serve as special assistant circuit attorney in order to advise, assist and work with the circuit attorney's office in its investigation of the School Board.

"However," the judge continued, "because of his participation and interest in certain civil litigation, he should not personally appear before the grand jury."

Jensen was attorney for the plaintiffs in civil suits to oust former Superintendent of School Buildings George H. Fletcher and Dr. James J. McCaffery, a board member.

In a formal statement, Eagleton said his office would proceed in complete accord with Judge Nangle's opinion.

"There is a school of legal thought that Mr. Jensen's presence in the grand jury room might possibly invalidate any indictments which might be returned," he said.

Eagleton said Jensen would remain to supply background

JOB OF MOVING GEN. LYON STATUE TO PARK BEGINS

The long-delayed task of moving the equestrian statue of Gen. Nathaniel Lyon from Grand and West Pine boulevards to its new home in Lyon Park, Broadway and Arsenal street, got under way today.

After extended consultation among subcontractors hired by Arrow Wrecking Co. of Dearborn, Mich., workmen pried the awkward-looking figures of the general, his horse and a standing soldier away from the stone base and hoisted them to a truck.

An 80-foot crane of the Arrow Co., which has the contract for clearing 50 acres in the Mill Creek Valley redevelopment area, was used for the lifting. Chains and cables were put under various parts of the statue, with canvas pads used to prevent scratching of the metal.

Nathan Wolff, one of the subcontractors, expressed concern over the job because the statue appeared to be in seven pieces, welded together. Arrow had had difficulty finding anybody willing to move it because of possibility of breakage.

MORSE PROPOSES 53-CT.-AN-HOUR CONGRESS PAY

WASHINGTON, June 7 (UPI)—Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon, revolted against the Senate Labor Committee minimum wage law recommendations today by introducing a bill to cut salaries of Congressmen and their staffs to 53 cents an hour.

This, he said, was the same figure thousands of laundry workers are now being paid. Members of the House and Senate make $22,500 a year in salary plus some expense allowances.

Morse's action came after the committee voted to limit to 6,833,000 the number of additional workers to be blanketed under the minimum wage law.

Morse said he was presenting the measure as a protest against cutting thousands of low-paid laundry workers out of the minimum wage bill.

"There is no reason why (Congress) should not get the same treatment. If we are going to perpetuate 53 cents an hour for laundry workers, we need to do a little washing in Congress, too," Morse said.

RUSSIA BLASTS U.S. AS ARMS PARLEY OPENS

Summit Charges Repeated — U.S. Delegate Suggests Getting On With Talks.

GENEVA, June 7 (AP)—Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin opened a new round of East-West disarmament talks today with a blast against "aggressive circles" in the United States. He alleged these Americans sabotaged the Paris summit meeting and sought to prevent peaceful coexistence.

"Aggressive forces continue to conduct their subversive actions against peace and the security of peoples and make even more urgent and imperative the solution of disarmament problem," Zorin said.

A Western official said Zorin echoed earlier charges by Soviet Premier Khrushchev—without Khrushchev's vehemence.

United States Ambassador Fredrick M. Eaton refused to be drawn into polemics on the summit breakdown. He told Zorin:

"I will not dignify this routine comment on the summit. Our task here is to get on with the discussion of measures for disarmament, and I suggest we do this."

Restrained Atmosphere.

Despite Zorin's remarks, British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore told newsmen the 10-nation conference resumed in a restrained and moderate atmosphere after its six-week recess.

Zorin presented and commented on the revised Soviet disarmament plan, announced by Khrushchev June 3.

Eaton said the United States Government is subjecting the new Khrushchev plan to a serious and thorough analysis.

"Clarification of various aspects of the Soviet position will be necessary," the United States delegate added.

Zorin stressed that the new Soviet proposals take up a French idea for destruction of rockets, bombers and all other vehicles capable of delivering nuclear weapons. But he linked this tightly with Soviet demands for liquidation of all foreign military bases. He said they exist only "to station the means of delivery of nuclear weapons nearer to the frontiers of the Socialist (Communist) states."

String Attached.

A French spokesman said this emphasis on the liquidation of bases was the string attached to Khrushchev's acceptance of controlled destruction of the means of nuclear delivery.

Commenting on the possibility that the French might accept

Trapeze Troupe, Midget Fly High On Jobless Pay but Land in Net

© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, June 7 — A troupe of circus aerialists led by a midget took a flyer on high finance and landed in a police net yesterday.

The group, four members of a family and a midget, arrived here from Hungary in the early 1950s. After working for a season they applied for unemployment insurance and were told that as free-lance artists they were ineligible.

The troupe, consisting of Alexander Hugo Hahnl, his wife Ninon, their daughter Ninon Marie, their son Alexander Fritz, and the midget, Janos Kantor set up an organization that ostensibly employed the troupe.

They paid the unemployment insurance fund 2.7 per cent of earnings of $90 a week for a period of 20 weeks for each member of the family.

In return for a total payment of $138.60 each collected $1170.

An investigation was started last September when the group sought to place an advertisement in Billboard, a theatrical weekly, offering its services to the entire circus industry. The five were charged with grand larceny, conspiracy and submitting false vouchers.

2 ATLAS FIRINGS ARE CANCELED AT CAPE CANAVERAL AFTER STRIKE

Machinists' Walkout Does Not Affect Capability of Dispatching Missiles Already on Launching Sites.

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Two Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile test launchings from Cape Canaveral scheduled for this week have been cancelled because of a strike by machinists, the Air Force said today.

However, the capability of firing missiles already manufactured and on launch sites in event of emergency will be unaffected, a spokesman said. Such firings would be by military crews rather than by industr employes.

Picket lines were set up yesterday by the International Association of Machinists at several bases where the Convair division of General Dynamics Corp. has employes.

Called 'Worse Than U-2.'

Senator John Stennis (Dem.), Mississippi, told the Senate today that he considers the strike "worse than the U-2 incident."

"This strike gives an appearance of weakness and a lack of national responsibility," Stennis said. He suggested that provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act be used to get the strikers back to work while negotiations are carried on between the union and employers.

Strike Called Sunday.

The strike was called at midnight Sunday by the International Association of Machinists. Another 25,000 IAM workers at plants in San Diego, Calif., which make the big missile voted to go on working because large scale strikes are too costly.

Bases affected by the strike are:

Vandenberg Air Force Base, where war-ready pads and gantries are located on a windy mesa and beach 160 miles north of Los Angeles.

Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Atlantic missile range that recently sent an Atlas 9000 miles to the tip of Africa in a test shot.

Warren Air Force Base, Wyo., and Offutt Air Force Base, Nebr., where Atlas launching pads are near completion.

Holloman Air Force Base, N. M., where local issues were involved.

Pickets Taken From Gates.

(At Cape Canaveral, the striking machinists agreed today to confine picket lines to Convair operations inside the missile test center instead of placing them at entrances.

The decision means that construction work on key launching complexes can resume. Some 2000 building tradesmen honored the Machinists' lines yesterday, halting all construction at the center. Approximately 500 members of other unions also refused to cross the lines. They, too, will be able to resume work.

W. J. Usery, grand lodge representative of the IAM, said the agreement followed a meeting between union officials and Air Force Maj. Gen. Leighton I. Davis, commander of the missile test center.

Union Expands Walkout.

The union meanwhile expanded its walkout by calling new "quickie" strikes against Convair in San Diego. The IAM pulled workers out of two departments in a continuing policy of calling quick strikes, a spokesman said, "Where it hurts the most."

AMERICAN TO CALL KHRUSHCHEV ON PAINTING BOAST

UTICA, N.Y., June 7 (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev will be asked to paint a picture for an art building opening in October.

Richard B. McLanathan, director of the Munson-Williams-Proctor institute's art section, said he planned to write the Soviet Premier this week about a picture.

McLanathan was head of the American art exhibit in Moscow last summer, when Khrushchev had some uncomplimentary things to say about American abstract art.

"You call these paintings?" McLanathan quoted Khrushchev as saying.

"Can you paint one better?" McLanathan asked.

"Yes, I think I can," the American said Khrushchev replied. Now McLanathan wants Khrushchev to produce.

HERTER SAYS PRESIDENT SHOULD PROCEED WITH PLANS TO VISIT JAPAN

President, Top Cadet

WEST POINT CADET KEEPS PRESIDENT MARKING TIME

WEST POINT, N.Y., June 7 (AP)—The Military Academy's top cadet kept President Eisenhower waiting for 10 minutes yesterday but he still is the top cadet. A mix-up over the time of their appointment was to blame.

"This is the first time I've ever been late," said Cadet Charles P. Otstott, of Dallas, Tex.

Brig. Gen. Charles W. G. Rich, commandant of cadets, replied, with a hint of a smile, "And it may be the last time, too."

Otstott, first in his class militarily and scholastically, was scheduled to present a class of 1960 ring to Mr. Eisenhower at 2:30 p.m. but an alumni luncheon attended by Mr. Eisenhower ended early and he showed up at the cadet captain's office about 1:30.

An urgent call was sent out for Otstott, who was strolling with relatives. Aides located him and whisked him in. Mr. Eisenhower appeared unperturbed by the delay.

PRESIDENT FLIES TO CAPITAL AFTER WEST POINT VISIT

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower returned today from a three-day reunion with his 1915 classmates at the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., probably his last visit to the Point as President.

His plane, the Columbine III, touched down at 9:55 a.m. after a one-hour flight from Stewart Air Force Base. He was accompanied by some of his classmates and his associate press secretary, Mrs. Anne Wheaton.

Before boarding his plane at Stewart base, Mr. Eisenhower shook hands with 30 state policemen who had served as his escorts at West Point. He also gave a cheery wave to a group of Cub Scouts in uniform.

The President spent most of his time since Saturday renewing friendships and talking over old times and campaigns.

He has no more trips to West Point scheduled before he retires as President seven months from now. He and the other 102 survivors of the 161 graduates of 1915 are planning another reunion in 1965.

PRESIDENT MAY FACE SITDOWN STRIKE IN JAPAN

Leftist Students Threaten to Block Runways When Eisenhower Arrives.

TOKYO, June 7 (AP)—Radical students today threatened a sitdown strike on the runways of Tokyo's International Airport June 19 in an effort to block the arrival of President Eisenhower for a three-day state visit.

A spokesman for a pro-Communist faction of the Zengakuren student federation said the runway sitdown might be employed "depending on the circumstances."

Prime Minister Kishi discussed the students' threat at a meeting with national public safety and army directors and the Labor Minister. A spokesman said "strong action" would be taken if necessary, including barring all traffic from the airport before the President's arrival.

Both Kishi and Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujiyama again rejected demands from the Socialist and Communist parties, the leftist students and leftist labor unions that Mr. Eisenhower's visit be canceled or postponed. These elements are opposed to the new United States-Japan military security treaty.

"I have no intention of changing the schedule of the President visit," Kishi told a Cabinet meeting.

Fujiyama told a news conference any Japanese proposal to suspend Mr. Eisenhower's trip "would be a stain on our national honor . . . and would damage Japanese prestige all over the world."

Kishi also ordered the government and police to take steps to stop leftist demonstrations in front of the American embassy. He appealed to newspaper publishers to support the government in its efforts to insure a friendly welcome for the President.

The leftist students' federation said even if it did not decide on

Russian Works 15 Times Longer Than American to Buy Shirt

NEW YORK, June 7 (UPI)—If a Moscow worker needs a shirt, he has to work 15 hours to make enough money to buy one. That is 1500 per cent more than the 56 minutes a New York City worker would need to purchase the same kind of cotton shirt.

An American works three minutes to make money to buy one pound of sugar. It takes the Russian an hour and four minutes of work to buy his pound.

These are among many consumer items listed by the National Industrial Conference Board in its latest map of industry.

The conference board used $2.17 an hour as a base for New York pay. For the Russians it used four rubles an hour. Moscow prices were based on information in the Soviet press.

The list doesn't even mention the electrical appliances, the automobiles, motor boats and other luxuries the Russians can't get at all.

RECOMMENDS TRIP DESPITE OUTBREAKS BY LEFTIST YOUTHS

Secretary Says It Would Be 'Psychologically Unfortunate' if Senate Deferred Ratification of Treaty.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 7 — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said today President Eisenhower should make his Far Eastern trip this month despite continuing Japanese riots.

Herter also told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee it would be "psychologically unfortunate" if the Senate were to put off ratification of the new security treaty with Japan until next year.

After hearing Herter's views on the treaty, the committee went into executive session to question him further. He had indicated that he would discuss in the closed session the stability of Premier Kishi's government, the advisability of continued Japanese limitation on the country's remilitarization, and President Eisenhower's trip.

Unchanged Plans.

On the two-week trip, on which Mr. Eisenhower plans to set out next Sunday, Herter said: "Under existing circumstances, I think his plans ought to remain unchanged."

Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, the committee chairman, had suggested yesterday that the President might be wiser to defer his visit to Japan until this fall.

After hearing Herter behind closed doors Fulbright said that the Secretary had made a "persuasive case" for President Eisenhower going ahead on with his trip, but the Senator added that his own misgivings had not been set to rest entirely.

Near the end of the open session, Senator Frank Lausche (Dem.), Ohio, strongly upheld the President's plan to visit Japan.

"He's a soldier," Lausche said. "He's never fled from danger. "If he believes this treaty is to our mutual advantage, I'm convinced he will not abandon that honorable course of conduct he has followed his whole life."

Postponement of Senate consideration of the treaty was suggested by Senator Albert Gore (Dem.), Tennessee. He asked if a delay until 1961 would cause a threat to peace or security in the Far East.

Herter said that much delay might cause "real doubt in Japan whether we intended to go ahead or not."

"Psychologically it would be an unfortunate thing," he said.

Herter added that Senate delay in considering the treaty might "strengthen the hand of those in Japan who oppose the treaty at the present time."

Gore expressed doubt that these results would occur. He said he could see no necessity for a "rush act" in ratifying the treaty.

Veto For Japan.

In describing the terms of the new treaty, signed last Jan. 19, Herter went further than ever before in conceding that it would give Japan a veto over United States military operations using bases in Japan.

Some Japanese officials have told their people the new treaty would give the Japanese government such a veto. One provision requires "consultations" on implementation of the treaty. A later exchange of notes provides for "prior consultation" with respect to major changes in the deployment of United States forces in Japan or major changes in their equipment.

Fulbright asked whether this "prior consultation" meant that Japanese assent would be required as a pre-condition to United States military activity in the area.

"It would," Herter replied.

Later in the hearing, Herter said Japanese assent would "presumably" be required if the United States wanted to use Japanese bases for military action elsewhere in the Far East

EASTERN PILOTS REFUSE TO FLY WITH FAA MAN IN THIRD SEAT

Crewmen Say Inspector Is Always Welcome in Observer's Place on Jet—Other Lines to Follow.

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP) —Jet pilots of Eastern Air Lines said yesterday they are refusing to fly jets in which a Federal Aviation Agency inspector occupies one of the three pilot seats.

The Eastern pilots said they have been doing this since June 1. Paul Abel of Alexandria, Va., chairman of the Eastern Pilot's group, said pilots of three other airlines — American, Pan American and Trans World — have notified FAA and their companies that they will put the new practice into effect June 15.

Abel said the Eastern pilots refused to fly Sunday on Eastern's inauguration of non-stop DC-8 service between Houston, Tex., and New York City.

The pilots said that when the assigned crew refused to take off with the FAA inspector in the cockpit, the airline used supervisory personnel.

No Word, FAA Says.

An FAA spokesman said, in reply to a reporter's inquiry, that the agency knew of no instance of refusal to fly and had not had any word as to the Eastern inaugural flight.

The dispute is over the jump seat on the left hand side of the cockpit, behind the pilot. On some airlines this seat is occupied by the second officer, but on those airlines which have agreed that the jets require three pilots, the jump seat is used by the third pilot.

This also is the seat which the FAA flight inspector prefers to use, so that he can be looking over the command pilot's shoulder.

Abel said the pilots of his group think that it is unsafe to have fewer than three pilots in the cockpit. He said an inspector is always welcome to use the observer's seat. He said this provides a fine place from which to watch operations of the entire crew.

The FAA is said to have suggested to the airlines that they reassign the paper work, radio duties and other crew functions for jets using three pilots. Abel said the pilots will refuse to fly under circumstances where they are required to perform unaccustomed duties.

Abel said FAA had notified the pilots that it will take "appropriate action" in connection with pilot refusals to fly.

CAB Review Urged.

By United Press International.

The Airline Pilots Association recommended yesterday that FAA regulations be subject to review, modification or revocation by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The recommendation—aimed at FAA Administrator Elwood P. Quesada's recent regulation grounding all commercial pilots 60 years old or over—was made by Kay McMurray, pilot association president, before the Senate Aviation subcommittee.

McMurray described Quesada as a "czar" and criticized the 60-year age limit on pilots.

McMurray said there has never been an accident due to aging and added: "Evidently, the administrator is so expert and has such arbitrary authority that he may take any action he desires, no matter how arbitrary or capricious it may be."

He submitted proposed legislation to the subcommittee that would give the CAB power to review and "revoke or modify" any regulation issued by the administrator.

9 HORSES BURNED IN VAN FIRE AFTER POLO MATCHES HERE

Nine thoroughbred horses which were used in polo matches at the St. Louis Country Club last weekend were severely burned in a fire in a van in which they were being carried on U.S. Highway 66 near Springfield, Ill., yesterday. Eight of them had to be destroyed.

The horses were ridden by members of the Milwaukee team, which defeated the St. Louis team twice. The fire was believed to have started from a cigarette flipped through the slatted side of the truck, igniting straw. Passing motorists noticed the fire and notified the truck driver.

The horses, which were valued at an estimated $30,000, were being returned to Milwaukee. Robert Uihlein, vice president of Schlitz Brewing Co. of Milwaukee, was the reported owner of seven of the horses. George Oliver of Delray Beach, Fla., was believed to own the other two.

maintenance workers were called off the job today.

This brings the total of IAM members out at missile bases and plants to about 2450, a spokesman said. The number of IAM workers at Convair facilities prior to the strike was given as 27,235.

First word of physical damage in the strike was reported from San Diego.

Six workers who did not take part in the work stoppage there yesterday reported their cars had been damaged. The damage ranged from a broken windshield to paint smears spelling out the word "scab."

The strike, first major work stoppage in the aircraft-missile industry, had serious overtones. A tie-up of a majority of the industry's plants could result if other strikes follow the IAM walkout.

The union asked for a 14-cent hourly wage boost and fringe benefits. Machinists rejected as inadequate Convair's offer of an 11-cent hourly raise and a 3-cent cost-of-living increase. The wage scale now ranges from $1.79 to $3.40.

Both Convair and the IAM stood ready to resume negotiations. Federal mediator E. Marvin Sconyers called the next bargaining session for tomorrow. Among union demands is one for a union shop.

JOHNSON GIVES LONG ANSWER TO SHORT QUESTION

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) — Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (Dem.), Texas, appeared today on Dave Garroway's "Today" television show on NBC and was asked if he is a candidate for the presidential nomination.

The Senate majority leader answered:

"I have said the same thing privately that I have said publicly; that is, that I have not announced my candidacy. I felt that I would like to be able to answer the question, 'am I a candidate?' in the affirmative But since I am the leader of the Senate, since my duties require me to be in the Senate most of the time between now and convention, I didn't feel that it would be proper for me to shirk my duties, leave my job, leave my party in the month of May before the convention in July. And I thought that first things should come first, and the first job I had was to do a good job in the Senate, and then reach whatever conclusion I decided to reach after the Congress adjourns."

Garroway: "It sounds very reasonable."

The program was taped yesterday.

FAA Cites Seven Passengers For Airline Drinking Spree

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)— The Federal Aviation Agency announced yesterday it has started action against seven men accused of violating its new rule against drinking from private liquor supplies aboard airliners.

The FAA said so far as the agency knows this was the first violation of the regulation since it went into effect last March. The incident occurred aboard an Eastern Air Lines flight from New York to Montreal May 20.

The FAA said in a news release that the drinking passengers "turned the passenger cabin into a littered shambles."

"The incident also brought threats from the airline captain of an emergency landing," the FAA said, adding that the airline neither served nor carried any liquor on the flight.

The FAA said that it had notified the seven than under the Federal Aviation Act they are subject to fines not to exceed $1000 each. They have 10 days in which to file comments.

It was learned that the accused passengers were in the rear lounge of the Electra airliner. The "fasten seat belts" light had been turned on, and the flight attendant appealed to the pilot for help when they refused to take their seats.

The pilot reluctantly left his post to admonish the passengers and the men reportedly promised to behave. Later they were said to have torn up eight pillows, littering the plane with feathers.

On arrival the seven were arrested by Canadian police on charges of creating a disturbance on an aircraft in flight.

They are to appear for trial in Canada next Tuesday. The FAA declined to make the names of the passengers public. However they identified themselves as Dan Hansey, Brooklyn; Henry Raad, George Gibney and George Fattell, all of Clifton, N.J.; George Byrouty and George Massoud, both of Paterson, N.J.; John Raad, the seventh American, was not arraigned in Montreal and his address was not available.

E. GERMANY HAS U.S. WAR PLANS, ULBRICHT SAYS

BERLIN, June 7 (UPI)—East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht claimed in a statement made public today that American war planes have fallen into Communist hands.

Ulbricht said the war planes came from the United States military mission stationed in the East Zone. He did not say how or when they were obtained.

Ulbricht made the claim in an interview May 7 with West German members of a group called "Youth Action against Atomic Death" and released today. He attacked the presence of the United States, British and French military missions in East Germany, and then said:

"The American military mission is not in the German Democratic Republic (Communist East Germany) to carry out the provisions of the Potsdam agreement. It is there to prepare a war.

"We have taken upon ourselves the right to take away from it the plans it has worked out, with bases and everything.

"We are in possession of them and have thanked the mission that it has handed over to us everything, and that we have complete knowledge of its liaison places, bases and so on."

OHIO TEAMSTER CHIEF CONVICTED BY U.S. JURY

William Presser Found Guilty of Obstructing Justice by Destroying Records.

CLEVELAND, O., June 7 (UPI)—A federal jury today convicted Ohio Teamsters leader William Presser of obstructing justice by destroying records of Teamsters' Christmas gifts sought by the Senate Rackets Committee in 1958.

The union leader faces a maximum jail sentence of five years and a fine of up to $5000.

Presser, testifying for himself, denied tearing the invoice or concealing the gift list.

Presser was convicted in February of contempt of Congress for failing to answer questions before the rackets committee in 1958. He was fined $100 and sentenced to two months in jail, but has been free on bond pending his appeal.

The government contended that Presser tore a list of eight persons from a 1955 invoice and concealed a Christmas gift list for 1955.

The eight persons, including former United States Senator George H. Bender (Rep.) O., were to have received $100 champagne buckets from the Teamsters as presents.

The jury of six men and six women returned the verdict after two hours and fifteen minutes deliberation.

Presser, 52 years old, is president of Teamsters Joint Council 41 and of the Ohio Conference of Teamsters.

The defense claimed that Presser was being made "the victim of partisan politics being played in Washington."

United States District Judge Paul Jones, who heard the case, postponed sentencing of the union leader until after his attorney, Edwin Knachel, files a motion for a new trial in five days. Knachel said the conviction will be appealed if Judge Jones overrules the motion.

Presser was freed on his original $3000 bond until Judge Jones rules on the motion for the new trial, possibly Monday.

Israel Says Eichmann Agreed To Be Tried; Capture Confirmed

Tel Aviv Tells Argentina of 15-Year Search for Nazi — Includes Captive's Letter.

BUENOS AIRES, June 7 (AP) —The Israeli government last night confirmed that a determined band of Jews tracked Adolf Eichmann to Argentina, but insisted the ex-Gestapo official was not kidnaped. He agreed to go to Israel to stand trial, Israel said.

An Israeli note to the Argentine government told of a 15-year quest that spanned three continents and ended in Buenos Aires. Couched in soothing terms, the note claimed that a group of "Jewish volunteers," who caught up with Eichmann here and took him to Israel, acted without the Israeli government's official knowledge.

In fact, the note claimed, the capture of Eichmann was unknown to the Israeli government until after he had been landed on Israeli soil.

The note expressed regret over any infringement of Argentine sovereignty, but said the extraordinary nature of the case justified Israel's determination to bring Eichmann to trial on charges of complicity in the murder of 6,000,000 Jews by the Hitler regime.

Text of Letter.

It included the text of a letter it said Eichmann gave his captors stating that he was going to Israel of his own free will. The note said:

"I, the below signed Adolf Eichmann, declare of my own will: since my true identity is known, I realize that it makes no sense to try to continue hiding from justice. I declare that I am disposed to travel to Israel to present myself there before a competent tribunal.

"I understand that I will receive legal help and I will do all possible to express without adornment of facts my last years of service in Germany in order that the true picture of fact may be transmitted to future generations. I make this declaration by my own will. I have not been promised anything, nor have I been threatened.

"I wish to attain at last my internal peace. Since I cannot recall all the details and because I also may have confused some things, I ask that I be helped by putting at my disposition documents and testimonies in my determination to find the truth."

The note was sent after rumors about Eichmann's capture prompted Argentine President Arturo Frondizi to order an investigation and to ask Israeli ambassador Arie Levavi for a full explanation.

A high Argentine official said today that his government considers Israel's explanations unsatisfactory and may request the withdrawal of Ambassador Levavi.

The official, who declined use of his name, said Frondizi is making a personal study of the note. He described the government of Argentina as "irked but not indignant" about the case. He pointed out that the note does not explain why and how the Israeli band operated in Argentina and how it was able to enter and leave without any official record.

Other officials said that although the "Jewish volunteers" may not have been acting under official orders, the note indicated Israeli officials knew of their work.

The note gave this sketchy account of the events leading up to Eichmann's capture:

When World War II ended, a band of Jewish volunteers, including some Israelis, began a search for Eichmann that extended through Europe, the Middle East and finally Latin America.

Some months ago the pursuers learned that Eichmann, now, 54 years old, was living in Argentina without the knowledge of Argentine authorities but with the help of other Nazis living in the country.

The searchers ferreted out Eichmann's address, learned his alias and closed in.

Eichmann readily admitted his identity but when asked if he were willing to face trial in Israel, he asked 24 hours to think it over. The next day Eichmann agreed to go.

Plane Speculation.

The note did not say how Eichmann's captors managed to get him from Argentina to Israel. There had been speculation he was whisked away May 21 aboard a plane that had brought Israel's delegation to the Argentine independence anniversary celebration. On May 23 Prime Minister Ben-Gurion told an electrified Israeli parliament that Eichman was in Israeli hands.

HERTER ACCUSED BY MOSCOW OF MISLEADING U.S.

Pravda Attacks Secretary for His Expression of 'Disgust' with Khrushchev.

MOSCOW, June 7 (AP)— United States Secretary of State Christian Herter came in for severe criticism today as Pravda accused him of "again misleading the American people" in his comment on Soviet Premier Khrushchev's June 3 news conference.

"The Secretary of State," said the Soviet Communist party organ, "doesn't want to see or hear what's going on around him. For him no rules, no moral principles, only himself. Of course all the world knows his announced national policy of spying which is unprecedented in the history of diplomacy."

Pravda said Herter did not mention Khrushchev's disarmament proposals because he has "lost his balance due to the failure of the espionage activities. . . . He is trampling underfoot elementary standards of international law."

Herter issued a statement Saturday saying he was sure all Americans shared "the disgust I feel at the ill-tempered attacks" Khrushchev made on President Eisenhower. He said the Russian Premier was "seeking to divest himself of the responsibility—known to all the world—for the disruption of the Paris summit conference."

United States Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, who is soon to make a trip to Washington on what is described as "personal business," paid a courtesy call on Leonid Brezhnev, new President of the Soviet Union. Brezhnev succeeded to the post following the retirement of Marshal Klementi Y. Voroshilov last month.

PLAN YOUR OUTDOOR LIGHTING NOW
It's fun, it's easy with the new modern lighting fixtures!

1. FLOODLIGHTS
For play areas, general illumination, or lighting of trees, shrubbery, or buildings. Floods can easily be attached to buildings, poles, trees or low fixtures set in the ground. For area illumination, at least two opposite floods should be used to avoid harsh shadows.

2. AREA LIGHTS
For lighting patios, cooking areas, and dramatic garden illumination. Available in many styles, but usually in "mushroom" shape to direct light downward over the area. Place them among flower beds or in rock gardens for striking effects.

3. DECORATIVE LIGHTS
Many varieties, many shapes, many uses. You'll find beautiful post lanterns for your front yard, garden and walkways. External building lights to accent the structural beauty of your home. Spotlights are perfect to highlight statuary or fountains.

4. SAFETY LIGHTS
Give you protection against prowlers and accidents. Use them near all outdoor steps, along walkways, in dark areas near garages or outbuildings. They are especially attractive when set into walls, stairs, or buildings. Safety lights should be permanentiy installed.

THREE INDICTED, CHARGED WITH $33,394 CHECK FORGING SCHEME

Ike Turner, Jazz Musician, and Two Other Men Named by U.S. Grand Jury in East St. Louis.

Ike Turner, a jazz musician, and two other men have been indicted by a federal grand jury at East St. Louis in connection with an elaborate check forging scheme which allegedly brought them $33,394, the United States District Attorney's office at East St. Louis said today.

Indicted with Turner were John J. Hummel, a plumber, 6200 block of Scanlan avenue, and Howard Stennis of East St. Louis.

Stennis is Turner's business manager and chauffeur, authorities said.

All were charged with interstate transportation of a forged check.

The indictments were returned last Thursday, but were suppressed until Turner, who lives in the 3100 block of Virginia place, East St. Louis, and Hummel were arrested. Authorities are searching for Stennis, also known as Howard Kelly.

A woman formerly employed in a downtown St. Louis bank allegedly furnished the three men with the bank's signature cards and blank checks drawn on the accounts of business men, the indictment said.

The indictment said the woman was Miss Carol Jean Hagan, also known as Carol Jean Coleman, living in the 5900 block of Ferris avenue. She was termed a co-conspirator, but was not indicted.

A forged check would be made out to a fictitious person and deposited in another bank, it was charged. Later, one of the men, usually Hummel, would withdraw cash from the account established with the bogus check, the indictment said.

Hummel was arrested by St. Louis police when he went to the Bank of St. Louis to withdraw cash from an account he had established with a check for $8450. The bank had alerted police after discovering the check was forged.

A similar device was used at the First National Bank in St. Louis, the Union National Bank of East St. Louis and the First National Bank in East St. Louis, authorities said.

Turner was said by the district attorney's office to be the one who planned the scheme.

CONDEMNATION HEARING SET IN UNIVERSITY CITY

A public hearing in connection with reconsideration of condemnation of Green's Nursery for use as a University City park was set for June 20 at 7:30 p.m. by the University City Council last night.

Samuel Ladd, one of the owners of the 18½ acres at Blackberry and Gay avenues, requested the hearing. He told City Manager Charles T. Henry that he would propose that the city buy only seven acres for a park and grant approval for a subdivision on the remainder.

The city condemned the land about four years ago, but did not have the money to buy it at that time. Last year, voters defeated a bond issue to purchase the land. Ladd, who with Samuel Rich bought the property from Aubrey Green last year, asked the council in March for permission to subdivide the whole tract, but was turned down.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY BEGINS INQUIRY IN BRIDGE-BUILDING

A federal grand jury investigation into possible anti-trust violations in connection with the supplying of fabricated steel for bridges in the federal highway program in Missouri opened today in the Federal Building.

First witnesses were officers of steel fabricating firms that supplied the steel for the program. Appearing today were Frank C. Williamson of the Wilmar Steel Products Co., 109 West Jefferson avenue, Kirkwood, and John E. Doyle of Illinois Steel Bridge Co. at Jacksonville, Ill.

The grand jury investigation is concerned with the price paid for the steel, the cost of supplying it, records of bids submitted and to whom, and other related questions. The nine firms subpened also were asked to report on specific expense accounts.

Hearing on Riverfront Plan

ARTHUR F. SCHWARZ, City Plan Commission chairman, describing Lewis Kitchen plan for development of area overlooking Mississippi riverfront, at aldermanic committee hearing today.

Downtown Plan

posal would not be built until the motel planned by the stadium group is erected and operating, and then only if the additional motel appears economically feasible. If the motel is not built, an alternative use of the site will be found.

Kitchen Plan Favored.

The St. Louis Land Clearance Authority has made a study of the competing proposals, James T. Drought, deputy director of the municipal agency, testified.

"It is the considered opinion of the Land Clearance Authority that the Kitchen proposal will best serve the interest of the city of St. Louis in the objective of revitalizing the central core area," he reported. "The proposal takes optimum advantage of the area in terms of the nature and intensity of land use, as these are related to the central business district and the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial."

The hearing opened with testimony by supporters of the Kitchen plan. Arthur F. Schwarz, one of Kitchen's architects, termed the Mansion House project "an opportunity and a challenge."

"It is a challenge to help downtown become again a city for people both day and night," he declared. "It is a challenge to provide for gracious downtown living for which we were so famous in years past—the days of fine residential living, Tony Faust's restaurant, the Olympic Theater and the like."

Statement by Maestre.

Sidney Maestre, board chairman of Downtown in St. Louis, Inc., spoke for the directors, who have unanimously indorsed the Kitchen project. The directors, he said, believe that the basic difference between the competing plans is that Mansion House would provide more than 1000 apartments for permanent residents, while the Gateway project would provide about 900 hotel and motel rooms for transient guests.

"We sincerely believe that the best interests of downtown St. Louis would be served by the construction in this area of apartment units rather than the hotel or motel rooms," Maestre declared. "We feel this way because the site is one of the few truly desirable ones left in or near downtown for luxury apartments.

Another witness who spoke on behalf of the Kitchen plan was Morton D. May, president of the May Department Stores Co.

"While I think that both plans have merit and would be good for the city," he testified, "I strongly favor the Mansion House development proposed by Mr. Kitchen, as I think that bringing permanent dwellers into the downtown area is the most important single step in the revitalization of downtown St. Louis."

Soundness Defended.

Nooney argued that the soundness of his commercial project could not stand up against competition from the Gateway development. "I feel there can be no greater indorsement than this," he declared.

He said he considered downtown "a place to hold a job and make money," not a place for luxury living. The riverfront affords a view of barges, a freight yard and East Side packing plants, and this would not be acceptable as a residential view, he contended.

Nooney testified that conventional mortgage financing already is available for his project. He presented a letter from the New York firm of George W. Warnecke & Co. which announced that the company was considering $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 mortgage financing for the Gateway project.

Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn., is interested in financing the first office building in the Gateway project, Nooney continued. Nooney's firm, G. J. Nooney & Co., recently was appointed mortgage loan correspondent for Connecticut General in the St. Louis area.

Other Plan Needs FHA.

William A. Geary Jr., Nooney's attorney, asserted that Kitchen's project was wholly dependent upon financing by the Federal Housing Administration, in contrast to Nooney's private capital financing.

The Nooney group said the city's procedural ordinance may contain a serious deficiency and should be given a court test.

The ordinance provides that, once an area has been declared blgihted and a plan for its redevelopment has been adopted, no building permits are to be issued to owners of individuals parcels in the redevelopment area. If a redeveloper should start a project but be unable to carry it through to completion, Nooney contended, a 25-year prohibition against other improvements would perpetuate the blighted condition.

Damage Plan Question.

Geary questioned the adequacy of the liquidated damage provision in the ordinance. He said the bill calling for approval of the Kitchen project suggests a damage payment of $500 per month to the city in event of an unfinished development. The $2000 per month damages suggested by the bill for the Nooney project seem "more realistic," he declared.

W. C. Bernard, a Nooney associate, contended that the apartments proposed by Kitchen would have to compete for tenants with apartments in the Plaza project and in other parts of the city. "The net result would be a swap of purchasing power between various sections of the community," he asserted.

Nooney's architects, George Hellmuth and Gyo Obata, described the Gateway plan. Hellmuth called for formation of a group of disinterested experts to decide which proposal should be authorized.

Obata said the horizontal design of the Gateway project blended more with the vertical emphasis in the riverfront memorial, with its dominating arch, than the high-rise apartments in the Kitchen plan.

Owners of the 17-story Pierce Building, 112 North Fourth street, and the seven-story Collier Building, 508 North Fourth, asked that the buildings be excluded from the redevelopment plans. The redevelopers would raze the smaller structure but leave the other.

POPULATION GAIN SHOWN BY EAST SIDE

Preliminary census figures show the population of St. Clair county has increased by 57,854 and of Madison county by 41,127 since 1950, it was announced today.

The new population totals are 263,849 for St. Clair county, an increase of 28 per cent, and 223,307 for Madison county, a 23 per cent rise.

John Quirin, chairman of the St. Clair county board of supervisors, said most of the increase in his county occurred in Centreville and Caseyville townships, which adjoin East St. Louis. Belleville now has 37,073 residents, a 13 per cent increase, but East St. Louis has dropped from 82,300 to 81,453.

Madison county cities increased as follows: Alton, 32,-"4 to 42,438; Granite City, 29,-465 to 39,481; Collinsville, 12,902 to 14,260; Wood River, 10,190 to 11,076, and Edwardsville, 8776 to 10,135.

Several Kansas City officials, including Acting Mayor Tom Gavin, conferred in St. Louis today with Jack W. Traverse Jr., regional census director for Missouri and Arkansas. They are seeking a population recheck.

The Kansas City figure had been expected to pass 547,000, but preliminary census reports placed it at 468,325, an increase of fewer than 12,000 over the 1950 count.

A preliminary count of 700,876 for St. Louis county was announced today by Elmer L. Parker, census supervisor for the county. His office will finish its work Friday, and Parker said the final count undoubtedly would be higher. Total for the county in 1950 was 406,349.

POLICEMAN KILLS MAN, SAYS HE DREW A KNIFE

Probationary Patrolman Sought to Question Driver About Damaged Headlight.

William Galloway, 3925 Labadie avenue, was shot and killed early today in the 2900 block of Chouteau avenue by a policeman who sought to arrest him for questioning.

Probationary Patrolman James McCarthy of the Lucas avenue district said he fired one shot with his service revolver when Galloway suddenly turned toward him with an open pocket knife in his hand. The bullet struck Galloway, who was 24 years old, in the neck.

McCarthy said he was driving east on Chouteau in his one-man scout car about 4 a.m. when he observed Galloway's automobile speeding west on Chouteau. He noted that the right front headlight was damaged.

Making a quick U-turn, McCarthy started in pursuit. Galloway swung to the curb and he and a companion got out of the car. They began running, McCarthy said.

The policeman, who was in uniform, drew his revolver and ordered the men to halt. They stopped. He told them to place their hands on top of the automobile so he could search them, McCarthy reported.

Galloway's companion complied with the order, McCarthy said, but Galloway turned toward the policeman. McCarthy said he saw the open knife in Galloway's right hand.

After firing one shot, McCarthy radioed for assistance. Galloway was pronounced dead on arrival at City Hospital.

The other man identified himself as Otto Gordon, 54, of the 2900 block of Chouteau. He said he and Galloway had been drinking heavily, police reported.

Gordon was quoted as saying Galloway's machine has struck a street barricade at Jefferson and Clark avenues shortly before the shooting. The barricade was erected because of the wreckage of a building in the Mill Creek Valley land clearance project.

A small open knife was found on the sidewalk beside Galloway's body.

Police said Gordon told them he did not see Galloway draw the knife or McCarthy fire, because his back was turned.

Galloway had only a minor arrest record, having been arrested for disorderly conduct and on traffic charges.

IACONETTI ON TRIAL AGAIN ON WEIR MURDER CHARGE

Sam Iaconetti, University City tavern operator, went on trial for the second time today on a charge of murdering W. Victor Weir, president of St. Louis County Water Co., last Nov. 19. A mistrial was declared at the first trial last March.

The defense indicated it would seek to prove that Iaconetti was insane when he drew a pistol and shot Weir in Weir's private office at 8390 Delmar boulevard, University City. Defense attorney Charles M. Shaw told a jury of eight men and four women that he believed Iaconetti to be suffering from "schizaphrenia of the paranoid type."

The water company had foreclosed on a building at 6600 Delmar which contained Iaconetti's Club Varsity. Iaconetti had gone to Weir's office with his nephew, John Via, in an effort to halt the proceeding. Jurors at the trial were qualified for the death penalty by William W. Shaw, assistant prosecuting attorney.

CHILE SEEKS U.S. BLANKETS FOR VICTIMS OF EARTHQUAKE

WASHINGTON, June 7 (UPI) — Chile sent an appeal to the United States today for 20,000 blankets to help protect earthquake victims from winter cold in their devastated homeland.

The Chilean embassy received the appeal in a cablegram from its government. It was directed to the American Red Cross which said that 14,000 blankets already were being sent to Chile.

DR. MOORE STARTS EARLY, HOPES TO COVER 60 MILES

(Related article in Everyday Magazine.)

Dr. Barbara Moore made an unusually early start on her day's walk today, hitting the road without breakfast shortly after 3:30 a.m. at a point near Mineola, Mo., on U.S. Highway 40. Mineola is about 80 miles west of St. Louis.

She spent the night in a hotel at Warrenton, after being entertained by a civic committee and being given a dinner of her favorite vegetables. Mayor Harry McGee of Warrenton and the hotel owner, H. L. Heflin, met her yesterday and walked with her until she agreed to be their guest. Warrenton police drove her back to the starting point today.

She hoped to make 60 to 70 miles today and thereby make up some of the time lost yesterday when she took a side trip to Fulton. The Highway Patrol drove her there, seven miles south of Highway 40, to see Westminster College, where Winston Churchill spoke in 1946.

Her plans for the St. Louis area have not been decided, but she will not pause long on her coast-to-coast walk, from San Francisco to New York.

HOUSE GROUP TO CHECK STATE ROAD PROJECTS

Subcommittee to Look Into Twain Work, Condemnation of Excess Land.

BY JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Corespondent of The Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 7 — A special House subcomittee will make a preliminary investigation of the federal interstate highway program in Missouri, it was announced today.

The Post-Dispatch has disclosed that most of a $5,199,807 portion of the Mark Twain expressway in downtown St. Louis was constructed by builders other than the prime contractor, although Missouri Highway Department specifications require that the prime contractor perform not less than 50 per cent of the work "with his own organization."

The Post-Dispatch reports also that the State Highway department condemned more land than it needed for the right-of-way for the proposed circumferential expressway through Greenbriar Hills Country club. The excess land, 18 acres, was obtained with the intention of reselling it, it was learned.

Subcommittee sources said the preliminary investigation was prompted by the first of these disclosures. The House group is interested also in the condemnation matter, they added.

The subcomittee, headed by Representative John A. Blatnik (Dem.), Minnesota, has been looking into reports of cheating by some contractors and other reported abuses in the 40-billion-dollar interstate superhighway program.

The subcommittee spokesman said an investigator would be sent to Missouri to check into the matters disclosed by the Post-Dispatch. He added that he could not say when the inquiry would begin, other than it would be in the "near future."

Representative Thomas B. Curtis (Rep.), Webster Groves, had said last week that he would ask the Blatnik subcommittee to investigate the highway program in Missouri.

Blatnik, it was learned, conferred yesterday with Walter R. May, chief counsel of the subcommittee, and it was decided then to make the preliminary inquiry as soon as a staff investigator is available to go to Missouri.

3,898,000 CUT FROM MINIMUM WAGE MEASURE

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee voted today against bringing 3,898,000 employes in smaller retail stores and service establishments under the minimum wage bill.

The move was supported by the bulk of the Democrats and Republicans on the committee. Sponsors of the legislation said the cutback was necessary to get the measure in shape so that it would have a chance of enactment this year.

As it emerged from subcommittee last year, the Senate version of the legislation would have brought an additional 10,731,000 workers under the wages and hours law. Today's vote reduced this to 6,833,000 and other cutback proposals are pending.

Three-month Delay.

The committee finally got down to work on the legislation again after more than three months of delay. The group spent the two-hour session discussing coverage and did not take any action on the wage floor. The subcommittee bill would raise the present $1 figure to $1.25 in two steps.

The committee is to meet again tomorrow. Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts, chairman of the subcommittee which wrote the bill, said he felt "moderate progress" was made today.

Republicans opposing the bill had said before the session they had numerous amendments and expected the committee consideration to take a long time.

A Senate subcommittee voted to add more than $600,000,000 to the defense appropriation bill passed by the House. The additional funds include $293,000,000 to begin building another big aircraft carrier for the Navy.

Senator Dennis Chavez (Dem.), New Mexico, chairman of the Defense Appropriations subcommittee, announced these tentative increases over the House bill which carried a total of more than 39 billion dollars.

Chavez said his group also knocked out a House provision for a 3 per cent cutback in buying of aircraft, missiles and submaries. The Administration had asked this change, which had the effect of adding about $400,000,000 to the bill.

The House Judiciary Committee approved a bill creating 35 new federal judgships to relieve overcrowded courts. Chairman Emanuel Celler (Dem.), New York, said he was quite sure the House will approved the compromise bill which resulted from a pledge by Attorney General William P. Rogers that the Republican Administration would appoint "genuine" Democrats to half the new judgeships.

Issue of Junk Mail.

The Senate voted 49 to 25 yesterday to insist on eliminating from a money bill language which some Senators contended could lead to a flood of congressional junk mail.

The action was taken over the protest of Senator A. Willis Robertson (Dem.), Virginia, who told his colleagues the House was adamant on keeping the disputed language.

Robertson said a stalemate on the bill could lead to the closing down of the nation's post offices July 1. Other Senators asserted this never would happen.

The Senate by voice vote asked for another conference. It instructed Robertson and the other Senate conferees to try again to eliminate the controversial provision. The language states that funds for the Post Office Department shall be construed to cover expenses of delivering congressional frank mail "as now authorized by law."

Senator John J. Williams (Rep.), Delaware, and others argued that the provision was intended to put pressure on the Postmaster General to permit members of Congress to send out free mailings to all householders not listed by name in cities. This privilege now is available for mailings on rural routes, but not in cities.

Aid for Shipping.

Both the House and Senate yesterday passed bills carrying new subsidy benefits for American shipbuilders and shipping operators.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a measure boosting the ceiling on the construction subsidy paid United States shipbuilders from 50 to 55 per cent of the cost of a vessel. The Senate debated an identical bill, but put over final action until today.

The House also passed a bill which would let ship operators reduce their annual payments on their vessels by spreading depreciation and amortization charges over 25 years instead of 20 as at present. The Senate later in the day passed this House measure, but sent it back there with a minor amendment.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill authorizing the Government to advance money to prevent defaults on Government-insured ship mortgages.

The House passed and sent back to the Senate a bill to permit non-subsidized ship operators to trade in their vessels for better ones in the reserve fleet.

Legislation increasing special compensation rates for certain service-connected disabled veterans was passed yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

It would provide a new rate of $256 monthly for veterans rated totally disabled and who are permanently housebound. The present rate is $225.

A companion bill sent to the Senate would permit Indian and Spanish-American War veterans to receive the same compensation payable to other veterans whose disabilities require them to have a full-time attendant.

House passage sent to the Senate yesterday a bill increasing from $575,000,000 to $725,000,00 the amount of loans that may be made by the Small Business Administration. The SBA estimated that the existing ceiling on its lending authority would be reached in the coming fiscal year.

Announcing Mercantile's New Insured

Cash-for-College LOAN PLAN

. . . for Parents Whose Children Need Immediate Funds for Education

Assure your child's future with this low-cost, convenient method of guaranteeing the money needed for education at any school or college!

Today a college education is more essential than ever before. Yet the cost of sending a youngster to college has never been higher. To help solve this problem for parents, Mercantile Trust Company has developed its insured Cash-for-College Loan Plan.

At Mercantile, this new Plan provides a means for borrowing money for tuition charges and other costs of education for one, two, three or four years . . . up to $10,000. Our Plan lets you spread your payments over a longer period than the course of study. You may, for example, take up to six years to pay for four years of education.

Life insurance protection for the unpaid balance of the loan is included at no additional cost and without medical examination!

One of the most remarkable features of the Plan is that the death of a parent will not end the child's opportunity for an education. In this event, Mercantile's Cash-for-College Loan Plan combines unique trust and insurance features which provide payments for the contemplated course of education.

Our Plan also applies to those who wish to borrow for educational costs at private or preparatory schools below the college level, as well as for post-graduate study.

You may apply for a Cash-for-College Loan in our Installment Loan Department, fourth floor, Seventh Street building. Come in, write or phone CEntral 1-3500 for your application. Or, if you prefer, send for our free folder which gives complete information about this plan, or stop by and discuss the matter with us, without obligation.

150 TO TESTIFY IN PHILIP FOLEY U.S. TAX TRIAL

Testimony in the trial of Philip A. Foley, St. Louis county lawyer and politician, on charges of federal income tax evasion was resumed today before a jury in the court of United States District Judge Roy W. Harper.

The Government nas subpenaed 150 witnesses, many of them clients of Foley's, in an effort to show that the attorney evaded payment of about $1097 in 1952 and $1955 in 1953.

First witness today was John F. Molloy, former Internal Revenue agent and one of Foley's lawyers. Molloy testified for the Government that he prepared an amended return for Foley for the year 1952. He said it was based on information supplied by Foley.

Half-brother Testifies.

Another witness was the defendant's half-brother, Anthony J. Foley, cashier of a hotel at Las Vegas, Nev., who testified he prepared Philip Foley's income tax return for the year 1952. He said he used information furnished by the defendant in its preparation.

Records of the First National Bank at Clayton, showing transactions in Philip Foley's account also were introduced.

An important witness for the Government is Roy T. Graham, county bondsman. Assistant United States Attorney Frederick Mayer told the jury yesterday Graham would testifiy that he paid Foley $2837 in 1952 and $3154 in 1953 for legal services.

Checks Never Deposited.

Mayer said the payments were in the form of checks that Graham cashed, but the proceeds were never placed in Foley's bank account. Mayer added that bank records would show that Foley wrote checks for person expenses amounting to almost twice the income he declared for the two years in question.

Foley is charged with reporting net income of $4053 in 1952 when his actual income was allegedly $8684. In the following year, the Government charged, he reported net income of $4231 when his true income was $11,805.

Mayer told the jury Foley's income consisted mainly of fees paid by clients and rents paid by lawyers who leased space in his office. He said Foley did not report the rentals or claim expenses for maintaining the office.

United States Attorney William H. Webster is taking an active part in the prosecution.

Foley is represented by Morris A. Shenker, Sidney Glazer and Molloy.

Denies Intent to Defraud.

Shenker told the jury his client had no intention of defrauding the Internal Revenue Service. He said Foley kept "skimpy" records and had little knowledge of accounting or bookkeeping procedures.

First prosecution witness was Joseph W. Daly, chief of the taxpayers' collection branch of the IRS, who identified Foley's returns and testified Foley had been issued a permit to represent clients on tax hearings before administrative bodies of the IRS.

YOUTH ADMITS HE ROBBED SAME PLACE THREE TIMES

Herman Bowman, 17 years old, 1900 block of Goode avenue, was arrested yesterday and admitted three recent robberies of a grocery operated by Max Gitel at 3537 North Taylor avenue, police reported.

Bowman was arrested in the 4200 block of Easton avenue on the basis of a description furnished by Gitel. Gitel had said the robber, although appearing of high school age, wore a slight mustache. Gitel also said the youth had a mole on one cheek.

Although Bowman at first denied the robberies, he later admitted taking $70 from the store's cash register and $20 from a bakery salesman in the store last April 9. He also admitted getting $90 on May 20 and $70 on May 27. Warrants are being sought.

YOUTH IN STOLEN CAR CAUGHT AFTER TRAFFIC VIOLATION

An 18-year-old youth was captured a short time after stealing an automobile last night when he was arrested for driving the wrong way in a one-way alley, police reported.

The arrest was made in an alley behind the 4900 block of Lindell boulevard by Patrolman Thomas Rowane. The youth, who identified himself as Solomon Stevenson, 2300 block of Cass avenue, said he stole the car in the 2700 block of Howard street.

The keys had been left in the ignition, police said. The automobile had been parked by Monte Schuff, 5577 Wells avenue, an insurance agent.

Disarmament

their proposal in its new form, the spokesman said: "Any deviation from the French government's solidarity with her Western partners in these negotiations is absolutely out of the question."

(As the conference opened, the United States urged in a note to Russia that efforts be "redoubled" to find a formula for world disarmament.

(The note, in reply to a letter from Khrushchev to President Eisenhower transmitting the Soviet Premier's latest ideas on disarmament, promised to give "most careful and serious study" to Khrushchev's plan. At the same time, it expressed hope that Russia would give equal "constructive attention" to Western disarmament proposals.)

Western officials see little hope of agreement if the Russians insist as rigidly on the main provisions of the new plan as they did on Khrushchev's first proposal.

Western doubts centered on the initial phase of Khrushchev's plan, which would begin by destroying all means of delivering nuclear weapons and liquidating all foreign bases.

They saw in this an attempt to nullify the Western nuclear deterrent to Communist aggression. Ormsby-Gore said on arrival here yesterday that the first stage of the Soviet plan was not "properly balanced." To be acceptable disarmament must "not give anybody a military advantage at any stage," he said.

Sees Hope in Soviet Plan.

"But there seems to be some hope," Ormsby-Gore added, "in the fact that the Russians have incorporated several Western views in various phases of their new disarmament plan. This is worth careful exploration."

United States officials expressed encouragement over apparent recognition by the Russians of the need after disarmament for an international peace force, which the West insists is necessary. The Russians hedged, however, by providing for control of such a force by the Security Council, where the big power veto operates.

Khrushchev's provisions for a control organization were considerably more detailed than previous Soviet disarmament proposals and seemed to adopt a number of Western ideas. There still seemed to be room for plenty of discussion of the control organizations powers and makeup.

Ormsby-Gore said the West had no intention of submitting a new plan at Geneva "because we think the old Western plan is still good."

The Western plan, cold-shouldered by the Russians before the talks adjourned in April, called for carefully controlled disarament in three gradual stages. A start toward nuclear disarmament would not be made until the second stage, after East-West parity in conventional arms was established and thorough supervision and safeguards against surprise attack were in operation.

Red China Supports New Soviet Arms Proposals.

TOKYO, June 7 (AP)—Communist China announced officially yesterday that it supports the new Soviet disarmament proposals handed out in Moscow last Thursday.

A government statement broadcast by Peiping radio said the Soviet proposals for general and complete disarmament "constitute another effort made by the Soviet government in striving for the realization of disarmament. The government of the People's Republic of China supports these proposals of the Soviet government."

Text of U.S. Note on Disarmament Proposals.

WASHINGTON, June 7 (UPI) —Following is the text of a United States note on disarmament delivered in Moscow today:

"The Government of the United States of America will give most careful and serious study to the disarmament proposals transmitted by the letter of June 2 from the chairman of the Council of Ministers to the President of the United States.

"The United States agrees that the proper place for detailed examination of this proposal is the 10-nation disarmament committee which resumes on June 7 in Geneva. It is the hope of the United States that the Soviet Union will give the same careful and constructive attention to the Western plan of March 16.

"The United States believes that progress in disarmament is of overwhelming importance to the future security of all countries and that efforts must be redoubled to find ways to make a start on the control and balanced reduction of armaments. The United States representative in Geneva will participate in the negotiations in this spirit."

Tokyo

an airport sitdown, it would bring out 50,000 members to demonstrate at the airport and at the United States embassy against Mr. Eisenhower's arrival.

The leftist labor federation Sohyo is planning to turn out more thousands wearing black armbands and carrying black flags.

"If Eisenhower forces his way in spite of our warning," said a statement by leaders of the student federation, "he will be forced to tremble before hosts of hostile demonstrators."

The statment charged Mr. Eisenhower was coming to prop up Kishi's government and declared, "We will never admit this vicious intrigue of international imperialists."

Federation leaders said the government's efforts to depict Mr. Eisenhower as a guest of Emperor Hirohito and not of Kishi were a pretext. They said they would have no hesitancy in being disrespectful to the Emperor—with whom Mr. Eisenhower is to ride from the airport into the city—"if he is utilized for Eisenhower's visit here."

Kishi's Liberal-Democratic party majority in the lower house of parliament pushed through ratification of the security treaty on May 20 after seven hours of violent physical clashes with the Socialists. The ratification automatically takes effect June 19, the day Mr. Eisenhower is scheduled to arrive, unless the upper house approves the treaty earlier or the Socialists can force dissolution of Parliament.

Resignations Given.

In an effort to whip up enough public sentiment to force dissolution, the 125-member Socialist minority in the lower house gave their resignations yesterday to party chairman Inejiro Asanuma. He said he would file them "at an opportune time."

Apparently trying to divorce the Eisenhower visit from the controversy over the treaty, the Liberal Democrats appealed to the Socialists today to agree to a 10-day recess of Parliament. This would delay validation of the treaty another 10 days, until June 29.

The Socialists said they would only accept a recess as a prelude to resignation of Kishi's government.

The suggestion from Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.) of Arkansas, chairman of the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee, that the President postpone his visit drew the expected Socialist approval.

Still Room for Revision.

Foreign Minister Fujiyama told a news conference the United States and Japanese Governments were going ahead with preparations for the visit but "there may be still room for serious re-study if such is made necessary by the objective situation, particularly the security situation."

By United Press International.

A new student organization has sprung up in Japan with an "I Like Ike" label. It, too, is called Zengakuren but is translated into "Federation of Good Behaving Students Associations."

Toryu Kijima, a close associate of Kishi, organized the new group. He said it contained 100,000 members "thankful for the generosity of the American Government."

The new Zeng-akuren has printed 500,000 red, white and blue posters which will be pasted throughout Tokyo and proclaim "Welcome Ike" and "We Like Eisenhower."

Big Filipino Union Plans Anti-U.S. Demonstration.

MANILA, June 7 (UPI) — The Philippines' largest labor union announced today it would hold a protest demonstration when President Eisenhower arrives in Manila June 14.

The national labor confederation, which claims a membership of 400,000, said its executive board decided last night "to air the Filipinio people's grievances against the United States in connection with United States foreign policy toward the Philippines."

Mayor Arsenio Lacson of Manila promptly declared "there will be no demonstration. I have ordered the chief of police to arrest any and all who attempt to carry out this proposed demonstration."

Herter

in a war that did not concern Japan.

Japanese Assent.

He added, however, that the United States forces "presumably could be moved elsewhere," the Japanese assent being required only when Japanese bases were to be used for continuing operations.

Herter said emphatically that the United States considers the Japanese ratification "entirely legal" despite the protests and riots in Japan.

He pointed out that the lower house of the Japanese Diet had approved the treaty 248 to 0. He said this was a "clear majority of the 467 members."

Herter stressed the lawless tactics used by the Socialist opposition in locking up the Speaker of the House for six hours the previous day. The treaty finally was brought to a vote early the morning of May 20. Herter said Socialists and the lone Communist abstained voluntarily.

Limit of Dissent.

Without minimizing the seriousness of the disturbances since then, Herter said they were limited to Socialists, Communists, trade unionists and student organizations.

"There was no report of spontaneous public participation," Herter said. "We are confident that the great majority of the Japanese people support a long-term relation with the United States."

John N. Irwin II, assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs, said Japan's national defense forces now total about 215,000 men, including 165,000 in the army, 24,000 in the air force, and 23,000 in the navy.

He said no one considered this strength adequate to defend Japan against a major attack without outside help.

By the Associated Press.

In an interview before the hearing Fulbright suggested that "perhaps it might be wise for the President to consider a deferral of his visit until fall."

He said a delay might be in order both because of the demonstrations in Japan and because the approaching adjournment of Congress may confront Mr. Eisenhower with a stack of legislation to be considered.

Senator George A. Aiken (Rep.), Vermont, took a different View. He said, in a separate interview, that only a minor percentage of the Japanese people are opposed to the treaty and a lesser percentage to the President's visit.

"I think the decision probably should be left to the Japanese government," Aiken said. "If the President doesn't go it will provide new propaganda fuel for (Soviet Premier) Khrushchev. I'm sure the Japanese government wouldn't want the President to come if they didn't have the situation in hand."

Fulbright said he was not giving advice to the President and the decision was one for him to make in consultation with the Japanese Government.

Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, told the Senate he felt impelled to point out that circumstances had changed drastically since the Eisenhower trip first was planned.

In the intervening period, the Senator said, the changes have been such as to make him feel "concerned" about the President's trip.

He said United States-Soviet relations have dropped to the lowest point since the end of the Korean fighting, the Syngman Rhee government in Korea has fallen and efforts are under way to get the new one established, and demonstrations and strikes have occurred in Japan in opposition to the United States-Japanese treaty.

Senator Warren G. Magnuson (Dem.), of Washington read the Senate a letter from a business friend in Japan suggesting postponement of the President's trip.

Magnuson did not identify the writer, other than to say he had known the man for years as a leader in Japanese business life.

The writer said a great majority of the Japanese looked forward to an Eisenhower visit in "a rapture of delight" and favor the treaty. He suggested because of the recent demonstrations it might be well to delay the visit.

Earlier, Senator John Stennis (Dem.), Mississippi, had voiced concern about the trip.

Fulbright, in talking with reporters after the closed-door meeting with Herter today, said, "I got the impression the President will go to Japan."

Fulbright said Herter made a proviso that if the Japanese Government should ask for a delay, Mr. Eisenhower would defer to its wishes. The Senator said it is his understanding the Japanese Government has sent "assurances it can provide adequate security to the President."

"I think it is unfortunately for the head of a state to visit any country when there is dissent, even by small groups," Fulbright said. He noted, however, that last year when Premier Khrushchev visited the United States theer had been a number of dissenting groups throughout the country.

Fulbright repeated that the explanation of Herter and his staff of State Department aids on the reasons for Mr. Eisenhower to go ahead with the trip had "been very persuasive."

data but would not appear before the new grand jury.

Eagelton explained that not all school witnesses heard by the old jury would have to repeat their testimony before the new jury. He estimated only one day would be needed to bring the June term grand jury up to date on the inquiry. He said it would hear witnesses next Friday after a briefing by Special Assistant Circuit Attorney Henry J. Fredericks.

GRAND JURY IMPANELED WITHOUT SPECIAL CHARGE

CONGRESS VOTES TO BOOST COST OF GOING BANKRUPT

WASHINGTON, June 7 (UPI) —Inflation has caught up with the cost of going bankrupt.

The House passed and sent to the White House yesterday legislation doubling the closing fee paid to a trustee in a no-asset case of bankruptcy handled by a federal court.

The Houset Judiciary Committee said the old $5 fee established 62 years ago was not high enough to obtain "conscientious and diligent trustees." The legislation would increase the fee to $10.

THREE ARE CHARGED IN BOGUS BILL CASE

Warrants charging two men and a woman with passing a counterfeit $20 bill were issued here today by United States Commissioner Irvin H. Gamble.

Named in the warrants were Stanley King, 27 years old, a former convict living in the 1200 block of Benton street; Wallace Knott, 25, 8100 block of North Broadway, and Miss Angelia Gay Taylor, 18, 1800 block of Montgomery street.

King, Knott, Miss Taylor and another woman were identified, police said, as members of a group which passed four bogus bills last night at the Chain of Rocks Fun Fair park, 10783 Lookaway drive.

The second woman was Miss Margaret Irene Stout, 21, 2200 block of Benton. She was released after officials concluded she had not known of the group's plans.

A description of their automobile was broadcast last night shortly after the bogus bills were discovered at the north St. Louis park. Pine Lawn police arrested the four after receiving the message.

The suspects were turned over to the Ruskin avenue police district. A short time later, Pine Lawn police received a report that a counterfeit bill, similar to those found at the amusement park, had been passed at a Pine Lawn tavern.

Police said Miss Taylor was identified as the woman who attempted to pass a counterfeit $20 bill last Saturday at a tavern in the 6200 block of North Broadway. Another bill was passed Saturday at a sandwich shop at 6409 Natural Bridge avenue.

Knott had $255 in his pockets when arrested and King had $46. However, none of the group had any counterfeit money, police reported.

20 Major Industrial Centers Put on Chronic Jobless List

WASHINGTON, June 7 (UPI) —The Government yesterday placed 20 major industrial centers and 71 smaller areas on a special new list of cities hardest hit by long-term unemployment.

Labor Department officials said areas on the "worst-off" list might be in line for additional federal aid to help them make an economic comeback.

The Bureau of Employment Security issued the list in line with the Eisenhower Administration's definition of a depressed community. It said their plight stemmed chiefly from declines in area industries such as coal mining, textiles, machinery or automobiles.

Illinois communities listed were Centralia, Harrisburg, Herrin-Murphysboro - West Frankfort and Mount Vernon. Flat River was the only Missouri community on the list.

Major areas on the list included Detroit, Providence, R.I., Evansville and Terre Haute, Ind., Atlantic City, N. J., Charleston, Huntington-Ashland and Wheeling, W. Va.

Others were Fall River, Lawrence, Lowell and New Bedford, Mass., Altoona, Erie, Johnstown, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre-Hazleton, Pa., and the Puerto Rican cities of Mayaguez, Ponce and San Juan.

Towns in the coal-mining regions of Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Illinois and West Virginia dominated the list of smaller areas spotlighted by yesterday's report.

The formula used to classify the distressed cities was the same one used in the compromise depressed areas legislation backed by the Administration. That measure died on the vine and President Eisenhower vetoed a rival Democratic-backed bill on grounds that it would squander taxpayers' money.

To qualify, a city must have had an annual average unemployment rate at least 50 per cent above the United States average for three of the preceding four years, 75 per cent above the United States average for two of the three preceding years and double the national rate for one of the two past years.

It also must have unemployment of 6 per cent or more currently with no immediate prospect of improvement.

Meantime, the Labor Department added two major production areas, New Britain, Conn. and Battle Creek, Mich., to its regular list of areas with "substantial" joblessness. The total for May was 35, up two from last March.

The Davenport - Rock Island - Moline area on the Iowa-Illinois border and Kalamazoo, Mich., and Canton, O., were shifted from the low unemployment category to another indicating "moderate" unemployment.

Convicted of Murder.

PRETORIA, South Africa, June 7 (UPI)—A court yesterday convicted Hendrik J. Graham, a 23-year-old white farmer, on charges of fatally beating his 40-year-old Negro maid and sentenced him to be hanged. He pleaded not guilty, claiming the woman was killed by someone else.

CHIPERFIELD, AID SPENT $1358 IN 10 DAYS ON TRIP

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Copyright 1960.

WASHINGTON, June 7—Representative Robert Chiperfield (Rep.), Illinois, and an aid spent $1358 in taxpayers' money in 10 days in Venezuela, El Salvador and Mexico on a 1957 study mission. Since he was not obliged to account for it in any detail then, today he cannot tell how he spent it.

However, his trip provides the public for the first time a picture of how a Congressman draws down foreign currency from American embassies and spends it overseas.

Under the mutual security law, Congressmen armed with a letter from their committee chairman can draw unlimited quantities of certain foreign currencies held by the United States overseas. These are known as counterpart funds.

Chiperfield is the ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee. When he and Franklin Schupp, a committee aid, went to South America on their 1957 study mission, the American embassies in the countries they visited had no "counterpart" funds.

Congress Billed.

To finance the Chiperfield studies, the embassies used dollars to purchase foreign money for this purpose. Later the State Department billed Congress for the dollars it lost this way—and when the House Foreign Affairs Committee paid the bill the records came to rest in the expense account of the House.

Records available in the House Disbursing Office before they were sealed from the public last week show that the trip, including travel, cost the public at least $2446. More than half the funds expended were in local currencies obtained under the unique congressional "banking" arrangements with the United Sttaes embassies abroad.

Chiperfield and Schupp were not required to tell the State Department how they spent the foreign currency. Since they did not have to make an accounting then, both men have a difficult time explaining today where those funds went.

"It was used for just normal expenses and some travel," says Chiperfield. "I can't describe exactly, I don't know if there are any bills or receipts any place. I didn't handle the money. Mr. Schupp did that. That's what he was along for."

No Evidence in Files.

Schupp estimated that the funds went for "hotels, meals, transportation." But he could find no documentary evidence in his files and did not recall exact amounts.

Along with Chiperfield and Schupp on this study mission abroad was Herbert Poole, a Boston food broker who was a college friend of Chiperfield. All three members of the group agreed that Poole paid all his own bills along the way.

Chiperfield says he agrees that loose accounting procedures are open to possible abuse.

"I certainly think there should be an accounting of what funds were spent for and why," he says.

Chiperfield, however, was a member of a House Conference Committee which just last month beat down a Senate proposal to require an individual public accounting for counterpart spending.

FORMER CONVICT IS HELD IN SAVINGS, LOAN HOLDUP

James Leroy Cochran, an ex-convict, was held on suspicion of robbery today after two employes of Roosevelt Federal Savings & Loan Co. reportedly identified him as the man who took $800 in a holdup May 27.

The holdup man entered the office at 2132 East Grand avenue and inquired about a loan, then drew a revolver and forced Manager Harry Walther to put money into a bag.

Cochran was arrested yesterday by detectives who entered an apartment in the 4900 block of Bulwer avenue and found him hiding in a closet. A revolver was found in a dresser drawer. Two women who were in the apartment at the time were held for questioning.

3-YEAR-OLD GIRL HURT WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Terry Nemuth, 3 - year - old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Nemuth, 5323 Gilson avenue, suffered a fractured skull yesterday when she was struck by an automobile in front of her home.

The driver, Mrs. Shirley Junghans, 4536 Eichelberger street, told police she was going north on Gilson when the child suddenly darted into the street. Mrs. Junghans was unable to stop in time to avoid the accident, she said. The child was taken to City Hospital.

POPULATION LOSS OF 100,000 INDICATED IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—A 1960 population of 7,700,000 was indicated for New York City—about 100,000 fewer than three years ago.

A special count by the Federal Census Bureau in 1957 gave the city a population of 7,795,471. The 1950 census showed a population of 7,891,957.

Arthur F. Young, regional director of the census, said that thus far 7,635,000 New Yorkers have been counted. The census is still incomplete in about 300 areas.

The population drop is 1.8 per cent since 1957 and three per cent since 1950 under the figure forecast by Young. He described the loss as "relatively light" compared with other large cities.

The 17-county metropolitan area rose 12.2 per cent from 12,911,994 in 1950 to 14,586,519 in 1960.

FIVE YOUTHS HELD IN FOUR RECENT HOLDUPS

Four recent holdups have been cleared up with the arrest of five youths, police reported today. Amounts ranging from $25 to $300 were obtained in the robberies.

Those under arrest identified themselves as Henry F. Tettamble, 18 years old, 2800 block of Indiana avenue; William H. Bethel, 17, 3300 block of Oregon avenue; John L. Smith, 22, 2700 block of Arsenal street; Francis Quinn, 18, 1900 block of Senate street, and Lawrence H. Williams, 18, 1200 block of Grattan street.

Information leading to the arrests was obtained by police after a $25 holdup of Miss Theresa Sievers May 23 in her confectionery at 1958 Withnell avenue. All those under arrest admit participation in at least one of the robberies, police said.

Police said Tettamble admitted carrying a sawed-off shotgun in a holdup May 22 at the Regal Bowling Lanes, 6409 Michigan avenue. He and two companions admitted obtaining $300 from eight persons in the robbery, police reported.

The other robberies were of a food store at 4105 South Grand boulevard on May 5 and a Carondelet bus driver at Primm street and Michigan avenue May 13.

Edsel Eidson, Tulsa (Okla.) salesman, was beaten and robbed by two men early today in the 4100 block of Washington boulevard, he reported to police. The robbers stole his watch and $2, he said. Eidson was treated at City Hospital for an injured jaw.

William Harris, 315 North Sixteenth street, East St. Louis, reported he was knocked down and robbed of $14 by two men early today in the 800 block of North Leffingwell avenue.

EAST SIDE BOY INDICTED IN DEATH OF HIS FATHER

David L. Fisher, 16 years old, was charged with the murder of his father in an indictment returned by the Madison county circuit court grand jury, it was disclosed yesterday.

The youth signed a statement at the time of his arrest admitting he shot his father, George Fisher, three times last March 21 in their rural home about five miles north of Granite City. He said he did not like his father. He pleaded not guilty at arraignment yesterday before Circuit Judge Harold Clark at Edwardsville.

Three young men were charged with a burglary last May 6 at Edwardsville Senior High School. They are Earl J. Goodrich, 20, Kankakee, Ill.; Perry F. Alberry Jr., 21, Ottawa, and Robert J. Kocurek, 19, Ottawa. They pleaded not guilty at arraignment.

SUMMERFIELD ACCUSED OF BEING ANTI-RAILROAD

WASHINGTON, June 7 (UPI)—Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield came under fire yesterday before two congressional committees as favoring trucks and airplanes to carry the mail at the expense of railroads.

Representative Glenn Cunningham (Rep.), Nebraska, said Summerfield has exceeded his authority in expanding the "airlift" of first-class mail with only 4 cents postage on it. He said Congress should pass his bill to forbid sending letters by air unless they carry 7-cent airmail postage. In testimony before a House Post Office subcommittee, Cunningham said the airlift costs more and does not speed delivery.

Testifying before the Senate Commerce Committee, Paul A. Rasmussen, chairman of the Minnesota State Railroad and Warehouse Commission, said the Post Office Department was "short-sighted" in shifting mail from railroads to motor vehicles. Rasmussen said the Post Office has been "very arbitrary" in taking mail contracts away from railroads and warned it could lead to discontinuance of passenger trains.

LICENSES OF THREE TAVERNS REVOKED

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 7—Revocation of the state licenses of three St. Louis area taverns and suspension of three others for violation of liquor control regulations were announced last night by Hollis M. Ketchum, supervisor of liquor control.

The revocations were ordered against the following licenseholders:

Sam Andrew Galati Jr., 1466 South Grand boulevard, on charges of gambling and closing violations, license revoked effective June 20.

John Carenza Jr., Tornado Inn, 9201 South Broadway, Lemay, charge of gambling and loitering of police characters, effective June 20.

Leo Becos, Rico's, 1805 Washington avenue, conviction of selling intoxicating liquor on Sunday, license revoked immediately.

Suspensions were:

MISSOURI UNEMPLOYMENT PAYMENTS TOTAL $3,201,148

JEFFERSON CITY, June 7 (UPI)—Unemployment payments last month totaled $3,201,148, the Missouri Division of Employment Security reported today.

This was 52 per cent more than the $2,102,123 paid out in May 1959, but was 17 per cent less than the $3,877,622 which jobless workers received in April of this year.

J. E. Taylor, director, said initial claims, which usually reflect new unemployment, increased 44 per cent as compared with a year ago. Total claims rose 39 per cent in the one-year period, Taylor reported. The average weekly benefit check last month was $26.04, a decline of 77 cents from April payments but up $1.69 from May 1959.

RICHMOND HEIGHTS STOPS CRITICIZED

Richmond Heights has many unnecessary stop signs of the type which encourage violations and "make criminals out of otherwise law-abiding citizens," Daniel J. Hanson, St. Louis county traffic commissioner, asserted in a report made public last night.

The report urged that 33 of the 59 stop signs at 25 intersections be eliminated.

"A speed limit of 15 or 20 miles per hour commands voluntary obedience from very few motorist," Hanson continued. "Residential speed limits should not be less than 25 miles per hour, and speed limits on major streets should not be less than 30."

Installation of electric traffic signals at eight intersections should be given priority, the report stated, and 15 streets should be made "through streets," giving motorists right of way. The report, result of a study made by the county traffic division, was taken under advisement by the Richmond Heights city council.

Hanson emphasized that excessive and unwarranted use of stop signs produces disrespect for traffic control devices in general and makes enforcement "practically hopeless."

To test the degree of respect for stop signs in Richmond Heights, a watch was made of traffic at 11 intersections. Of 7616 vehicles observed, only 976, or 13 per cent, made a complete stop, it was reported.

The economic waste involved in halting automobiles at one unnecessary stop amounts to $27,000 a year, Hanson declared. He was referring to the stop for northbound vehicles on McCutcheon road at the Clayton road intersection.

An overabundance of stop signs throughout the metropolitan area has produced "the St. Louis stop," Hanson declared.

"The St. Louis stop is a driver technique unique to this area of the country," he explained. "The St. Louis motorist has developed a maneuver particularly adapted to four-way stop locations whereby he slows down enough to avoid any vehicle in the intersection, but then barges forward before another motorist can usurp the right of way."

INDICTED FOR ATTEMPTED BRIBERY IN BERRY TRIAL

Terry Thweatt of Granite City was charged with attempted bribery of a juror in an indictment by a Madison county circuit court grand jury, made public yesterday.

Thweatt allegedly offered money to a prospective juror in the burglary trial of Marvin Dale Berry in Madison county circuit court. The man, who was not selected for the Berry jury, said he was offered money if he would vote for acquittal.

Berry, a St. Louis hoodlum, was convicted. The indictment had been returned last Wednesday, but was suppressed until Thweatt was arranged yesterday before Circuit Judge Harold Clark at Edwardsville. He entered a plea of not guilty.

DELAYED PROJECT TO HOUSE ELDERLY

The Cedar Lodge apartment building at 3450 Russell boulevard will be completed as a residence for senior citizens under an agreement announced today in circuit court. Original investors in the project will receive only about 10 per cent of their investment.

Sixty-five members of the Christian Science faith raised $200,000 for the six-story building which was to have been a co-operative apartment. Work was halted in March 1957 when the investors ran out of money with the building only half complete.

Elliott P. Koenig, court-appointed trustee, said the building will be purchased by Benard H. Tureen, owner of four St. Louis hotels, for $185,000. Tureen made a $5000 earnest money deposit with Ray H. Dilschneider, general contractor on the project, to secure the agreement.

Dilschneider and other contractors who worked on the building have agreed to accept 55 per cent as settlement of $286,000 in mechanic's liens they had filed against the incompleted building, Koenig said.

Sylvan Agatstein, attorney for Tureen, said the hotel owner planned to spend an additional $250,000 to complete the building.

Some of the $185,000 to be paid by Tureen will go for payment of real estate commissions and delinquent taxes.

Circuit Judge William H. Killoren, in whose court the mechanic's liens were being handled, passed the case until September so that details of the agreement could be worked out. Tureen has until Aug. 31 to exercise his option to make the purchase.

United States Attorney William Webster, who represents Cedar Lodge, Inc., the original investors, said he thought the settlement was equitable.

ALLEGES DEMOCRATS ARE 'DRAINED DRY'

Raising money for simultaneous campaigns of United States Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri for the Presidential nomination and Attorney General John M. Dalton for Governor is putting a strain on Missouri Democrats, a Republican candidate for Governor said here last night.

State Representative Edward Farmer of Joplin, who is seeking the Republican nomination for Governor, spoke at a joint meeting of the Twenty-fifth and Twenty-eighth ward Regular Republican Organizations.

County organizations and "all other available resources" of the Democrats have been "drained dry," he said, adding that "many state employes are now being assessed, and this money is going to the campaign fund."

The candidate said the Democrats were "behind the financial eight-ball."

Those who have paid for campaign dinner tickets "should be alerted to the fact that these funds are being carried outside the state for use in other parts of the country," he said.

Farmer said further: "When political candidates find their backs to the 'checkbook wall' they will immediately claw at any source to get the funds to back their own aims and purposes."

The meeting was at an American Legion Hall at 5470 Delmar boulevard.

TWO WOMEN FINED $100 EACH FOR SOLICITING DRINKS

Two women were fined $100 each today by Police Judge Rodney Weiss after he found them guilty of soliciting drinks from patrons of the Sputnick Tavern, 7 South Broadway.

The women were Miss Jean Yolanda and Miss Diberens Perkins, who gave separate addresses in the 500 block of Chestnut street.

Policemen testified they were asked by the women to buy them drinks of sloe gin at $1 each when the officers visited the place in plainclothes. The women did not take the stand.

DEMOCRATIC UNIT INDORSES T. D. M'NEAL FOR SENATOR

Theodore D. McNeal, international vice president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, was indorsed for the Democratic nomination to be a State Senator last night by the Twenty-second Ward Regular Democratic Organization. McNeal is opposing Senator Edward J. (Jellyroll) Hogan for the nomination in the Seventh district.

McNeal has the strong backing of leaders of many groups in Hogan's district in his effort to become the first Negro to be elected to the Missouri Senate. Hogan has represented the Seventh district since 1944.

100 MORE COOLED BUSSES

4 STATES VOTE; IOWA PRIMARY IS A STANDOFF

WASHINGTON, June 7 (UPI —Primary elections are being held in the East, West and South today. In Iowa yesterday the voters balloted themselves into a standoff.

New Yorkers are naming congressional and legislative candidates and delegates to the national political conventions.

The California primary has the only presidential interest and may provide a clue to Vice President Richard M. Nixon's popularity in his home state.

Mississippians vote on a "right to work amendment" to the state constitution in a primary also highlighted by three congressional races.

Interest in South Dakota centers on nominations for the House seat now held by Democratic Representative George McGovern. McGovern has entered the Senate race, running against incumbent Senator Karl Mundt, a Republican. Each party will present single slates of delegates to its national presidential convention.

Iowans cast ballots in vain yesterday for six candidates for the Republican nomination for Senator to oppose Democratic Gov. Herschel C. Loveless. None of the six got enough votes to comply with the state's minimum vote requirement of 35 per cent. The Iowa Republican convention will decide July 20 on a senatorial nominee.

Voters in New York are selecting 251 candidates for office in Congress and the State Senate and Assembly, in addition to 172 delegates to the national conventions.

Nixon's popularity in his home state may get a test against the "favorite son" presidential candidacy of Democratic Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown. Voters may not cross party lines, and both parties will be eager to see the returns as an indication of Nixon's appeal.

Although Nixon is unopposed for the state's 70 votes to the G.O.P. national convention, a last-minute movement for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York was in evidence and Democrats were determined to run up a bigger total than Nixon's. Write-ins are prohibited, but Rockefeller supporters urged Republicans to cast a "silent vote" for the New York Governor by not voting for Nixon.

MISS EMMA BRICKENKAMP ESTATE PUT AT $431,509

The estate of Miss Emma Louise Brickenkamp, sister of the late Frederick A. Brickenkamp, credit manager of International Shoe Co., was valued at $431,509 in an inventory filed today in probate court.

Miss Brickenkamp, who lived at 40 North Kingshighway, died April 19 at the age of 82. Her brother, who died in 1944, had left her one fourth of his $1,119,529 estate. Miss Brickenkamp's estate was made up of $401,363 in corporation stocks, $19,452 in bank accounts and life insurance and $10,694 in household goods. A total of $179,180 of the stock was in International Shoe Co.

In a will filed previously, she left $46,000 to 11 charitable organizations. This included $10,000 each to the Good Samaritan Home for the Aged, 4500 Washington avenue, and Deaconess Hospital. The residue of the estate was left to two nephews, William A. Brickenkamp of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and William R. Brickenkamp of Rumson, N.J.

MARRIAGE COUNSELING SAID TO BE SOME BENEFIT

Marriage counseling is having some effect in reducing the number of divorces, but the rate is still high as it usually is in prosperous times, Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein of St. Louis county said last night at a symposium sponsored by the Family and Children's Service of Greater St. Louis.

The meeting was in the ninth-floor exhibition hall of Famous-Barr's downtown store. The emphasis last night was on marriage. The program will be continued today with the emphasis on problems of the young child.

Other speakers were Dr. Margaret Gildea, associate clinical professor at the Washington University School of Medicine; the Rev. Franklin Ritthanel, pastor of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Overland, and Bob Hille, announcer on Post-Dispatch Station KSD and KSD-TV.

POLICE CHIEF AND AID FIRED IN ST. JOHN

Chief of Police Edward W. Kohlschreiber and Assistant Chief Charles Eiffert of St. John were fired by the village board of trustees last night.

Board Chairman Albert E. Staehle said the dismissals were by unanimous vote of the seven trustees present. Two other trustees were absent.

The officers had been suspended by the board April 18 because of "inadequate leadership and direction." They were reinstated May 2 and put on probation for two months pending an investigation by a three-member citizens' committee.

Staehle refused today to comment on the reasons for the dismissals other than to repeat the "inadequate leadership" charges. He said the motion for the firings was made by Clarence C. Mathews, village police commissioner and a trustee.

The board appointed Milton C. Vogel, a chain clothing store manager, 1020 Meadow Lark drive, Florissant, to succeed Kohlschreiber at a salary of $450 a month. Vogel is assistant chief of the St. Louis county auxiliary police.

No assistant chief will be named at this time, Staehle said. The St. John department now has four full-time policemen, including Vogel, and a fifth officer will be hired soon, Staehle added.

Kohlschreiber could not be reached today. After the suspensions in April he attributed the actions to "politics."

Eiffert said neither he nor Kohlschreiber had ever been informed of any specific charges against them.

Staehle became chairman of the board after the former chairman, Arthur Hoevel, was defeated for re-election last April. Four new members elected then aligned themselves with Staehle and another incumbent, Kenneth Lesinski, to gain control of the board.

TWO HURT ON WAY HERE TO ARRANGE FOR FUNERAL

Dr. George Gay of Ironton, Mo., was injured seriously and his daughter, Miss Virginia Gay, suffered lacerations of the face last night when their automobile ran off the road and struck a dump truck on Missouri Highway 21, about one mile west of the St. Louis county line.

They were enroute here to assist in arranging for the funeral of Dr. Gay's brother, Dr. Lee Pettit Gay. Dr. George Gay suffered internal and leg injuries. He and his daughter, a student at the University of Wisconsin, were treated at St. Mary's Hospital. Driver of the truck, Elmer R. Geist of Imperial, Mo., was not injured. The Missouri Highway Patrol said the truck was parked in a private driveway.

Funeral serives for Dr. Lee Gay, former St. Louis physician and internationally known allergy specialist, who died at a medical meeting last Wednesday at Barcelona, Spain, will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard, University City. The body will be cremated.

how does he do it... live like a major leaguer in a little league family?

Whaddya mean little league? You think I'm in kindergarten or something? Why, I been manager of my own team all season and there's not a man on it who's not in the third grade. We're good, too, let me tell you. Not as good as the St. Louis Cardinals but we beat the fourth grade week before last, and Dad said when I got up to bat, I looked just like Ken Boyer. And he's the Card's field captain! You call that little league? Not only that, we're the best outfitted team in the neighborhood. But that's not hard to figure since all our equipment came from Famous... the folks saw to that. Of course, they get everything at Famous. Momma says with three boys to clothe, not to mention her and Dad, she doesn't know what she'd do without Famous. And you know what Dad says? He says you're batting a thousand when you shop at Famous!

West Faces Staggering Blow If Japan Becomes a Neutral

By JAMES CARY

TOKYO, June 7 (AP)—Japan is convulsed by a titanic internal struggle over whether it should remain aligned with the West or become neutral in the cold war.

The balance of power in the orient may depend on the outcome, for Japan is the industrial giant of Asia.

The fight is centered around the new United States-Japan security treaty, which provides for continuance of American military bases on Japanese soil for at least 10 more years.

Ratified May 20 by the lower house of Parliament, it automatically becomes law June 19 unless a leftist-led drive to force dissolution of Parliament succeeds before then.

Should this happen, and Japan move on to the type of neutrality the Socialists and Communists in the treaty fight are advocating — a position tilted close to the Communist world—the West would have suffered a staggering loss.

Japan's resurgent industries are a marvel of the postwar era. Its geographic position and deep water harbors are assets. So are the multiple skills of its workers.

Japan produced 17,000,000 tons of steel in 1959, placing it fifth behind the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and West Germany. Expansion plans call for 40,000,000 tons annually by 1970, which would top Britain and perhaps Germany.

Such industrial might, if ever linked with the resources of China, could give Communism's bosses the muscle they need to carry out their dreams of Asiatic and European hegemony.

Yokosuka naval base near Tokyo, now used by American forces, is the Far Eastern anchor of the United States Seventh Fleet. It is the only facility in Asia capable of drydocking ships as large as aircraft carriers.

If it and its 10,000 technicians were lost, the Seventh Fleet would have to shift its repair operations thousands of miles back across the Pacific to Pearl Harbor.

Sasebo is a second major Japanese naval base available to the Pacific fleet. And there are good harbors at Tokyo, Nagoya, Hakodate and Kure.

Geographically Japan is situated directly on Asia's cold war frontier. Its four islands provide not only forward air bases for either offensive or defensive purposes, but also a fine radar net facing the Communist world to help guard against surprise attack.

Japan's value as a staging area for ground troops was proved in the Korean war.

If all this were taken away by a shift in ideological alignment there would be a gaping hole in the defense system rimming the Communist world. The rest of Asia could topple similarly. This would shove the West's frontiers halfway back across the Pacific.

And it probably would mean also that one of the world's most talented people had lost their struggle for a functioning parliamentary democracy — and were on the road to some form of totalitarianism again.

USE BOTH LETTER AND NUMBER when answering "BOX NUMBER" ads

When writing in reply to Post-Dispatch classified advertisements published with a "blind" address or "box number" as a signature instead of the advertiser's name, address or phone number, BE SURE you use both LETTER and NUMBER in addressing your envelope and letter (Example: "A-127," "Z-54"). The number alone is incomplete; letter must be used with number to be sure reply is delivered properly.

Soviet Radar Defense System Far From Perfect, Ineffective At Altitudes at Which U-2 Flies

Despite Boasts, Plane Could Not Have Been Hit at 65,000 Feet—Rockets Can Reach That Height, but Accurate Guidance Is Lacking.

By Brig. Gen. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, JUNE 7

"THE SOVIET UNION has modern radio and technical equipment," Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky declared in an address to the all-union Communist Labor conference May 30, "which is capable of determining with precision where the aircraft has taken off, following its flight and locating its landing point.

"This means," he continued, "that no one will manage to escape responsibility."

It is true that for the past 15 years the Soviets have put great resources into all means of air defense, including interceptors, anti-aircraft artillery, air defense guided missiles and an extensive radar network.

By now a large part of the Soviet frontier, some 20,000 miles, has radar detection units and most of the important targets in the Soviet Union are protected by air defense guided missiles and fighters.

The radar network is constantly being extended internally. Lacking the extensive land lines of communication that cover the United States, the Soviet radar system is tied together mostly by point-to-point, line-of-sight radio communications. It is almost impossible to intercept such communications from a distance.

NO AIRPLANE is allowed to fly in the Soviet Union without first filing a flight plan and receiving authorization. The commercial airlines are commanded by a Soviet air marshal and use the same radar and flight systems that are used by military aircraft.

Any airplane wandering off course is intercepted and forced to land. In the United States there are thousands of unidentified aircraft on and off the airways every day. In the Soviet Union there are few or none.

In the Korean War, Soviet radar was effective in giving warning of the approach of American aircraft. But at that time it was not supplied with the ground control means to direct the interceptors toward the approaching aircraft. Neither were the Soviet aircraft at that time equipped with radar sights to locate enemy aircraft at night or in bad weather.

During World War II, Soviet air defenses were practically worthless. The anti-aircraft artillery did not have effective computing and aiming systems. Interceptors were given a low priority in favor of tactical aviation to support the ground forces.

GERMAN RADAR and air defense guided missile factories were captured, together with many German technicians, toward the end of World War II. This at once gave the Soviets a technical start that enabled them to put their techniques almost on a level with those of the West in a short time.

It required many years, however, to adapt German equipment to Soviet aircraft, train factory and air force technicians and finally to build entirely new plants. Indeed, for some years after the war, electronic equipment for Soviet guided missiles and early warning radar continued to be made in factories in Poland, Czechoslovakia and East Germany.

By 1955 all the elements of an air defense organization had been built in the Soviet Union with thousands of trained interceptor pilots, supersonic day interceptors in large numbers, subsonic night fighters and a comprehensive early warning system. Toward the west, the north and the east the radar warning system was in three bands.

AT ABOUT the same time the first air defense guided missiles became operational and air-to-air guided missiles were coming into service. Moscow in 1955 was reported to have two rings of air defense guided missiles around it of 25 and 50 miles radius, in addition to 17 fighter airfields.

The Air Defense Command (PVO) is an autonomous organization whose commander in chief, Marshal Biryuzov, is a deputy to Defense Minister Malinovsky. It controls the radar system, the interceptors and fighters and the air defense guided missiles.

PVO has more than 20 regional commands spread all over the Soviet Union. It recently was estimated to have more than half a million well-trained personnel. Biryuzov has enormous powers in an emergency. He can take over in any threatened area and make use of all the army and air force or naval personnel there, regardless of the command they may belong to.

In spite of Malinovsky's boasts and threats, the Soviet warning and air defense system is far from perfect. Soviet radar is not effective at the altitudes at which the U-2 ordinarily flies. The U-2 was hit, if it was hit, at 37,000 feet and not at 65,000 as the Soviets said.

THE SOVIET guided air defense rockets are able to reach the necessary height, but radar diffusion at that altitude prevents accurate enough guidance to hit the targets even though they are being tracked.

The two principal Soviet air defense guided missiles are inferior to the American Nike-Ajax and Nike-Hercules. The latter has about 40 miles more range than its Soviet counterpart and is believed to be much more accurate and reliable.

It is reported that a greatly improved guided air defense missile has been developed in the Soviet Union, with a range of 100 miles or more, infrared guidance and infrared homing. There is no evidence that it is operational yet.

Even though the vast Soviet radar complex is ineffective against aircraft at very high altitudes, it serves an invaluable purpose in a police state. It prevents any unauthorized flights by pilots within the Soviet Union and makes it hard for defectors to escape.

Purported Photo of Hitler After Suicide

Photograph published in Soviet newspaper Kazakhstan Pravda which says it is picture of Adolf Hitler taken a few moments after he had committed suicide in a Berlin bunker on April 30, 1945. The paper says the former Nazi dictator is wrapped in blankets in which he was supposed to be burned after his suicide. This picture reveals a bullet wound in Hitler's forehead; previous reports had him shooting himself in his mouth after directing aids to burn his body immediately after death. The paper says the photo was taken from a Soviet documentary film.

Truman Asserts He and Acheson Rejected Spy Plane Proposal

CHICAGO, June 7 (AP).

FORMER PRESIDENT Harry S. Truman said yesterday he and former Secretary of State Dean Acheson turned down a suggestion that the United States send spy planes over Soviet territory.

"I don't think it was right," he told newsmen yesterday. "Espionage is a dirty business. I don't want to be a part of it."

He said he and Acheson rejected the State Department idea in 1949 or 1950. Asked whether he made use of espionage information while President, Truman said, "I suppose so. Reports came to my desk about things that were going on."

He refused to express an opinion on President Eisenhower's role on the U-2 spy plane incident, and even offered his sympathy to the White House in the face of recent Soviet tirades.

(In Washington, Acheson said he had opposed use of spy planes over Soviet Russia and "advised that these flights should not be undertaken."

("I believed such flights would be contrary to the foreign policy of the United States," Acheson said.)

TRUMAN condemned the denunciations of Soviet Premier Khrushchev and chided unnamed Americans as he warned that the world is "in serious trouble."

He told a gathering of booksellers and publishers:

"The brutal and boorish tirade by Khrushchev directed at the person of the President of the United States has the sinister purpose of undermining the prestige of the office of the President in the eyes of the world."

He called the Khrushchev attacks an "offense to the whole free world."

"My instinctive reaction would incline me to be sympathetic to the occupant of the White House when he is involved in a conflict with a foreign power and under personal attack by that power," he said.

Truman suggested that "certain people would be wise to avoid criticizing our country in a manner and language that would fortify Khrushchev in the belief that there is approval here for his devilish campaign to divide us." He would not name the "certain people."

HE HINTED that the American people "will pass judgment in due time—about the second Tuesday in November," in an allusion to the U-2 incident and the failure of the summit conference.

He warned that "in the field of foreign policy there is no room for irresponsible talk — especially at a time when the nation is being subjected to new provocations and attacks from the Kremlin."

Five PR Firms Hired for Nixon In California

They Are Operating 'Grass Roots Clubs' — Major Test Faced.

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1960.)

WASHINGTON.

THE MOST IMPORTANT vote in Vice President Nixon's preconvention maneuvering takes place in California today. If by any chance he should not go over big in his home state, then the forces of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller would get significant impetus for displacing Nixon at Chicago in July. That is why Nixon is working so hard to see that this does not happen.

To this end, as much preparation has gone into the Nixon primary in California as if he were running against an opponent. Five public relations firms have been retained to drum up votes, and the interesting fact is that the so-called "grass roots clubs for Nixon" are actually being run out of these public relations offices. There's nothing very grassy about them.

The Vice President has always gone in heavily for public relations, but never so much as during the current campaign.

DOWN IN SAN DIEGO, two public relations firms—Champ, Wilson and Slocum, with Armstrong, Fenton, and Vinson—organized the "grass roots" for Nixon. Congressman Bob Wilson, a member of one firm, is also running for re-election, and, although he doesn't mean to, is indirectly financing a certain amount of Democratic advertising.

Wilson has printed auto-bumper stickers reading "Another Democrat for Wilson." Democrats merrily cut the last two words off the sticker, then flaunt on stickers reading "Another Democrat."

In Los Angeles, the "Richard M. Nixon for President" committee is operated from exactly the same address as the public relations firm of Baus and Ross. Bill Ross was one of the contributors to the $18,000 personal expense fund for Nixon.

In San Francisco, the "Nixon Committee for Northern California" is operated from the of-

Billy Graham Says U.S. Must Regain Its Moral Strength

Impossible to Alter Society Without Changing Individuals, He Asserts in Discussing Challenges.

This is the second part of an article by Billy Graham. The article is one of a series being presented by the New York Times, in conjunction with Life Magazine, on the general subject of the National Purpose.

By BILLY GRAHAM

©1960 by Life Magazine and The New York Times Co.

WHAT IS THE AMERICAN challenge? What is our reason for existence? There are a thousand challenges that should stir our emotions and demand the dedication of every fiber of our being.

Some of them may be:

The challenge to be on the side of the little people of the world, the hungry, the homeless, the friendless, the oppressed, the discriminated against, the captives and those who live in countries where there is no freedom.

The challenge to throw political expediency to the wind if necessary and do what we know is morally right because it is right.

The challenge of sharing our immense wealth with others.

The challenge of electing men with moral courage to high office who will be ruthless with the gangsters that operate on such a wide scale throughout the nation.

THE CHALLENGE of selling the American dream and ideals to the world.

The challenge of humility to admit our failures, to repent of our sins and to serve God.

The challenge of solving the world-wide problems of ignorance, disease and poverty.

The challenge of finding the individual peace and joy that is so lacking in the "good life" of modern America.

The challenge of contentment with what we have, remembering the words of the Apostle Paul, "I have learned that in whatsoever state I find myself therewith to be content."

America still has a glorious future if we rise to the challenges, opportunities and responsibilities of the hour. If we fail, may God help us!

We must recapture our moral strength and our faith in God.

Some surveys of American life have been alarming and discouraging. We now know that cheating is accepted practice in our society. Morals have become irrelevant or relative—no longer are there moral absolutes. Success at any price is our maxim. We excuse our immorality by saying, "Everybody is doing it."

MANY OF OUR MODERN educators have decreed that we are what we are because of external pressures and that each of us is a victim of environment or inherent tendencies and that we cannot help what we are.

This is totally contrary to the teachings of Holy Scripture. The Bible teaches that we are responsible for our moral choices.

We cannot possibly exist if we reject the time-honored moral absolutes of the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount. The Scripture says:

"Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."

The nation is no longer shocked at exposes. Our conscience is being hardened and the Scriptures warn against a hardening conscience.

"WE LIVE TODAY," says Dr. Robert E. Fitch in Christianity and Crisis, "in an age when ethics is becoming obsolete. It is superseded by science, deleted by psychology, dismissed as emotive by philosophy: it is drowned in compassion, evaporates into aesthetics and retreats before relativism. "The usual moral distinctions are simply drowned in a maudlin emotion in which we have more feeling for the murderer than for the murdered, for the adulterer than for the betrayed; and in which we gradually begin to believe that the really guilty party, the one who somehow caused it all, is the victim, not the perpetrator, of the crime."

America is said to have the highest per capita boredom of any spot on earth! We have tried to fill ourselves with science and education, with better living and pleasure, with the many other things we thought

Profit in the Cold War

The Republican efforts to whitewash the Administration's sabotage of the summit conference are not going over with the voters. Mr. Nixon has taken time out to accuse the Democrats of being soft on Communism again. Under Mr. Nixon's definition this is correct, since he regards anyone who is in favor of ending the cold war as soft on Communism. In fact, there seem to be a goodly number of Republicans and some Democrats who take this position.

We do not have to look very hard for the reason. Tremendous potsfull of money are being made from the cold war by all the corporations in the business of supplying military materials for our fantastically expensive military establishments all over the world, not to mention space. Anyone who thinks that the executives of these corporations are in favor of ending the cold war is naive. These gentlemen are the heaviest contributors among the small groups who pick up the tab for the campaign expenses of both parties.

These people whose pockets are being stuffed from this source are willing to take any risks of nuclear war to keep the game going. They don't mind paying huge taxes, because their taxes are just a trifling rebate on what they are getting from the cold war. But the rest of us who have to take the risks along with them, and pay our share of the fantastic tax bills, without sharing in the fantastic profits, view the cold war with cold detachment, and we say the devil with it.

L. E. Sutgers

High Living on Tax Dollars

Congratulations to the Post-Dispatch for giving publicity — and proof—to a situation that has long been suspected by a concerned public for some time. I am speaking of the matter of tax dollars used for night-clubbing by politicians.

Don't ever think for one minute that some of the public has not been aware of this flagrant misuse of tax monies. The only question in our minds has been how to put a stop to it.

The only complaint I have of these exposes is the fact they aren't followed up. People get alarmed and loud in their denunciation, and what happens? The turmoil dies down, the heat is off because some new challenge is presented for the public to chew on, and the rat-race continues — only covered up a little better next time.

No doubt you will find this same situation of expense-account padding in the Senate. You'll also find it to some extent in our state legislatures, and most assuredly you'll find it even in the little rural hamlets. If the truth were known, rural politics is worse and harder to correct than urban, state or national politics.

A Grateful Citizen

Loosest Talk Yet

I've heard a lot of loose talk but I must say that Khrushchev is the most irresponsible loose talker I've ever heard. It amazes me when the leader of a large country talks so wildly.

Ed Batzner

Milwaukee

He Likes Twining

Henry Cabot Lodge performed a great service to his party and to his country when he persuaded Gen. Dwight Eisenhower to allow his friends to seek the Republican nomination for him.

Gen. Eisenhower, in accepting the Republican nomination, saved the two-party system. He has given America eight years of peace through strength. A great measure of America's strength in the eyes of the rest of the world has been the personal military strength of the President, always alert, determined and cool in a crisis. He has never been impulsive or become rattled as a younger man with less war experience might be.

Will some loyal party leader, anxious to be of service to his party and to his country, come up with a candidate that is feared in a respectful sort of way by the nations and peoples of the world? Come up with one who can give us reasonable assurance of another four years of peace through strength? Can he get the name of such a one before either the Republican or Democratic convention?

Someone of international stature and national vote appeal such as Nathan F. Twining, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff? The party that nominates Twining will win the election with little effort.

Craig Seasholes

Cleveland

Too Much Campaign

The chairman of the Democratic and Republican National Committees can perform a public service by giving serious attention to the proposal that they take steps to reduce the time now devoted to presidential campaigning. Specifically, the chairmen have been asked to help place two rules before the July conventions for adoption: One, that no delegate would be seated at the 1964 conventions if he was selected before June 1, 1964, and two, that the 1964 conventions be held after Aug. 1.

The purpose of the proposal, made by John A. Wells and indorsed by the Committee to Inform the Voters, Inc., is to bring order and reason into modern campaigning.

Mr. Wells makes a good case. He notes that campaigning for 1960 primaries began last November, although the first such election, in New Hampshire, was not held until March. By the end of the primary season, he points out, the campaigners and their staffs are exhausted and their financial supporters drained. This was exemplified in West Virginia. Senator Humphrey, who lost to Senator Kennedy, felt unable to request more funds from some of his backers because he knew he would have to call on them again for support in his Minnesota campaign.

Further arguments against extended primary campaigning are listed by Mr. Wells: Officeholders who might be presidential candidates cannot take time from their official duties; reporters exhaust the news before the significant period of the campaign begins; the people "grow so inexpressibly weary of the Niagara of words, polls, guesses, forecasts, charges and countercharges" that they tend to seek escape from the presidential campaign and goodly numbers end up by not voting; world opinion is dismayed at the long process, and the efficient operation of the government may be impaired.

Mr. Wells may be overly optimistic in setting his sights on 1964, but a beginning could well be made this year. The conventions could at least establish a policy as part of the party platforms. Fourteen states now hold primaries to select convention delegates before June 1; although there might be alternatives, as a practical matter the state legislatures probably would have to reset the primary dates. Other states choose delegates by different methods.

The June 1 date was suggested because it appeared the most practical. It would have the effect of limiting most of the campaigning to May and would allow five months of post-primary activity up to election day in November. The period might be shortened later, but there are objections to mid-summer primaries because of vacation and other considerations.

The conventions might also consider resolutions introduced by Representative John S. Monagan, a Connecticut Democrat, in the House last January. Mr. Monagan would limit costly post-convention campaigning by forcing the parties to hold their conventions later; no person could serve as president who was nominated more than 60 days before election day. The parties can hold their conventions whenever they desire, although they must take into account state laws for certifying candidates. The historical dates have been June or July, but in 1956 both parties wanted a short campaign and held their conventions the latter part of August. Intensive campaigning traditionally begins on Labor Day.

Mounting costs of campaigning, combined with such advances as television and the airplane, in addition to the demonstrated false importance of the primaries, should commend these suggestions to politicians of both parties. Eventual improvement seems almost inevitable; a start can be made now.

Fair Solution

Chief of Police Curtis Brostron has found an equitable solution, under the circumstances, to the problem created by the arrest and detention of two young men solely because they resembled two alleged robbers. Under Missouri statutes the records of such arrests cannot be destroyed, so Mr. Brostron will move them from criminal to correspondence files. This is probably the best that can be done under the law as it stands, but perhaps Missourians need to ask themselves whether the law cannot be improved. The chief attributes the arrests to an "organizational defect" and has taken steps to correct it. If the incident helps to prevent further mistaken arrests, perhaps this case will have served a purpose.

The Class of '60

June has brought another graduation season. "The Academic Festival Overture" is being played preliminary to commencement addresses. These, including President Eisenhower's at Notre Dame, seem to be in the time-hallowed tradition which deplores a too crass selfishness, and sounds the call to public service.

According to the advertisements for watches, fountain pens and other June gift merchandise, the members of the Class of '60 in their new hoods look rather like all their predecessors. As a matter of fact, did not most classes take on special characteristics only after leaving the ivied halls and entering what on Commencement Day always is called "the world"?

For example, the Class of '17 became distinguishable from the rest only when it switched from "Alma Mater" to "Goodby, Broadway! Hello, France." Didn't F. Scott Fitzgerald's bunch become the jazz generation after going from classroom to speakeasy? A decade later, during the Depression, the change came when graduates became door-to-door salesmen. And so on.

This year's crop, however, is different, according to the A.P. man who went to New Haven, and then put on the wire his appraisal of the graduates of Yale and the other colleges. This unofficial class prophet said:

> They are highly intelligent, aware, informed, intense, realistic, capable of turning a cold hard light on themselves and the world. (There's that word!) They are cynical but responsible. They are concerned but not committed. They question but they suspect people with answers.

Would any 1960 graduate have written that about his fellows? Or is the A.P. man an old grad, influenced by what he encountered after entering the world? Still, he gets support from the Rev. William Sloan Coffin, dean of the Yale divinity school: "In other days the truth was easier to come by. Today's issues are far more complicated. Examining them requires more sophistication and that often kills enthusiasm for crusades. The danger is that the best educated will be the least active."

If so, this is bad news, and we had better think again about raising money to enlarge our colleges. But we refuse to prejudge the Class of '60. We have a notion that it will prove as good as any. So we only say: Congratulations, and good luck!

The Ghost of the B-70

The folly of the great bomber gamble which the Administration took last December when it dropped the B-70 program is becoming more apparent. The testimony which Gen. Thomas D. White gave to the House Space Committee summarizes some of the principal points which are being made. Coming from the Air Force chief of staff they have the ring of validity.

The B-70, designed to fly much higher and four times faster than the U-2 which penetrated 1300 miles into Soviet Russia, undoubtedly would present a far more difficult target than did the spy plane. In urging full restoration of the B-70 program, Gen. White said that this point alone justified the big bomber as a weapons system. Further, in this day when electronic machinery can and does fail, the manned plane is a weapon responsive to human direction. It can be recalled, delayed or withheld. Once a ballistic missile is off the launching pad it cannot be called back.

The 2000-mile-an-hour B-70 also could be developed as a troop carrier and as a reconnaissance plane for conventional warfare. But budget considerations led to the scrapping of all but two of the 60 B-70s that were planned. These two prototypes will be nothing but flying platforms devoid of advanced fire control, communications and counter-radar equipment that were planned. Gen. White testified that it would take $285,000,000 just to regain ground lost in the cutback.

There has been too much chopping of defense and space projects for budgetary reasons. The Vega rocket was cut from the NASA program last December to save funds. The atomic-powered plane has suffered from one cutback after another. The Dyna-Soar, which would operate as a piloted ballistic missile in outer space lost a year before assurance last month of the funds it requires.

There is still time for the Senate to restore the B-70 program. The B-70 could add so significantly to our deterrent power in a time of pressing need that restoration is imperative.

Evading the Nursing Home Law

Dr. Henry M. Hardwicke's disclosure that the Missouri nursing home law of 1957 is being evaded should deeply concern everyone who recalls the Katie Jane Nursing Home fire, and we should think that would be just about every Missourian. The deputy state health director says "boarding" houses for the elderly are coming into existence to evade the licensing requirements respecting fire safety, sanitation and nutrition.

Certainly the Legislature should put an end to this dodge when it convenes in January. But that is seven months off, and we wonder whether the State Health Division meanwhile could not apply the existing statutes liberally, letting the so-called boarding homes prove, if they can, that they can successfully get around the law. Missouri wants no repetition of the holocaust that took 72 lives at Warrenton three years ago.

Forwarding Address

The new United States note to Cuba accuses the Castro government of lying, violating international law, and conducting a "campaign of slander" to create hatred of the United States. This is the strongest psychological counterattack mounted by this country against Castro. And since the note came just after Russian Premier Khrushchev accepted an invitation to visit Cuba, an inference might be drawn that the invitation prompted the note.

We doubt that the Khrushchev visit had anything to do with it. The State Department says it did not. There is no reason for this country to object to international visitors elsewhere. But there is reason to answer the propaganda tour of South America by Cuban President Dorticos, as the State Department suggests, and that likely is the main reason for the note.

United States policy toward Fidel Castro so far has been directed toward sympathetic understanding throughout Latin America. By the policy of patience, by avoiding provocation, by depriving Castro of any real basis for his charges, the United States has offered restraint in Cuba as an answer to the myth of American imperialism.

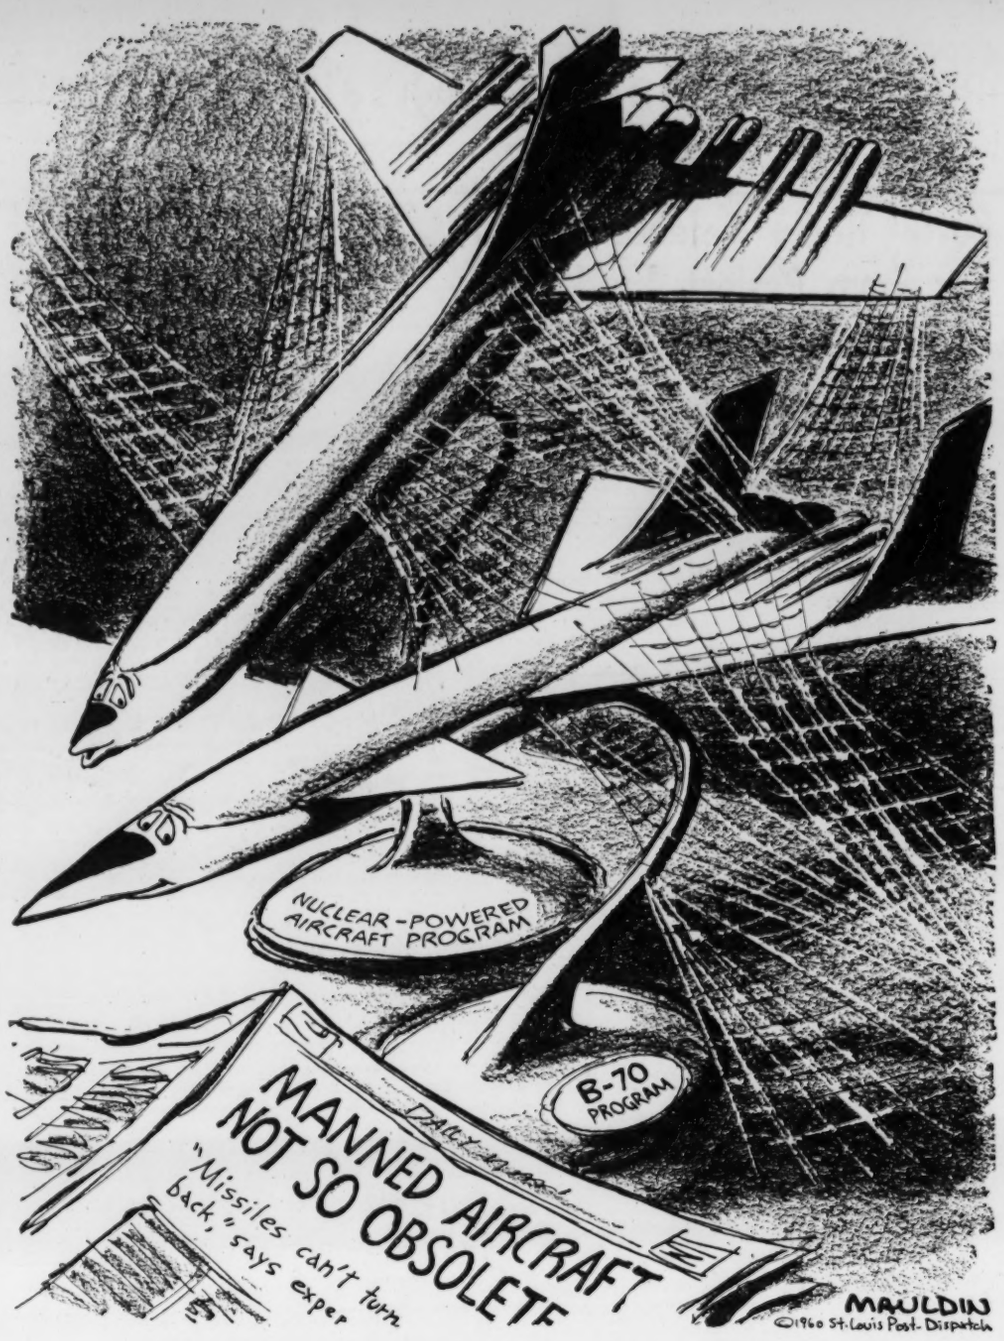
Nevertheless, President Dorticos has been saying in Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil that the United States is guilty of deliberate aggressions, whereas Cuba is free of Communism, devoted to press freedom and engaged in good relations with the Catholic Church. There is little truth on either side of this double view. The Castro government has insulted the United States beyond reason, failed to pay for expropriated properties, crushed the free press and met criticism from the church.

Yet Mr. Dorticos is playing on an old theme that may evoke a response from biased or uninformed Latin Americans. The repeated distortion is a totalitarian technique but it is not ineffective. Consequently the Cuban propaganda has to be answered. The United States note was sent to Havana, but it was addressed to all of Latin America.

Sound and Safe

A group of state officials acting as the Governor's Co-ordinating Committee for Traffic Safety recommends a series of measures for making driving safer in Missouri. Two proposals at least ought to have priority in the next Legislature. One would establish a point system for grading traffic violations, and the other would require a jail sentence for driving while a driver's license is suspended or revoked.

Several states have proved that the point system is the fairest means of judging whether a driver's record shows he is competent to drive. And if the license itself is a judgment on such fitness, there is no excuse for merely fining a person who drives when his license has been taken away. Both recommendations have the support of the Automobile Club of Missouri. Both ought to have the support of every legislator who recognizes that a driver's license is not only a permit for motoring, but also a means for removing unsafe drivers from the highways.



"WE MIGHT GET OFF THE GROUND YET."

What About College Marriages?

Noted Anthropologist Doubts They are Compatible With Scholarship or Maturity

Margaret Mead in the Washington University Magazine
Copyright 1960 Editorial
Projects for Education, Inc.

All over the United States, undergraduate marriages are increasing. Before we become too heavily committed to this trend, it may be wise to pause and question why it has developed, what it means, and whether it endangers the value of undergraduate education as we have known it.

The university student is a unique development of our kind of civilization, and a special pattern is set for those who have the ability and the will to devote four years to exploring the civilization of which they are a part. The true undergraduate university is still an "as-if" world in which the student need not commit himself yet.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

One of the requirements of such a life has been freedom from responsibility.

Founders and administrators of universities have struggled through the years to provide places where young men, and more recently young women, and young men and women together, would be free—in a way they can never be free again—to explore, before they settle on the way their lives are to be lived.

This freedom once, as a matter of course, included freedom from domestic responsibilities—from the obligation to wife and children or to husband and children.

Should we move so far away from the past that all young people, whether in college, in technical school, or as apprentices, expect to be married and, partially or wholly, to be supported by parents and society while they complete their training for this complex world? May it not be a new barbarism to force them to marry so soon?

"Force" is the right word. The mothers who worry about boys and girls who don't begin dating in high school start the process. By the time young people reach college, pressuring parents are joined by college administrators, by advisers and counselors and deans, by student-made rules about exclusive possession of a girl twice dated by the same boy, by the preference of employers for a boy who has demonstrated a tenacious intention of becoming a settled married man.

And parents push their children at ever younger ages, in Little Leagues and eighth-grade proms, to act out—quickly, before it is too late—the adult dreams that may be interrupted.

Undergraduate marriages have not been part of American life long enough for us to be certain what the effect will be. But two ominous trends can be noted.

One is the "successful" student marriage, often based on a high-school choice which both sets of parents have applauded because it assured an appropriate mate with the right background, and because it made the young people settle down.

Such a marriage is a premature imprisonment of young people, before they have had a chance to explore their own minds and the minds of others, in a kind of desperate, devoted symbiosis.

The second kind of undergraduate marriage is more tragic. Here, the marriage is based on the boy's promise and the expendability of the girl. She, at once or at least as soon as she gets her bachelor's degree, will go to work at some secondary job to support her husband while he finishes his degree. As soon as he becomes independent, he leaves her.

A man who does not support himself is not yet a man, and a man who is supported by his wife or lets his parents support his wife is also only too likely to feel he is not a man. The G.I. students' success actually supports this position: They had earned their G.I. stipend, as men, in their country's service.

There are, then, two basic conclusions. One is that under any circumstances, a full student life is incompatible with early commitment and domesticity. The other is that it is incompatible only under conditions of immaturity. Where the choice has been made maturely, and where each member of the pair is doing academic work which deserves full support, complete economic independence should be provided. For other types of student marriage, economic help should be refused.

This kind of discrimination would remove the usual dangers of parent-supported, wife-supported, and too-much-work-supported student marriages. Married students, making full use of their opportunities as undergraduates, would have the right to accept from society this extra time to become more intellectually competent people.

But even this solution should be approached with caution. It may be that any domesticity takes the edge off the eager, flaming curiosity on which we must depend for the great steps that Man must take, and quickly, if living things are to continue on earth.

Irony in Bond Defeat

From the St. Louis American

Another defeat of the local school bonds, sorely needed in a bulging system, bears one apparent counter-reaction. The vote tabulation clearly shows that the defeat came in the South St. Louis wards. This is the clannish section of St. Louis that is not only conservative, but is active in keeping Negro residents crowding in other sections of the city. South St. Louis wants to remain lily-white, no matter what happens to the rest of St. Louis.

But now comes an ironic twist: the school authorities have announced that the failure of the bond issue will force them to transport thousands of pupils to sections where the schools are not overfilled. This in part means that busses of Negro pupils will have to be sent southward in the city. South St. Louis cannot escape totally from a municipal residential condition that must be resolved. The West End has overshared in accommodating the displaced residents from the Mill Creek rehabilitation district. No one section can escape the burdens of semi-illiterate and under-privileged dwellers to the cost of other sections.

St. Louis cannot progress on a half-segregated basis. How ironic and awkward to have scores of busses rolling each school day into South St. Louis to deposit and collect school children whose homes are two or three miles away? But the school authorities have no other choice left—if they are sincere in their concern for the welfare of the overcrowded schools.

Between Book Ends

Things Not Taught

THE LORE AND LANGUAGE OF SCHOOLCHILDREN, by Iona and Peter Opie. (Oxford, 417 pgs., $8.)

Children are still saying "King's X" when they want to declare themselves temporarily immune to the rules in a game or a fight. They still hook little fingers, say a rhyme and make a wish when they have accidentally said something in unison. And they still "stamp" white horses, or, to fill an obvious gap, cars with one headlight. Or at least they are still doing these things here in the Ozarks and over in the British Isles, where this book was compiled.

Adults don't teach these things to children. They pass them on to one another and some of them have been thus transmitted through centuries and have spread all over the world.

The authors found that, in spite of the seemingly all-pervasive effect of the mass media, only 3 per cent of the items they collected reflected this influence. But even these have the flavor of one world, and a small one at that.

For instance, the authors found that within four months after the song about Davy Crockett was launched on the radio, a juvenile parody beginning: "Born on a table top in Joe's cafe, Dirtiest place in the U.S.A." was known all over the British Isles and in Australia.

There are also British children, probably unacquainted with the principals, who chant: "Hark the herald angels sing, Mrs. Simpson pinched our king," and "Marilyn Monroe fell in the snow, Her skirt blew up and the boys said 'Oh.'"

An index of first lines of some of the other rhymes, many of them centuries old, jogs the memory of an Ozarker: "What's your name? Puddin and Tame"; "Teacher, teacher, don't whip me"; "Smarty, smarty, had a party"; "Cross my heart and hope to die."

Somehow the persistence of these traditional rhymes, jokes, games and superstitions is consoling in this too-changing world.

HUNTING PRONGHORN ANTELOPE, by Bert Popowski. (Stackpole, 225 pgs., $6.50.)

Why anyone should want to hunt and kill a pronghorn antelope is a mystery. These enchanting, independent creatures, known only in western North America, had become almost extinct in the early 1900s. So, in the '20s, their slaughter was tightly restricted, to allow the once plentiful herds to build up again. Live-trapping, for protection and mingling of herds, was instituted and aided greatly in increasing the prong-horn population until by 1955 it reached nearly 400,000.

Bert Popowski's description of the animals' behavior and charm is enough to divert the hungriest hunter — one hopes.

DORIS FLEESON

Johnson Against Fellow Senators

WASHINGTON.

THE CAMPAIGN ATTITUDES AND CONVERSATIONS of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson point to one conclusion. It is that if his own bid for the Democratic nomination for President fails, he can be expected to help anybody else but his Senate competitors, including and especially Jack Kennedy and Stuart Symington.

The Texan has admitted this in a private talk which, standing alone, might be dismissed as a fit of pique. His hacking at Kennedy in the West and his bare tolerance of Symington might be put down to campaign strategy. But the whole weight of the evidence is unmistakable. Johnson playing himself on the road, as he is now doing, is an impressive spectacle because he so thoroughly lives his legend. It is no mean feat to appear to tower over a man nearly as tall as one's self, but Johnson consciously does it to Symington, whose urbanity and charm handicap him in such a muscular contest.

Johnson

Toward the younger and shorter Kennedy, the majority leader bends ever so slightly — but enough.

Southern Votes at Stake.

Both Kennedy and Symington have got the message loud and clear. Hence Kennedy's last-minute drive for every possible delegate to shore up his first-ballot strength. Hence the apprehension in Symington's camp that his Southern roots may profit him nothing.

The immediate question is how much Johnson can influence the South in another direction if and when his own hopes fade. About 400 votes would then be free. They could be decisive if big states like California and Pennsylvania were still having trouble making up their minds when and how to go.

Adlai Stevenson is counting on the South, and with some reason. But then he is counting, too, on California's 81 votes, though it is unlikely as of now that any one candidate could get more than half of them in time to push a bandwagon.

Stevenson is still resisting every pressure on him to avow his candidacy or organize even the most understated campaign. Several Senators are quietly stressing his availability, notably Monroney of Oklahoma, who has been touching base in states as widely separated as California and Pennsylvania.

What Stevenson expects to keep on doing is to express himself on the critical situation in foreign affairs, undeterred by his critics and the national unity policy of Senator Johnson.

Not for the Liberals.

Until last week there had been no breakthrough in labor, whose leaders have insisted upon a national policy of good will toward all potential Democratic candidates.

It was achieved, however, by Senator Kennedy with the Textile Workers and implicitly with Walter Reuther by way of Michigan support.

The Kennedy drive upon the party liberals will probably depend more on how Senator Johnson seems to be making out than on anything he can do personally.

They have some doubts about Kennedy—and more especially about his father—but few have any doubts about the short change they would get from Johnson, whose favorite term for the left-of-center Democrats is "red-hots."

A Johnson handicap is the shift of emphasis almost entirely to foreign affairs, a field which he has not studied either by way of books or travel. Nor has he had a close and astute advisor in that area since the late Senator Walter George (Dem.), Georgia, departed the Senate in January, 1957.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ADVICE ON VOTING

Communion With God and Guidance Through Prayer Urged.

BOSTON, June 7 (AP) — Decisions about national elections should come out of each voter's communion with God and the guidance obtained through prayer, the Christian Science board of directors said yesterday. The board called for an end to apathy, irresponsibility and blind partisanship.

At the annual meeting of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, the directors said: "In the United States the current year will record important political decisions as well as international approaches."

They added that "through prayer, we can rise above blind partisanship and the irresponsible tumult of aggressive mental suggestion."

Arthur W. Eckman of Cambridge was named president of the Mother Church for the coming year. He succeeds Mrs. Kathryn F. Cook of Boston. Eckman practiced law in Los Angeles for more than 30 years. He served three terms on the Los Angeles Board of Education and one term on the California State Board of Education.

In 1942, he was elected manager of Christian Science committees on publication. Two years later he was appointed general counsel of the legal department of the Mother Church, an office he will retain.

Eckman said there was a need for individual action through prayer to deal with impending challenges to civil and religious freedoms.

The threats to be coped with, he added, "are not merely external forces under authoritarian dictatorships that would seek to destroy our way of life. Vicious internal enemies, represented by organized crime in league with corrupt politics and subversive influences, claim the power to take over government in one community after another . . ."

AMERICAN BAPTISTS ELECT NEGRO WOMAN

Name Her Second Vice President — C. Stanton Gallup Is President.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., June 7 (AP)—A Negro was elected today to a top-level post of the American Baptist convention for the first time.

She is Mrs. Ruth McKinney of Cleveland, named second vice president.

Delegates elected C. Stanton Gallup of Plainfield, Conn., head of the Gallup Lumber Co., as president.

The Rev. Roger Frederikson of Sioux Falls, S.D., was elected first vice president.

Mrs. McKinney is the wife of the Rev. Wade H. McKinney, pastor of Antioch Baptist Church in Cleveland, one of the largest Negro churches in the country.

She has been vice president of Christian service for the National Council of American Baptist Women since 1956. She is also on the national executive board of the United Church Women, a national interdenominational group.

The officers were elected without opposition.

The Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, pastor of the Delmar Baptist Church of St. Louis and president of the National Council of Churches, told the convention yesterday that "evangelism without the social gospel is an evangelism without ethical content."

"I cannot understand the barrage of accusations hurled at the church today, saying: 'Stick to the Gospel. Stay out of politics. Lay off preaching about race relations and international affairs. Leave this to the experts.'

"That is precisely what all the modern dictators have said to the church. Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin and now Khrushchev, have all been in thorough agreement that the church should 'stick to the Gospel' and not interfere in their domain."

In other actions, representatives of the 1,500,000-member denomination:

Rejected several proposals that would have criticized the Roman Catholic Church in connection with the presidential election, but asserted the right to assess the affects of any candidate's faith on his political views.

Voiced support for students participating in non-violent resistance to racial segregation through sit-in demonstrations and other means.

Urged the Government to cancel federal aid to any public projects or institutions practicing racial segregation.

Called for resistance to use of tax funds for textbooks, pupil transportation, teachers' salaries or other support for parochial schools.

Catholic Needs Church's Consent To Attend Non-Catholic College

Archbishop Reaffirms Policy — Parents, Students Must Promise to Follow Newman Club Program.

Catholic high school graduates must seek ecclesiastical permission to attend secular or non-Catholic colleges and universities, Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter has warned in a pastoral letter.

"No student may attend a non-Catholic college or university unless he or she has obtained our written permission," the archbishop stated in the letter, which was read in churches last Sunday. "Permission will be granted only in individual cases and for just and serious reasons."

Permission will be granted only when parents and students sign a written statement promising that the students will enroll and follow the Newman Club program, "or a program similar in nature conducted by ecclesiastical authorities," the letter said.

Newman Clubs are maintained by the church at some non-Catholic colleges, so that Catholic students may continue their studies in religion.

"This permission is to be requested by the parent and the student," Archbishop Ritter wrote. "We advise both that it is a grave matter of conscience to do so. Under no circumstance do we excuse any who wish to attend a secular or non-Catholic college or university from seeking our permission."

Msgr. James E. Hoflich, secretary of education for the St. Louis Archdiocese, said today the letter reaffirms the principle that ecclesiastical permission must be sought in such cases.

The regulations stated by the archbishop differ in that the student and the parents are required to make the request in writing, and promise that the student will actively participate in the Newman Club program, Msgr. Holfich said.

In the past, high school graduates have sought the permission orally through their parish pastors, he said. After their arrival at non-Catholic campuses, the Newman Club pastors have enlisted their membership, Msgr. Hoflich said.

He said the principal reasons for granting Catholics permission to attend non-Catholic universities include financial hardships that might be involved in attending a Catholic school, unavailability of certain courses in a Catholic school which might be essential to the education of an individual Catholic student, or receipt of scholarships from non-Catholic universities.

The archbishop's letter stated that, regardless of the "kind of school or kind of courses they choose," Catholic students "must remember to make provisions for their continued religious education."

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., June 7 (AP)—Leaders of the 600,000-member Augustana Lutheran Church prepared last night to place in the hands of 4000 centennial synod delegates the merger proposal which would eventually unite 3,000,000 Lutherans.

A plan for the joining of the Augustana Church, the United Lutheran Church with 2,400,000 members, the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church with 35,000, and the American Evangelical Lutheran Church with 23,000 was worked out in months of conferences by leaders of the four groups. Jackson's 6th in Row Puts Cards a Half Game From 4th Place

Idahoan Whiffs 9 Phillies

By Neal Russo

Chiefly because Larry Jackson is co-starring with Vern Law in "The Two Hottest Potatoes from Idaho," the Cardinals have crept within half a game of the first division. Exactly one year ago the Redbirds tumbled into the cellar by losing to the Phillies, the team they beat last night by 5-2.

After winning his sixth straight to tie his major league high in a 7-5 season, Jackson stressed one word as the key to his string of successes — concentration.

"The ping hitters give me the most trouble when I get careless and then I stick out like a sore thumb," said the off-season Idaho buddy of Law, who has an 8-1 record with the Pirates.

Across the Redbird clubhouse, Howie Pollet pointed out, "Carelessness is the big thing that has kept Jackson from enjoying some really big seasons. And often he hasn't had many breaks or enough scoring support."

Why did the righthander get off to a 1-5 start that appeared to wreck all hopes for a long-sought 20-victory season, or at least a season to top his high of 15?

"I've had only one really bad start (out of 12)," Jackson said, opening his defense. "I lost those first two by 3-1 (one unearned run) and 3-2. Don't forget, the club got off to a bad start for the third straight year."

Two Runs, Then Zeros.

Jackson said that wasn't carelessness in the first inning when the Phillies scored their only two runs on three of their seven hits in the Cardinals' homecoming game before 9908 at Busch Stadium. Bobby Del Greco singled, Wally Post doubled and Ken Walters singled for the two runs.

"Del Greco hit the ball on the fist, Post one-handed a pitch that he got in front of, but Walters got a good hit," Jackson explained.

Why has Jackson been able to contain Harry Anderson, who used to feast on Larry's pitching?

"I was always giving him his best pitch—low—but tonight we pitched low to him only once," Jackson said. "The ball moved well outside and he hit the ball off the end of his bat."

Jackson, who held Anderson hitless during his nine-strikeout, no-walk performance, then moaned "I've been giving Tony Taylor his pitch, when he was with the Cubs and now with the Phillies."

Taylor, who tripled, doubled and singled against Jackson in a game earlier this season, lined a double to right in the Phils' series opener.

And why has Jackson's record looked dim against the Phillies, who hold an 8-6 career margin over him?

"I've usually pitched well against them, but many times I've been matched against their top pitchers, like Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons, and I've lost quite a few by scores like 3-2 and 4-3," Jackson said. "Del Ennis used to hurt me, too. Look at this game. It was another toughie, 3-2 in the eighth."

Jackson, who had a 3-6 record on this date a year ago when the last-place Cardinals dipped to a 19-31 mark, retired 14 straight Phillies after giving up the two runs.

Eight Walks by Short.

In the meantime, the Redbirds finally took advantage of the wildness of Chris Short, tall rookie lefty making his first start this season.

The 6-4 son of a Delaware judge, who walked eight in the first five innings of his six-inning stint, stopped the Cards with men on second and third in the third inning. Julian Javier singled and stole second. After Joe Cunningham walked, he and Javier pulled a double steal. However, Bill White, a .379 powerhouse against righthanders but a .210 weakling against lefties, struck out.

Three walks, including one to Javier with the bases filled, and two errors gave the Cardinals a run in the fourth, which Cunningham ended by striking out with the bases filled.

When the Redbirds moved ahead, 3-2, in the fifth, two lightweight hitters who have been getting key hits lately came through again. Following Boyer's infield hit and a walk, Hal Smith delivered a run-scoring infield hit. Then Flood broke the tie by lining a slow curve high against the left-field wall for a double.

"The ball hit close to the top and it went off the webbing of my glove after it bounced off the wall," left fielder Walters explained. Making a quick pickup, Walters caught Smith at the plate by way of a shortstop relay.

Jackson Gets a Single.

Flood also touched off the Redbirds' two-run eighth with an infield hit off Ruben Gomez. Then Jackson, faking a bunt, chopped the ball over the head of onrushing Al Dark for a hit.

"That's three straight games in which I've had a hit," boasted Jackson, who smiled when reminded that put him 53 games short of Joe DiMaggio's record.

Two Stolen Bases in Inning

BOB MALKMUS, Philadelphia Phillies' shortstop, leaps high for Catcher Cal Neeman's throw to second base as JULIAN JAVIER, Cardinal infielder, slides in with a stolen base in the third inning of game at Busch Stadium. The Redbird rookie then got his second pilfered base in the inning when he and Joe Cunningham pulled a double steal. Both men were left on base, but the Cardinals scored in three other innings to win, 5-2.

Manager Gene Mauch rushed in Taylor Phillips, a southpaw, to face Cunningham. The lefty-versus-lefty whammy failed this time as Cunningham lined a two-run single to left.

"It's getting to be like 1954, eh Stan, with all these lefthanders," Cunningham said to Musial after the game. The Birds are 11-8 against southpaws, 11-16 against righthanders.

Not even the old jinx of posing for a squad photograph before the game could stop the Cardinals. After the Redbids watched the birdie, they lifted their Busch Stadium record to 16-6 with the eleventh victory in their last 17 games.

Now, if Jackson, the hot potato from Idaho, doesn't cool off, the off-season sports columnist could have a lot more to write about next Hot Stove League season.

Football Cards Sign Fullback

A fullback who won 16 high school letters—four each in football, basketball, baseball and track—has been signed for the coming season by the St. Louis football Cardinals.

He is Glen Shamblin, 210-pounder whose collegiate play at West Virginia U. was curtailed because of ankle injuries.

Shamblin, now 24, earned his letters at Sissonville, W. Va., high school. He ran the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds and the 220-yard dash in 22 seconds.

Softball No-Hitter

Katie Cordes of Holy Name pitched a 1-0 softball no-hitter in a C.Y.C. senior contest against St. Augustine last night at Fairground Park. She struck out 12 and walked two.

Miller to Try Arm as Starter, Faces Roberts

Bob (2-0) Miller tonight is scheduled to make his first start for the Cardinals since a shoulder injury caused him to leave the mound abruptly in Cincinnati a month ago today. Robin (1-7) Roberts probably will pitch for the Phillies in the 8 o'clock game at Busch Stadium.

"It will be Larry Jackson, Miller, Ron Kline and Ray Sadecki in the regular rotation," Manager Solly Hemus said. "I'd prefer to keep Ernie Broglio as a combination reliever and spot starter because he has been more consistent in the bullpen. By starting Miller, I can give him the benefit of a full-warmup."

Kline takes his turn tomorrow night against the Phils. Because Thursday's an open date, Hemus said he might come back with Jackson Friday night against the Pirates here.

Curt Simmons and Cal Browning, the still unused lefty, will be spot starters, too, Hemus said.

When Larry Jackson won his six straight in 1957, the first five came in relief roles. During his current six-victory streak, he has allowed just 11 runs (9 earned), 43 hits in 49 innings, only one home run and 11 walks. He has struck out 30 and compiled a 1.65 earned-run average over that stretch.

Something New Added.

The colorful on-deck circles used at Busch Stadium for the first time Monday were inspired by the ones at Milwaukee's park.

"When Eddie Stanky was in Milwaukee recently, he sent us a clipping from a newspaper with a picture of the on-deck circles, and that gave us the idea," Business Manager Art Routzong said. "They're made of tough vinyl rubber with a plywood backing and they're nonskid."

As expected, the home club's on-deck circle features the traditional bat-swinging Redbird. The Phillie insignia is a red cap, the Cubs' a little bear, the Pirates' a Consair and the Braves an Indian chief.

"The most attractive visitors' circle is Cincinnati's," Routzong said. "It has the Redleg player with the handlebar mustache in the old-time uniform."

Gerry Henderson, lefthanded Springfield (Mo.) pitcher, has been signed by the Cardinals for a bonus estimated at $15,000. The Hillcrest High graduate, 6-3 and 210 pounds, had a 7-1 record as a senior and a 13-1 mark in Legion ball. He attended Arkansas U. on a basketball scholarship the last term.

Henderson, signed by scout Fred Hawn, will remain here for three days working with Howie Pollet, Cardinal pitching coach. Then he will report to Winnipeg in the Northern League.

Peanuts Lowrey, the Cardinals' former star pinch-hitter who recently became a Phillies coach, manned the third-base box in place of Manager Gene Mauch. Peanuts still appears in movie bit parts (his latest included "Off Limits" and "Hans Christion Anderson"), but golf still takes up most of his off-season time. . . . Del Rice, cut loose by the Cubs, watched the game. He still is hoping for a major league connection.

The "Bowling Queen of St. Louis" will be crowned at Busch Stadium tonight at 7:45. She will be presented along with her court of six maids. Queen candidates are: June Harris, Stein Bros. Bowl; Pat Mansker, Arena Bowl; Arlene Donnelly, Floriss Lanes; Joyce Suchara, Regal Lanes; Dorothy Lillard, Airport Bowl; Barbara Pritzker, Terry Moore Bowl, and Jackie Milberger, Concord Bowl.—N.R.

Moore to Box Schoppner for Title July 18

TORONTO, June 7 (UPI)—Archie Moore will defend his world lightheavyweight boxing championship against Erich Schoppner of Germany in Toronto's Varsity Stadium, July 18, it was announced today.

Mayor Nathan Philips made the announcement.

The signing ceremony for the fight will be held in the mayor's office tomorrow. Neither fighter will be present. Their lawyers will sign the contract.

Guarantees for the fight are $200,000 minimum to Moore and $50,000 to Schoeppner. The fight is being promoted by Dave Rush of Toronto.

Each fighter also will be assured $5000 expenses for training camps which will be set up in the city.

Rush said he is associated in the venture with three New Yorkers, Roy Cohn and Humbert and Bill Fugazy of Feature Sports, Inc.

Khoury No-Hitters

Ceresia's Hawks defeated General Foods, 15-0, last night on Tim Murphy's five-inning no-hitter in the Khoury senior Manufacturers League. Murphy struck out 11 and walked one. Homers were by John Keppler, Chuck Mossberger and Harry Mossberger.

Jim Creighton of United Freezer pitched a seven-inning no-hitter in a Khoury midget game against Rabenberg, 10-0.

Buchholz, McKinley Triumph

BECKENHAM, England, June 7 (UPI) — Earl Buchholz and Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, scored easy victories today when they opened their 1960 British tennis campaigns in the Kent championships.

Buchholz ousted Hugh Brown of England, 6-2, 6-0. McKinley defeated Thomas Hallberg of Sweden, in another first round singles match, 6-2, 6-3.

Jon Douglas, former Stanford University football star, defeated Russia's Mikhail Moser, 6-3, 6-0. Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., defeated Michael Satchwell-Smith of England, 6-1, 6-2.

Decision In TV Bout Questioned

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—The State Athletic Commission said it is conducting an inquiry into last Friday night's Emile Griffith-Jorge Fernandez television fight at St. Nicholas Arena. The commission indicated it was not happy over the decision.

Griffith of New York was awarded a split decision over the Argentine after 10 lively rounds. Many of the fans jeered the verdict and some of the hot-headed customers fired five chairs from the low hanging balcony into the ring. No one was seriously hurt.

The New York Boxing Club, Inc., which promotes at St. Nicks, was directed to provide better special police supervision.

In a statement issued Monday, Gen. Melvin Krulewitch, chairman of the three-man commission, said:

"The commission is not authorized by law to change the decision of its officials. A previous commission attempted to overrule the officials who rendered a certain decision and the Supreme Court held that the New York State Athletic Commission had no power to change the decision.

"The commission is conducting an inquiry into the facts surrounding this bout and has directed the New York Boxing Club, Inc., which conducted this show, to provide better special police supervision so that the spectators will be safeguarded from any recurrence of this disorder."

The commission referred to the Billy Graham-Joey Giardello bout in Madison Square Garden, Dec. 19, 1952. Giardello was awarded the decision. The commission the same night changed the card of one official and awarded the bout to Graham. Giardello took the matter to the State Supreme Court, which reversed the commission's action and ordered the original decision — favoring Giardello — to stand.

In the Griffith-Fernandes fight, Referee Pete Della and Judge Jack Gordon each voted for Griffith by 5-4-1 scores. Judge Joe Agnello had Fernandez ahead, 6 rounds to 4. A ringside poll showed a 9-1 margin for Fernandez with two writers calling it a draw.

Oriole 'Kiddie Korps' Does It Again; Estrada Has 6-1 Hill Record

NEW YORK, June 7 (UPI)—It took a super salesman like Paul Richards to sell his Baltimore Orioles the idea they could win a pennant with pitching and hustle. Richards delivered his sales talk on the opening day of spring training.

"The White Sox won last year mainly on pitching and hustle," he told his young, impressionable Orioles. "If they did it, there isn't any reason in the world why you can't do it the same way."

And that's exactly the manner in which the first-place Orioles have won 28 of their last 40 games. They lead the American League now by 2½ games and even Al Lopez of the White Sox is beginning to show some respect.

"It's still a little bit early, but I'm definitely impressed," Lopez said following Baltimore's 6-1 victory over Washington last night.

The White Sox manager, however, was no less impressed by his own team's 3-2 triumph over the Yankees in the only other A.L. game scheduled.

Rookie Chuck Estrada, 22-year-old member of Baltimore's "Kiddie Korps," struck out seven and yielded six hits in beating Washington. Estrada, who is putting in only his fourth season in pro ball, did not allow a single extra-base blow in running his record to 6-1.

Like last year's White Sox, the Orioles showed speed on the base paths with three thefts, including two by Marv Breeding, who collected three of the Orioles' nine hits.

Baltimore clinched the game early by raking Jim Kaat for five runs on six hits in 3⅔ innings. Jim Gentile, a Dodger castoff, supplied the muscle by driving in three runs with a two-run double in the third inning and his seventh homer of the season in the seventh.

Two errors by third baseman Gil McDougald in the ninth inning enabled the Whit Sox to win their fourth straight and remain three games off the pace, half a game behind the second-place Indians.

Aparicio Comes Through.

Luis Aparicio's single with the bases full in the ninth drove in the winning run after the White Sox loaded the bases on Sherm Lollar's single and the two errors by McDougald on balls hit by Gene Freese and Al Smith.

Southpaw Whitey Ford was the victim of the errors which resulted in his fourth defeat against two victories. Gerry Staley, second of three White Sox pitchers, was credited with his sixth victory although he yielded Roger Maris's fifteenth homer, which tied the score at 2-2 during the one inning he pitched. Minnie Minoso had put Chicago ahead, 2-1, with a two-run single in the first of the eighth before Maris's circuit blow.

Boxer, 19, In Hospital After Kayo

NEW YORK, June 7 (UPI)—Tommy Pacheco, a 19-year-old Puerto Rican lightweight who found his thirteenth pro fight the unluckiest, underwent brain surgery early today in an effort to save his life from the effects of a beating he took in the ring last night.

Pacheco did not regain consciousness following his 10th-round knockout at the hands of Bennie Gordon of New York in the main event at St. Nicholas Arena.

He was carried from the ring on a stretcher and physicians administered oxygen in the dressing room but could not revive him. He then was taken to a hospital in an ambulance.

Hospital officials said his condition was "critical."

Last night's bout was only the first 10-rounder for both Pacheco and Gordon. Pacheco has been boxing professionally since May, 1958. Gordon, 21, began pro boxing only last year.

Pacheco had won six and lost six of his previous bouts. Two of his victories had been against Gordon, both on decisions. Gordon's record was 10 victories, three defeats and one draw before last night.

Mutuel Clerks Accept Increase, Strike Ends

CHICAGO, June 7 (UPI) — Striking mutuel clerks at Balmoral race track today accepted an offer of a $2-per-day raise extending over the next three years and will return to work tomorrow when racing will resume, it was announced today.

Representatives of the clerks, members of the International Electrical Workers Union, accepted the proposal and requested the members to return to their jobs.

David H. Mendelson, a track attorney, said the new contract called for a $1-per-day wage increase this year, for 50 cents more a day in 1961, and for an additional 50 cents per day in 1962.

No insurance provisions were included in the three-year agreement.

Tom the Just

NEW YORK, June 7—In the little band of wilful men who own baseball, Tom Yawkey has stood for 30 years as an example of capitalistic virtue. The owner of the Red Sox is a fan who has put millions of his own into the game, thirsting for championships and no doubt hoping wistfully for profits, but always ready to settle for less.

Indeed, outside of one pennant 14 years ago, the chief return on his investment has been the privilege of taking batting practice in a real ball park. Maybe he doesn't do it any more, but is used to be that after a game was over and the customers had quit Fenway Park, the club president would pull on sweatshirt and flannel rompers and get Johnny Orlando, the clubhouse man, to pitch while he stood at the plate aiming line drives at the left field wall. It made a charming tableau, the happiest millionaire at play.

Yawkey has a reputation as a fair and generous employer, not only among players but all through his organization from the executive offices to the province of Tommy McCarthy, the matchless maitre de pressbox.

In fact, he has been hailed so often as a model of sportsmanship in a company of carpetbaggers that he had called to mind that ancient Greek who was banished from Athens because the people wearied of hearing him called "The Just." Just the same, it was strictly in character when Yawkey sprang to the defense of his manager, Bill Jurges, the other day, and he is rightly applauded for it.

A Stand-Up Guy

As a rule, nothing marks a manager for extinction more surely than a "vote of confidence" from the front office. On the basis of Yawkey's established form, however, this case appears to be a bona fide exception. One can only believe Yawkey meant it when he said he had no intention of firing Jurges, because the Red Sox were a "lousy" team for whom no manager should be responsible.

It is, of course, standard practice in baseball to make the manager the scapegoat for the poor judgment, inefficiency, parsimony or bad luck of the organization charged with providing talent. It is unfair and unreasonable, and in this instance it would also be outrageous, because even a total stranger passing through Scottsdale, Ariz., last March could recognize for what it was the bloodless crew in rehearsal there.

Naturally, Jurges gets no guarantee of a life tenure. No manager expects that. Even Connie Mack fired himself after half a century, and he was free to admit that only rank favoritism in the front office enabled him to hold the job as long as he did.

Soon or later circumstances will dictate a change with the Red Sox. Apparently Yawkey is not going to make a fall guy out of Jurges for inability to accomplish the impossible. At the risk of getting Tom The Just banished from Boston, salud, skaal, prosit.

Genius Unmasked

Latest reports say Casey Stengel is feeling fairly chipper again and looks like an early winner in his bout with a low-grade infection, which perhaps might have been warded off by high-grade pitching. Meanwhile the Yankees dawdle around the .500 mark, winning when they contrive to get the other side out.

It was just about a year ago that the jackals found the Stengel spoor and the world discovered for the first time what an incompetent phony had been directing the Yankees all these years. Ordinary baseball fans, accustomed to almost uninterrupted success by the Bronx delegation, were honestly perplexed by the inadequacy of a team handicappers had rated odds-on to extend its reign.

As it became more and more evident that the Yankees' troubles went deeper than a mere slump, the intellectuals came forward to reveal where the difficulties lay. Nothing ailed the Yankees, they explained, that couldn't be cured, by giving Mr. Stengel full-time employment in that bank of his in Glendale, Calif.

He had lost control of the team. The players considered their manager a boob, refused to stand for his abuse. In the past, the Yankees' individual skills had concealed the manager's errors of judgment but now his poverty of intellect was apparent to everybody, with any other leader the team would have won easily.

Small, Lingering Doubts

Only one point escaped the deep thinkers, or was ignored by them. How had this monumental fraud carried off his imposture for so many years? In the decade when his teams were winning five straight championships and then four more in a row, where were those qualities of perception which now enabled his critics to unmask him?

This remains unexplained, to this day. Lately in Casey's illness his duties have been handled by Ralph Houk, an able and experienced leader, trained to command, recognized these several years as Casey's heir apparent.

It would be, of course, presumptuous to question the wisdom of those who cleared up all our confusion last summer. A fellow could wish, though, that they would come to our aid now. It would be comforting to understand why, if last year's failure was Casey's failure, there hasn't been improvement under Houk.

Bolt, Winner at Memphis, Boosts Hogan for U.S. Open

Iron Play Decisive in 68 Playoff

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 7 (UPI) — Tommy Bolt, prepping for next week's National Open by winning the Memphis Open golf tournament in a playoff round, paid tribute today to Ben Hogan, whom he edged by a single stroke.

"That Hogan is tough coming down the stretch," said Bolt, who pocketed $4300 to $2500 each for Hogan and Gene Littler, "and I don't like to play him at all."

The 41-year-old Bolt, of Crystal River, Fla., whose last tournament victory was in the 1958 Open, gained the victory though playing with the knowledge that his wife, Mary Lou, underwent surgery in a hospital here Sunday.

He used smoking-hot long iron play to post a two-under-par 68 and fend off Hogan's closing rush.

Misses 5-Foot Putt.

Hogan missed a five-foot putt for a birdie on No. 18 and finished with a 69. Littler, steady from tee to green but putting erratically, wound up with a 71.

Bolt turned the front nine in 33, holding a three-stroke bulge over Littler and four over Hogan.

But the 48-year-old "Hawk" from Fort Worth Tex., gained strokes on the tenth with a birdie, the thirteenth with an eagle and the fourteenth, which Bolt bogied.

Hogan evened the match with a birdie on 16 after chipping out of the rough to within two feet of the hole.

Bolt applied the clincher on the par-3 seventeenth. Choking up his two-iron, he slammed the ball four feet past the flag and rammed down the birdie putt. Hogan could only get his par. Littler, 29, from Singing Hills, Calif., took himself out of it with a par.

Inches Short.

Hogan was just short of the green with his second shot on the par-5 eighteenth. He chipped within five feet. With nothing to lose, he went for the bird, but the try was inches short. Bolt took his par and first money.

Bolt and Hogan traded praise after it was over.

"He (Bolt) was unbeatable today," Hogan said. "And I really believe where I would make one birdie, Tommy would make two."

"The National Open is coming up and the little man is playing very well," countered Bolt. "I better get my money down on him."

Key Putt in Bolt's Victory

TOMMY BOLT watches as a birdie putt drops on No. 17 to give him one stroke lead over Ben Hogan in the playoff for first in the Memphis Open golf tourney. Bolt and Hogan parred No. 18 to give Bolt a one-stroke victory with a two-under par 68. Gene Littler, the third man in the playoff, had 70.

Ingo, Invited to Meet President, Learns About Old Political Runaround

GROSSINGER, N.Y., June 7 (UPI)—Persons acquainted with the facts about Ingemar Johansson's presidential runaround were praising the heavyweight champion today for his composure and sense of humor.

Doubtlessly, President Eisenhower would share in this admiration of Ingo's good nature had he learned of the blunderings at Bear Mountain; for Mr. Eisenhower has the reputation of being fair-minded as well as sports-minded.

Johansson, unbeaten heavyweight champion of the world, is training here at the Grossinger Country Club for his first defense of the crown against Floyd Patterson, June 20.

On Saturday, Ingemar was a happy champion as he went through his strenuous workout. He had received an invitation from the Republican leader of Rockland County to meet President Eisenhower at a Republican fund-raising dinner in the Bear Mountain (N.Y.) Inn, 80 miles away.

Can't Find Politician.

Johansson and his party, which included two Swedish magazine photographers, drove to the Bear Mountain Inn and arrived while the president was speaking. The champion and friends waited in the doorway of the jammed dining room until the president had finished. Then the president was escorted upstairs to a reunion dinner of his West Point class of 1915.

It was at that moment that the three-hour runaround began. Neither Ingemar nor the various publicity men nor reporters could find the Rockland politician who had invited him.

One reporter, not of the Washington clan, went into the presidential press room and tried to acquaint the very brusque woman major-domo with the situation. But she said this was not among her "arrangements" and there was nothing she could do about it. No, she could not get a message to the President.

The head of a New York public relations office tried to inform the empress of the press room that the world's most famous athlete had been invited by a Republican politician to meet the President and that he had driven 80 miles because of the "command."

"But she almost slammed the door in my face," reported the public relations tycoon.

Ingemar, a prominent foreign visitor who merely wanted to meet the President without seeking a handout, was then invited to sit down and have dinner. But when the Johansson party arrived at the table for which they had tickets, it was occupied by others, who refused to leave.

Reports, No Action.

"Nothing can be done," said a committeewoman, "because you people arrived late for dinner, and they have taken your places."

Johansson and his party cooled their heels in a deserted refreshment tent, meanwhile getting a long series of reports from various politicians that "no message can be sent to the President"—from the first floor to the second—in a country that had bounced radio signals off the moon.

Ingemar heard these reports with increasing incredulity. He finally grinned and said: "I guess I should have brought my carrier pigeons."

But he never met the President.

James Hits Homer; Buchek Boots Three

RICHMOND, Va., June 7 (AP) —The Richmond Vees finally got what they've been seeking for a long time—timely hitting and airtight pitching—last night and found the combination can't be beaten.

The Vees, aided further by shoddy Rochester fielding, swept a doubleheader from the Wings, 4-3 and 6-0, and moved into third place in the International League. Buffalo defeated Columbus behind Art Mahaffey and reliever Max Surkont, 6-2, in the only other I.L. game scheduled.

Jim Bronstad allowed Rochester only four hits in eight innings of the scheduled seven-inning opener. Two were home runs by Luke Easter and Charlie James. Granny Hamner's double following a passed ball on a strikeout by loser Bob Tiefenauer got the winning run.

Ken Hunt homered for the Vees in the bottom of the sixth after Easter's 450-foot shot gave the Wings a 3-2 lead. It was Hunt's third home run in two days and fourth of the season.

Billy Stafford allowed five hits in the nightcap, while the Vees were aided by five Rochester errors, three by shortstop Jerry Buchek.

Mahaffey, now 6-2, struck out 12 but walked eight before Surkont came on with two out in the seventh and protected the victory. Buffalo, winning its eighth in the last nine starts, sewed up things with a five-run sixth, getting three unearned runs on an error by catcher Bill Hall.

Columbus lost third baseman Leo Rodriguez with a broken ankle and outfielder Tom Burgess with a jammed and bruised knee in last night's game.

Cahokia Betting Under '59

By Herman Wecke

Wagering at the Cahokia Downs race meeting is under the 1959 handle, according to statistics for the first 29 nights of the 60-day meeting.

The total is $6,537,659, an average of $224,902 for each program. A year ago the figure was $6,630,111.

Races have been attended by 135,167 fans, which means that the handle is a little better than $48 per person.

If William A. (Bill) Clark, trainer for the Carroll P. Poland stable, continues his present pace, he will top his figure of a year ago. Clark paced the trainers last season with 31 firsts. He already has saddled 16 winners this year. Closest to Clark is Fred Roenigke, the Collinsville veteran, with nine wins. Don Bravard, who trains for Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Holman of Mount Vernon, Ill., has seven.

Clark has saddled 14 winners for the Poland Stable; one for Mrs. Poland and the others for Robert Pool.

With Belloin Pulido sitting out a 10-day suspension, Ray Landing, last season's riding champion, has taken a five-win lead in the race for jockey honors. Landing has 27 firsts to 22 for Pulido. Carl Woodley is third with 16 victories. Noah Atchley and Terry Murphy are next with 14 each.

Five horses are tied for the most victories with three each. One of the best records is that of Sal's Request from the Poland string. The five-year-old mare, in addition to three victories, has one second and two thirds.

Other three-time winners are: John Stelle's Gold Hill Belle; Roland Jordan's Gilded King; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Holman's Mac Again and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hinds' Phillip H.

The East St. Louis Jockey Club's meeting reaches the halfway point with a nine race program tonight. Post time is 8:30 o'clock.

Basilio Refused Entry to Fullmer Training Camp

WEST JORDAN, Utah, June 7 (UPI)—The whole country is becoming spy conscious.

Middleweight Carmen Basilio yesterday was refused entry at Gene Fullmer's training camp. Basilio will challenge Fullmer for the N.B.A. crown June 29.

Fullmer's manager, Marv Jensen, who previously said Fullmer had nothing to hide, said he feared Basilio might pick up some secrets while visiting the West Jordan camp.

Three Knockdowns In Round Spell End

LAKE CHARLES, La., June 7 (AP)—Paul Jorgensen of Port Arthur, Tex., knocked down Gallito Reyes of Monterey, Mex., three times in the fourth round for an automatic technical knockout here last night.

Jorgensen weighed 133, three pounds less than Reyes, for the scheduled 10-round bout.

Jorgensen began pounding Reyes early and connected with left hooks to the body and head in the second round that sent the Mexican to the floor for an eight count.

Bills Fifth In Valley Golf Meet

PEORIA, Ill., June 7 (UPI)—Houston held a two-stroke lead half way through the 72-hole Missouri Valley Conference golf tournament here.

Houston, paced by Jack Cupit, who shot a 71-70—141 for medalist honors, posted a team score of 585 as compared with second-place North Texas State's 587.

North Texas State had the No. 2 individual player in Bill Eschenbrenner, who shot a 70-74 in the opening two rounds to post a 144, one ahead of third-place Dick Crawford of Houston, who shot a 72-73 for 145.

Tulsa was in third place with 595, followed by Cincinnati, with 621; St. Louis U 629; Bradley, the host school, 631, Wichita, 653; and Drake, 763.

Cupit, Eschenbrenrer and Crawford were followed by Ralph Baker and Jerry Jones of Tulsa, and Barry Luke of North Texas, all of whom were tied for fourth at 147.

Southwest Mentioned As a Goal

NORMAN, Okla., June 7 (AP)—T. R. Benedum, University of Oklahoma board of regents president, said today the school would be better off to withdraw from the Big Eight Conference if its athletic program is recognized by another conference.

Benedum, commenting on a proposal by Sports Editor John Cronley of the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman that O. U. withdraw from the Big Eight, said:

"The university's welfare would be better served to withdraw from the Big Eight provided its athletes are recognized by another conference such as the Southwest.

"Serious consideration would have to be given to Mr. Wilkinson's (Football Coach Bud Wilkinson) abiuity to schedule games without conference affiliation. The minor sports would undoubtedly suffer, but the good derived in the area of football would likely offset this."

"In view of the attitude expressed by faculty representatives, the need for O.U. to withdraw from the Big Eight is pointed up."

Earl Sneed., Oklahoma's Big Eight faculty representative, said several ramifications would have to be considered in connection with the proposal that the school drop out of the conference.

"We have a natural allegiance in competition with these (other Big Eight) teams in the Great Plains," he said. However, in my seven years as O.U. faculty representative, I have observed some antipathy toward O.U., probably arising from the fact that we are a consistent winner."

At the same time, Sneed said Oklahoma probably will ask the conference to change its mind about letting O.U. play Hawaii in a post-season football game next year. By a vote of 5-3, the conference denied the Sooners permission to make the trip. The school had made tentative arrangements with the University of Hawaii for the game

Sugar Does the Carving

SUGAR RAY ROBINSON, five times holder of assorted middleweight boxing titles, carves a slice of roast beef for Boston promoter, SAM SILVERMAN, at a sports luncheon. Robinson seeks his sixth crown Friday night when he opposes Paul Pender in a return bout.

Sugar Ray Floored By a Punching Bag

BOSTON, June 7 (UPI)—Sugar Ray Robinson was to take on a hard-hitting punching bag again today to sharpen up for his middleweight title rematch with champion Paul Pender at Boston Garden Friday night.

The bag, suspended from ceiling to floor by chains, won the first round yesterday when it bounced back after a vicious Robinson jab and flopped the former champ on his trunks. Ray didn't appear at all flustered.

He picked himself up and immediately launched a bit of rope jumping magic that had 50 training camp onlookers dazzled. He looked trim and fit.

Robinson earlier had attended a press conference and refused to make any knockout predictions. "I'll just be trying to win, he said.

"A lot depends on what Pender does," Robinson said. "I expect him to bring the fight to me more than he did last time. So all I need is my 15-round memory to pace myself."

Ray said he could remember every round of his last fight with Pender Jan. 22 when he lost his Massachusetts-New York version of the middleweight title on a split decision. Despite the loss, he said he planned no new strategy.

Robinson said he would ask the Massachusetts Boxing Commission this week to authorize round-by-round announcements of the judge's scoring in the coming fight. The commission already has indicated it would refuse the request.

Though Robinson was suspended in New York State after he failed to show for a scheduled fight in Baltimore May 16, New York has agreed to recognize the winner of Friday's fight as the champion. Robinson never has lost a rematch.

Thurmers Win Three

A weekend trip to Indianapolis netted the Thurmer softball team of the Muny Senior Division three victories and one defeat. The St. Louisans defeated the Krames, 6-4, and then lost 8-5. They trimmed Seven-Up, 7-2 and the Robins, 7-3. Ralph Baker pitched two of the victories and Bill Kraus the other.

Olson Wins Over Holt In Comeback

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, June 7 (UPI)—The fistic comeback of Carl (Bobo) Olson took on a more serious aspect today as the result of his victory over Mike Holt, the South African light heavyweight champion.

Bobo, whose ring fortunes have risen and fallen many times during a 15-year-pro career, won a surprising 10-round decision over the 28-year-old Holt last night at Rand Stadium. Holt entered the ring a 2-to-1 favorite.

The 32-year-old Olson, who held the world middleweight title back in 1953-55 and lost a bout with Archie Moore for the light heavy crown in 1955, showed a lot of his old ring craftsmanship in beating Holt.

Although he was warned about head-butting three times during the early rounds, Olson had much the better of the infighting and scored repeatedly with solid left hooks in the later stages.

DOWGARD*
World's first year 'round cooling system fluid
New scientific formulation replaces water in summer, antifreeze in winter. Stops rust and corrosion damage, protects against freezing and overheating for 12 full months. Offers new concept of carefree motoring—summer and winter. Should be installed now for immediate benefits!

If you value performance and economy, you will want to have this new product from Dow installed in your cooling system immediately.

You see, ordinary water—even with the addition of antifreeze or a rust inhibitor—can cause rust and corrosion in your cooling system. This can lead to poor gas mileage, ping, knock, reduced heater-defroster efficiency. And, if left unchecked, burned valves, warped cylinders and heads can result.

New concept—Complete fill
However, now you can end worrisome cooling system problems by having DOWGARD cooling system fluid installed in your car. It is a complete formulation, a new blend of protective chemicals and specially treated de-ionized water. DOWGARD fills the cooling system completely from top to bottom. Nothing else is added—no water, antifreeze or rust inhibitors!

Lasts one full year
DOWGARD protects from 240°F. above zero to 40°F. below. It is the only year 'round coolant you can buy. It prevents overheating in summer, freezing in winter.

Why now? Stops summer rust
Rust and corrosion can form many times faster in summer than in winter. This is particularly true when old antifreeze is left in the cooling system. The only sure way to prevent this damage, and the trouble it brings, is to have DOWGARD cooling system fluid installed in your car now.

Sold only at service dealers
Get DOWGARD at your regular service dealer and enjoy the equivalent of a sealed cooling system for one full year. It's a premium product that gives your car the protection it deserves—one of the wisest investments you can make.

If left unchecked, rust coating on cylinder walls can clog water passages

Eight Likely to Start in Belmont to Make It $152,150 Stake

Tooth and Nail Wins 4th in Row

NEW YORK, June 7 (UPI)—The entry of Tooth and Nail in next Saturday's Belmont Stakes, raising the prospective field to eight, could make the third leg of the Triple Crown classics the richest in the history of the race.

If all eight go postward in the ninety-second running of the Belmont, the gross will be $152,150, surpassing last year's high of $145,500.

Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim of the Cain Hoy Stable put up the $5000 supplementary nomination fee for Tooth and Nail a few hours after the three-year-old colt turned in an eight-length victory yesterday in the New Rochelle Purse at Belmont.

In scoring his fourth successive triumph of the season, Tooth and Nail was clocked in 1:42 3/5 for the mile and one-sixteenth event.

Trouble for Bally Ache?

Tooth and Nail's ability to go to the front early could prove trouble to Bally Ache, winner of the Preakness and the Jersey Derby. Disperse, another Belmont hopeful, finished second to Tooth and Nail, while Croatan, who set the pace, faded to third.

Manuel Ycaza, who has ridden Tooth and Nail to his last three victories, will not be able to ride the colt in the Belmont. The 22-year-old Panamanian was notified yesterday that he was suspended for 10 days beginning June 8.

Eddie Arcaro, who is scheduled to ride Disperse Saturday, will be out to break the Belmont Stakes record for victories. Jimmy McLaughlin, who rode before the turn of the century, and Arcaro are tied with six triumphs apiece in the Belmont.

Earlier yesterday C. V. Whitney's Tompion was made a supplementary nomination for Saturday's event. Willie Shoemaker will ride Tompion, which finished a disappointing fourth in the Kentucky Derby after going off as the 11-10 favorite.

Brooks on Venetian Way.

Bobby Ussery, who was aboard Bally Ache when he won the Preakness and the Jersey Derby and was second in the Kentucky Derby, will again ride the son of Ballydam.

Kentucky Derby winner Venetian Way will be handled by Steve Brooks and Celtic Ash will have Bill Hartack in the saddle.

Hedley Woodhouse is slated to ride John William and Angel Valenzuela will be aboard Nagea, an invader from California.

Bally Ache and Nagea worked out at Belmont yesterday in preparation for Saturday's big stakes race.

Johnny Ruane took Bally Ache over a mile in 1:42 while Nagea, with Ray York in the saddle, covered a mile and one-eighth in 1:52 3/5.

Refugees' Sons Stars of Los Angeles Soccer Team

By Dent McSkimming

Sons of refugees from central European countries make up the Los Angeles junior soccer team that is coming here to oppose St. Paul parish eleven in a national championship tournament match Sunday.

Frank Percy, soccer writer of the Los Angeles Examiner, sends a word of warning to the St. Louis junior champions.

"Your St. Paul kids will have to be at their peak to hold these Los Angeles boys," writes Percy. "They have a goal scoring record of 19-3 for eight league and cup games and, in addition, they have played many non-league games in which they have piled up larger scores. I'm sure they will give St. Paul a busy afternoon."

The Los Angeles champions represent St. Stephen parish in that city, just as the St. Louis champions are sponsored by north side St. Paul parish.

Two Mexican boys break that all-European front to complete the St. Stephen starting lineup. They are nippy forwards, Arturo Ariza at inside right, and Amerigo Torres, at center forward.

Two Regulars May Be Out.

As of now, two regular starters may not make the trip to St. Louis. Captain and center halfback Adam Zink, and a backfield man, Charles Ferenc Muhl, are reported unavailable. Manager Joe Frost has a couple of good replacements for the stars but he says he fears he'll miss the center half, especially.

St. Stephen is a real soccer parish with teams in several age divisions. Its senior team plays in Los Angeles's top league and was good enough to reach the California State Cup final in 1952. The Junior League has representative clubs from the various nationality groups such as Yugoslava, Germania, Magyars, Danubians, etc.

Sunday's game, for the mid-west-far-west championship, will be held at Hickey Field, in northwest St. Louis. Action will start at 1:30 with no preliminary attraction.

Was Champs Two Years Ago.

St. Paul won the National Junior Cup two years ago and recently won the midwestern crown by defeating the Schwaben team at Chicago.

The Los Angeles team's probable starting lineup, with the players' ages:

Goal—Mike Medrano, 17. Fullbacks—Matthias Sentef, 16; Peter Kunst, 17. Halfbacks—Helmut Weiss, 17; John Szieble, 16, and Peter Jung, 18. Forwards—Richard Rittner, 18; Arturo Ariza, 16; Amerigo Torres, 17; Guenther Franzke, 18, and Stefan Weiland, 16.

The Junior Cup age limit is 18 at the start of the season.

Indiana Prep Star To Enter Cincinnati U.

MUNCIE, Ind., June 7 (AP)—Ron Bonham of Muncie Central, rated the top high school basketball player in Indiana last season, signed a letter of intent for the University of Cincinnati last night.

Bonham told Cincinnati Coach Ed Jucker he will decide definitely after the Indiana-Kentucky All-Star series this month whether he will attend Cincinnati, but his mother, Mrs. Russell Bonham, said there was little doubt he would do so.

Bonham probably has been the most sought-after Indiana player since Oscar Robertson of Indianapolis Attucks, a 1960 graduate of Cincinnati.

Match Race Saturday At Detroit

DETROIT, June 7 (AP)—The Detroit area's first match race in 40 years will be held Saturday at the Detroit Race Course when Roman Colonel and Benedicto duel it out for $12,000.

It is a winner-take all race at six furlongs. There will be no wagering.

The two horses have met twice previously. Benedicto, a 5-year-old owned by Mrs. Anthony Bellardi of Lexington, Ky., and T. I. Harkins of Houston, Tex., beat Roman Colonel by a length and a half on May 12.

It was a six-furlong race, the Clang Handicap, at Chicago's Washington Park.

Roman Colonel captured a stakes event at the Detroit track on Memorial Day, beating Benedicto by a short head. Roman Colonel is a 4-year-old colt owned by Mrs. James Benton Hines Jr. of the Silver Creek Farms, Caseyville, Ill.

After the stirring holiday duel, track president Dale Shaffer suggested the race and offered to put up $12,000. The owners agreed to the match.

The tracks were muddy for both previous engagements. Officials here believe the winner will break the Detroit race course record for six furlongs if conditions are good. T. A. Grissom's Shan Pac established the mark at 1:09 2/5 in 1957.

Roman Colonel will carry 126 pounds and Benedicto 115, the same weights they carried Memorial Day.

It will be a jockey duel between brothers, as well. L. C. Cook has been on Roman Colonel and his brother, W. M. Cook on Benedicto in both previous races, and both will be back in the $12,000 sprint.

Jim Manion To Defend Senior Title

KANSAS CITY, June 7 (AP)—Missouri's older golfers will be here later this week seeking the Missouri senior tournament title.

Among those teeing off here Wednesday at Indian Hills club for the three-day event will be James Manion, St. Louis, the defending champion. Manion was the Missouri amateur champion in 1917, 1921 and 1926. He won last year with a 36-hole total of 149 at Joplin's Twin Hills.

Another contender is the Rev. Edward Donahue, Brookfield, who shot 146 last year, but couldn't claim the title because he was a few months short of his 50th birthday, the minimum age. He has a plus-2 handicap.

North Carolina Wins

GASTONIA, N.C., June 7 (AP)—North Carolina won its way into the college world series, beating Florida, 7-5, in the District 3 N.C.A.A. baseball tournament, last night. North Carolina was unbeaten in the double elimination district tournament. North Carolina will play Minnesota, the District 4 winner, next Saturday in its first game in the college world series at Omaha. Florida had beaten The Citadel, 4-1, in the night's first game to move against North Carolina in the deciding contest.

Student Boxer Wins

NEW ORLEANS, June 7 (AP) Freddie Little, Dillard University student from Bogalusa, La., punched his way to a unanimous 10-round decision over Charley Cotton, veteran middleweight from Toledo, O., last night.

Little weighed 153½, Cotton 152.

SELLING PRESSURE HITS JULY SOYBEANS

CHICAGO, June 7 (AP)—The heaviest selling pressure in a week hit July soybean futures today and the price at times was within a cent of the season's low.

The market generally trended toward weakness although wheat and corn held a few small plus signs on a mixed range in the early afternoon. Rye was off major fractions in spots.

The weakness in soybeans was described as outright liquidation following reports that fairly large quantities redeemed from the government loan within the past two weeks are being sold into commercial channels.

Commercial demand was meager all around.

Cut in Bank Loan Prime Rate Due to Follow Reserve Action

Any Reduction Probably Will Be Initiated in New York—Will Depend on Market Developments.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent.

Any reduction in the prime interest rate on bank loans probably will be initiated by New York banks and will depend on developments in the money market there, bankers here say.

The possibiilty of a cut in the lending charges of the large banks in the United States was increased last week when the Federal Reserve Banks of San Francisco and Philadelphia reduced their discount rates from 4 to 3½ per cent. This move is widely expected to be followed by the 10 other Reserve banks in the next few weeks. The board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis meets Thursday to establish the discount rate, which is subject to the approval of the Board of Governors of the System.

W. H. Kester.

The tone of the money market in recent days reflects the anticipation of the change in the discount rate at the other banks, or at least enough of them to continue the new pattern of open market rates. The market yield on three-month Treasury bills yesterday was less than 3 per cent, compared with an average issuing rate of 3.184 per cent a week earlier. Rates on commercial paper and bankers acceptances were reduced again yesterday.

Changes in the prime rate, which is the charge on loans to business with the best credit rating, usually are initiated by New York City banks, which constitute the major financial center of the country. But, any change will not reflect the position of those banks alone; it would reflect the credit picture of the entire nation.

Demand for bank loans has not been strong in recent weeks. In the four weeks ended May 25, loans adjusted of the weekly reporting banks in the nation rose only $60,000,000.

In New York, business loans have declined sharply in recent weeks in contrast to an increase a year ago at this time. Much of the decrease resulted from loan repayments by sales and personal finance companies, which have obtained funds from the capital markets, and by increasing the volume of commercial paper outstanding.

If more companies divert their demands for credit from the banks to the commercial paper or long-term capital markets, the current interest rate structure of the banks will be weakened. The demand for funds from the banks also will be affected to a large degree by the inventory policy of the nation's business firms. Any reduction or maintenance of the present level of inventories will result in a smaller than usual demand for bank loans.

In this respect, the recent trend of new orders and backlogs is not heartening. New orders received by manufacturers from February through April were less than sales. Unfilled orders have declined and at the end of April were about 4 per cent less than they were a year earlier.

Even if the cut in the discount rate is not immediately transmitted into lower bank lending rates, the reduction already has had an impact on the long-term capital market. Corporate and Treasury securities are selling at higher prices than a few weeks ago, with resulting lower yields.

With lower yields on securities, investment in mortgages will become more attractive. The impact of the changed relationship, however, may not be felt for some time. Housing construction changes generally lag the availability of mortgage funds by several months.

With interest rates generally moving to a lower level, the lending rates of banks also are likely to keep step, a local bank official said yesterday. The timing of such a move will be determined largely by the trend of bank loans and the supply of reserves by the Federal Reserve System.

So far this year, the Federal Reserve System has reduced its credit by $340,000,000 less than the usual amount for this time of the year. Pressure on member bank reserves has been relieved to a large extent. Borrowing from the Federal Reserve Banks to meet reserve requirements in recent weeks has been about the same as excess reserves of other banks.

General Insurors, Inc., and Case, Thomas & Marsh have formed an affiliated agency to be known as General Insurors-Case, Thomas & Marsh Inc. with general offices at 4144 Lindell boulevard.

Herman Lief has been appointed director of purchases and elected vice president of Central States Paper and Bag Co. He also will continue as director of industrial relations.

LATEST NEWS FROM BUSINESS WORLD

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Retail sales increased by 4 per cent in April to $19,200,000,000, the Census Bureau estimated. The advance over March was calculated after taking into account normal seasonal fluctuations and trading day differences. On the same basis, sales were up 5 per cent over April 1959. Deliveries of stores selling durable goods were 6 per cent higher than in March and 3 per cent higher than in April 1959. Sales of soft goods retailers showed a 2 per cent gain over March and a 6 per cent advance over April 1959.

DETROIT, June 7 (AP)—The automobile industry's reports of outstanding May production figures have been confirmed by Wards' automotive reports. Wards' said automobile sales increased 1.6 per cent over April and 6.7 per cent over May a year ago. Sales in May this year reached 565,263, the highest in four years and seven months, the agency reported. Compact cars accounted for 25.5 per cent of the market, a decline from 27.5 in April, Wards' said. Chrysler Corp. held a 16.1 per cent share of the market, compared to 13.3 a year ago, while Dodge Dart sales ranked third in the standard-size field, the agency reported.

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—Heavy fuel oil prices have been raised 10 cents a barrel in the mid-continent. The action reflects reduced supplies and active demand for summer filling of storage tanks at industrial and utility plants.

LIGHT SELLING PREDOMINATED in the cotton textile market Tuesday. Converters bought cloth for spot and nearby position, involving resales and first hand offerings. Prices held about unchanged. Business in the wool goods market was disappointingly slow. Prices were higher at the Sydney wool auctions in Australia.

ANOTHER BROAD BASED ADVANCE, VOLUME RISING

NEW YORK, June 7 (UPI)—Stocks made a spirited advance today that gave signs that the anticipated summer rally has been touched off prematurely.

Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 8.66 points higher at 645.58 at the close. The 20 rails gained 1.26 at 143.19 and the 15 utilities rose .14 of a point to 89.69.

Volume picked up sharply on the rise, which, coupled with yesterday's sharp advance, lifted prices to their best level since late January.

Brokers said the improved trader sentiment continued to reflect the better tone of the business news background, and further easing of the credit situation.

Quality stocks — steels, autos and chemicals — again set the pace. Allegheny Ludlum rose about 2 and other leading steels around a point in a continued reaction to the expected sharp pickup in steel output this week.

The Associated Press said that space age issues joined the regular industrials and rails in a renewed rally.

World of Senate committee actio nopening the door to bigger defense outlays helped the electronic-missile-rocket issues. A breakout above the trading range which has prevailed in the Dow Jones industrial average since February brought encouragement to the bulls.

A Senate subcommittee added more than $600,000,000 to a defense bill pased by the House. Aircraft-missiles, as well as the electronics-rocket group were encouraged.

Western Union fell more than a point following news of lower earnings.

advanced and 319 declined. New highs for the year totaled 64 and new lows 22.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2.00 to 220.80 with the industrials up 3.90, the rails up 1.10 and the utilities unchanged.

Based on the rise in the AP average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Sttock Exchange advanced an estimated $2,700,000,000.

Volume was 3,170,000 shares compared with 4,220,000 yesterday.

AID BILL DELAY LIKELY TO BOOST CHANCE FOR HIKE

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, June 7 — A slowdown apparently is being applied to the foreign aid appropriation bill in the House Appropriations subcommittee of which Representative Otto Passman (Dem.), Louisiana, is chairman.

This tactic is not expected to result in the drastic cuts Passman has threatened. Instead, the slowdown may indicate the extent to which heightened international tension has improved prospects for a foreign aid appropriation nearer President Eisenhower's request.

This improvement was illustrated when Representative Clarence Cannon of Missouri, the Democrat who heads the Appropriations Committee, said Sunday that "due to notable changes in the international situation, it's probable there'll be an increased need for foreign aid funds."

Cannon in the past has often supported Passman in reducing foreign aid. He voted against a $4,038,500,000 mutual security authorization that passed the House in April.

The foreign aid appropriation cannot be more than $4,086,200,000. Of that sum, $1,366,200,000 was authorized by Congress May 12. The remaining $2,720,100,000 was authorized last year and carried over to this.

President Eisenhower originally requested a total authorization of $4,175,000,000. Passman has openly predicted cuts of at least $1,500,000,000 from this request.

Cannon's new approach to foreign aid, following the summit collapse and the partial resumption of the cold war between the United States and the Soviet Union, is significant in two ways:

1. It indicates the impact of these events upon members of Congress who are not normally friends of foreign aid.

2. It suggests that Passman may be without the support he had counted on, both in his subcommittee and in the full committee.

No Meeting Planned.

Passman spent all last week in his home district, while his subcommittee was idle. On his return here yesterday he said there were "no plans" for a meeting this week, but he denied that he was delaying consideration of the bill deliberately.

Before his departure for Louisiana, he had conceded that "the tense period we're in" might result in his subcommittee being able "to take out less than the excess" in the foreign aid bill.

Both Administration and Congressional sources think Passman's delay, if it is deliberate, may reflect a loss of strength for his point of view. One source doubted that the seven votes Passman needed in the 12-man subcommittee were available at this time, particularly if Cannon sided with the foreign aid proponents.

Aid to Poland Likely.

The United States is about to agree on another big economic aid package to Poland even though the Poles backed Russia in denouncing the U-2 spy plane incident.

Polish diplomats expect about $100,000,000 worth of surplus commodities to help weather a continuing farm crisis aggravated by a prolonged drouth.

To encourage Poland to rely less on Moscow, the United States has provided a total of $296,000,000 worth of food and economic help to the Warsaw regime over the last four years.

Top American officials were not pleased that Poland's delegate on the United Nations Security Council sided with Russia in seeking to condemn the American spy flight as aggression. The officials felt however that there was little else Poland could do without risking a Soviet crackdown.

BARS DRIVE-IN THEATER'S SENDING SOUND BY SEWER

GROTON, Conn., June 7 (AP) — The Town Council has squelched a drive-in theater's plans to pipe sound into nearby homes.

The drive-in owners asked permission to run a wire through the storm sewer to five homes that get a free peek at the screen but miss the dialogue. They hoped this would squelch complaints about the operation of the theater.

The council decided last night it was best not to have wires running through the sewer.

INDIAN GROUP GOES TO CHINA FOR ROUND IN BORDER ROW

NEW DELHI, June 7 (AP)— Five Indian officials departed for Peiping yesterday for round three of India's border dispute with Communist China.

They will examine Chinese documents supporting a claim to more than 50,000 square miles of Himalayan territory which India also claims. Later, Chinese experts will come to New Delhi and review Indian evidence. A report will be made to Prime Minister Nehru of India and to Premier Chou En-lai of China by September.

The first round of the border dispute consisted of exchanges of diplomatic notes setting forth positions which were irreconcilable. Because of the deadlock, Nehru and Chou met in New Delhi last April.

BODY OF GIRL, APPARENTLY MURDERED, FOUND IN WOODS

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., June 7 (UPI)—The body of a 13-year-old girl, apparently a murder victim, was found today in a wooded section northeast of Excelsior Springs.

The Clay county sheriff's office identified the victim as Joan Wise. She had been reported missing from her home May 27. The body was discovered by three youths playing in the wooded section near the suburban community of Scott.

Excelsior Springs is a resort city approximately 30 miles northeast of Kansas City.

FTC ACCUSES 11 RECORDING FIRMS OF GIVING PAYOLA

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)— The Federal Trade Commission today accused 11 more firms in the recording industry of giving illegal payola to get their records broadcast.

The complaints were directed at:

Sue Records Inc., Fiesta Record Co., Inc., Scepter Music, Inc., Rank Records of America, Inc., and Old Town Record Corp., all of New York City; Mangold Distributing Co. and Marshall Enterprises, Inc., of Baltimore; Hit-Record Distributing Co. of Cincinnati; S & S Distributing Co., Detroit, Peacock Record Co., Inc., Houston, and Apex Producing Corp., Chicago.

The companies have 30 days in which to file answers to the complaints.

$215,000 AWARD AGAINST UMW UPHELD ON APPEAL

CINCINNATI, O., June 7 (UPI)—The United States Court of Appeals here upheld today an award of $215,000 in damages from the United Mine Workers for "destruction" of the mining business of the Osborne Mining Co., Inc., near Jellico, Tenn.

Osborne sued the union for $2,500,000 in 1957. It charged that the union had destroyed its business through the years of intimidation and terrorism.

The appellate court ruled that there obviously had been "a reign of terror" in the UMW's attempt to organize Osborne's miners. It said the union "had a liability for the destruction of Osborne's business."

fices of Whitaker and Baxter, the Flood building, San Francisco.

In the Los Angeles suburbs, "The Orange County Nixon Committee" has exactly the same address as the public relations firm of Geier Associates.

HOW MUCH MONEY this is costing nobody knows, and Senator Lyndon Johnson has been too busy promoting his own campaign to appoint a Senate elections investigating committee. However, public relations firms, unlike volunteer workers, don't work for peanuts and the vote should be a triumph for California's "Madison Avenue."

What Nixon P.R. firms are working to do is roll up a bigger vote than the Democrats. Nixon should be able to outdistance Gov. Pat Brown because pension promoter George McLain, a Democrat, is opposing Brown and will draw about 500,000 Democratic votes.

ONE OF THE MOST interesting primaries of the week is in Montana where four Democrats are running for the Senate seat being vacated by elder statesman Jim Murray, who retires at the age of 84. The candidates include ex-Gov. John Bonner; John Mahan, ex-commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Congressman LeRoy Anderson, a reserve major general who set the congressional record for getting crop loans—$216,730 in three years; and Congressman Lee Metcalf, head of the Democratic "study group" which has dominated House leadership this year. Metcalf is a strong favorite to win.

Graham

we wanted, but we are still empty and bored.

Why are we empty? Because the Creator made us for Himself, and we shall never find completeness and fullness apart from fellowship with Him. Jesus told us long ago that "man shall not live by bread alone," but we have paid no heed.

We have gone on stuffing ourselves with bread of every description — except the Bread Christ offered. We are desperately weary of the emptiness and boredom within. We are confused by the prejudice, hatred, greed and lust that are within us. We seem to be caught in quicksand: we want out of our human dilemma but are powerless. The American genius has enabled us to change everything but ourselves.

IT IS ABSOLUTELY impossible to change society and reverse the moral trend unless we ourselves are changed from the inside out. Man needs transformation or conversion. Unless we Americans are willing to accept humbly the diagnosis of the "Book" on which our culture was largely founded — and to accept its remedy — we are going to continue along the road to disaster and ruin.

The Scriptures warn: "To whom much is given, much is required." Because our privileges have been greater, our responsibilities are greater. Thus, a Holy God requires more of the American people than of any nation in the history of the world with the possible exception of Israel. Our only way to moral reform is through repentance of our sins and a return to God.

Confronted with the evidences of spiritual and moral decay on every hand, we now find ourselves more frequently looking for relief from the consequences of our waywardness rather than to the cause and cure of the desperate situation in which we find ourselves. In the Old Testament we read:

"If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

HERE IS A FORMULA of God's own making, a way by which a nation may return to a right relationship with Him. But I repeat, it is men who must be changed before a nation can be changed.

I am not so naive as to believe that all personal and national problems would be solved if all men should have this transformation. But in Christ the personal problem of sin, which is the "root cause" of many of our problems, would be answered.

A new atmosphere could be created as we approach the complicated social and political problems of our corporate life. We would then have the inner strength, courage and ability to cope with these problems.

America can rise no higher than the individuals who walk its streets, conduct its business, teach its young people, make its homes and attend its churches. It is these individuals who must be changed.

As compelling as are the great social needs of our nation and of the world, these can only be met as individuals are themselves.

British Generals Jealous of Eisenhower, Truman Says.

NEW YORK, June 7 (UPI)— Former President Harry S. Truman said yesterday that two British Generals were suffering from professional jealousy in their criticism of President Eisenhower's military ability during World War II.

He referred to the memoirs of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery and Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke which were critical of Mr. Eisenhower as a general.

Truman said in an article in Look magazine that he believed that many books written by generals tended to be "mainly alibis," but the recent ones appeared to be a little more personal and vindicative.

Truman said he expressed his own opinion of Gen. Eisenhower as a soldier and a leader when he appointed him chief of staff and recalled him to organize the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Truman said that he thought Gen. George C. Marshall was the "brains" of the allied World War II campaign.

Which is the Rambler?

(HINT: Rambler is the car that offers most usefulness to the user)

"Mommy, Jimmy pushed me."
"Daddy, I'm sleepy."
"Mommy, make Tommy sit on his own side."

Familiar words? Not when you own a Rambler with Airliner Reclining Seats† that invite fret-curing naps at the flick of a lever.

But, this Rambler convenience is not just for tykes. You and your driving partner can make longer trips in greater safety, because one can sleep while the other drives. That way the driver can always be alert, refreshed and wide awake.

And with seats that tilt back, it's easy to get things out of the back seat or tend to the baby, without having to stop the car.

The contrast pictured above is just one example of how Rambler is designed to be more useful to the user. There are so many others; sectional sofa front seats† that glide back and forth individually, so tall husband and short wife both ride in comfort . . . adjustable headrests† . . . generous headroom . . . high, wide doors for easy entrance . . . Travel Beds† that sleep two adults and a child. Keeps children safe. No climbing over tail gate or seats to get in.

The useful roof-top Travel Rack is standard at no cost on most Rambler wagons. You pay extra on all competitive wagons.

Exclusive feature after feature to give you the most usable space ever built into an automobile.

RAMBLER GIVES OWNERS MORE

Yes, Rambler engineers are always on the alert for new ideas that will make Ramblers more useful to the user. And Rambler production workers, too, are looking out for your interests, living up to their slogan, "Build Every Rambler As Though You Were Going To Own It Yourself."

This dedication to basic excellence is by no means confined to comfort and convenience features, but goes to every inch of a Rambler, with great basic advances like rattleproof Single-Unit* construction and exclusive Deep-Dip* rustproofing.

Because Rambler stands out as the world's New Standard of Basic Excellence, Rambler sales have soared since the new imitators came out—up 27% over last year. With this record volume, Rambler dealers' costs are down, so they can pass the savings on to you. See your Rambler dealer.

Competition in Tourist Kissing

HONOLULU, June 7.

A FEW ROMANTIC DAYS AGO in Honolulu, one of the professional kissers made a public protest:

"Too many people come now," he mumbled. "Lips get tired."

The professional kisser was a man with a little mileage on him—he was 65, the way I heard it. He had been kissing incoming tourists for 30 or more years.

A professional kiss is Hawaii's equivalent of the key to the city.

You arrive in the Paradise of the Pacific. You expect a little romance. Friends meet you. They hang a flower lei around your swan-like neck. They give you a big smack.

Not all of us who arrived in these coco palm isles have local friends. So the Waikiki hotels sent out professional kissers with armfuls of leis.

"Aloha!" they said. Smack. "Aloha!" Smooch.

This worked out very well in the old days—when the big day every two weeks was Boat Day. On that day, the Lurline sailed in with a thousand new unkissed tourists and took a thousand sun-kissed people back to the main land. Now with the jet airplane, the kisser's job is ten-fold.

United Air flies 10 flights a week into Paradise.

Pan American has 18 planes each kissing week.

Add the Qantas flights to and from Australia; Canadian Pacific planes; Northwest, Japan Air Lines and Flying Tigers, the charters and the nonskeds.

Each jet carries 115 unkissed (but willing) passengers.

It is enough to put a fat lip on the most conscientious kisser.

"No kisser can work a straight eight-hour day," said Gus Guslander, who runs the new King Kamehameha Hotel on the Big Island. "We are going to have to work out new shifts."

For the first time, I came into Honolulu this time unkissed. I stood around waiting. But only one young lady in a muumuu came up to me.

I closed my eyes—I am a romantic type about these things.

But she only said: "Are you Mr. Schneider from the paper box convention?"

When I said no, she left me standing there with my lips puckered up.

This has left newly opened Tahiti in a favorable position to compete with over-kissed Hawaii.

"You are confirmed on your flight to Tahiti," said the lady at South Pacific Air Lines. (The old Dollar Steamship Line is now airborne. It flies direct to the islands of Gaugin.)

"Let me ask you a question, ma'am. Do they kiss you on arrival in Tahiti?"

"Yes. Every passenger on South Pacific Air Lines is guaranteed one genuine Tahitian kiss. We intend to compete in every way with Hawaii."

"Are they professional kissers?"

"The profession of kissing is not native to Tahiti. Our kissers are not—shall we say experienced?—as the Hawaii kisser who has been bussing the tourists for so many years.

"However, I think you will agree that, in kissing, it is the spirit that counts. Tahiti has that spirit. Do you know the difference between the Hawaiian hula and the Tahitian hula?"

"The Tahitian hula bumps more. The girl looks like she is going over a corduroy road in a jeep."

"That is the way it is with the Tahitian greeting kiss. We predict that once you have had the Tahitian kiss, the Hawaiian smooch will not satisfy."

There was no kiss waiting for me at the Royal Hawaiian when I checked in. But the manager sent up a fresh-cut pineapple.

Pineapple never gets tired. And it has no union.

Grass Juice Diet for Cross-Country Hike

Dr. Barbara Moore, Now Nearing St. Louis, Says Raw Food and No Meat Keep Her Healthy

DR. BARBARA MOORE

By Virginia Irwin
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

IF THE IDEA of drinking a glassful of grass juice makes you shudder, don't tell Dr. Barbara Moore. She'd just dismiss you as another member of the unenlightened multitude who think grass is unfit for human consumption.

We had a long talk with Dr. Moore, who hopes to reach St. Louis tomorrow on her cross-country hike from San Francisco to New York. Most of the talk was about the health-giving properties of such things as raw vegetables, grass juice and chopped fresh hay. Dr. Moore really did all the talking. Being a meat, potatoes and gravy type, we just listened. Just thinking about drinking grass juice made us turn green.

"People," said the British physician who has been extolling the virtues of vegetarianism for 26 years, "are killing themselves eating meat. Only plants afford proper food for man."

Dr. Moore exists entirely on raw vegetables, fruits, grasses and nuts. To her, grass juice, carrot juice and beet juice are ambrosia. In fact, grass juice does for Dr. Moore what a martini does for most people. Chopped alfalfa, clover and fresh timothy hay she regards as delicacies. She wouldn't touch a good pork loin or a roast of beef if she won one in a raffle.

"I decided years ago that it was ridiculous for scientists to spend millions of dollars doing research on diet and longevity by using millions of rats and dogs and guinea pigs as experimental subjects," the 56-year-old British physician explained. "I decided to experiment on myself. You see the results. I can outdo any man half my age."

When not hiking around England or striding across the United States, Dr. Moore lives with her husband, Harry Moore, in the little village of Frimley in Surrey.

"It's surprising how little it costs us to live since we do not spend money on tobacco, alcohol, meat, butter, eggs or milk," she said. "My husband is a vegetarian too, but he is just the ordinary kind. He eats his vegetables cooked, while I eat only raw things. During the war when food was very scarce in England, my husband and I subsisted to a great extent on grass. Grass juice is delicious and it contains so many vitamins. Animals have better sense than humans. They know grass is an almost complete food.

"People should drink grass juices and eat alfalfa and clover and dandelions and fresh hay. They poison themselves drinking coffee and tea and alcohol. Nuts should be eaten raw. When you salt peanuts and toast almonds and roast cashews you ruin them. For vitamin efficiency you've got to eat nuts raw and unsalted."

By Floyd Bowser, a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

DR. MOORE took time out on her hike across Missouri to sign autographs at the Oak Grove intersection of Highway 40.

Dr. Moore is a delightfully intelligent woman and a complete nonconformist. It bothers her not in the least that people regard her as food faddist and dietary nut. In 1933 she made something of a name for herself by riding a motorcycle from Russia almost to London.

"It was a wonderful machine," she laughed gaily. "An American Harley-Davidson. The trip was delightful."

Besides being a motorcycle enthusiast, she has done a lot of driving in speed-car races. She has walked from John O'Groats to Lands End, covering Scotland and England from tip to tip several times and is the only person ever to walk the 110 miles from Birmingham to London in less than 24 hours.

"No man ever did it," she boasts gleefully.

She hopes to walk every step of United States Highway 40 from coast to coast. She may reach New York before the end of this month.

She will next attempt to walk across Australia and after that she hopes to tackle Russia, where she was born and received her medical degree before moving to England 30 years ago.

Dr. Moore is delighted with the crowds that have turned out to greet her on her walk across Missouri. Her reception has, in fact, been something a movie queen might envy. Several people have tried to keep pace with her and failed. This reporter tried. Dr. Moore, who covers from 30 to 36 inches with each step, was a quarter mile down the highway in only a few paces. The reporter might as well have been tied to a stump. The feat was finally accomplished by 17-year-old Karen Shackelford of Odessa, Mo. But Karen had an advantage. She was on a horse.

Dr. Moore denies that she is making money in any way out of her cross-country hike in the United States.

"In the beginning a juice extractor firm gave me a juice extractor and offered to send a man from their company along the highway with me," she explained. "He was to drive the car containing my belongings so I would have them when I stopped walking for the night. But it didn't work out."

Dr. Moore said she emphasized to the extractor firm that she would not promote the firm's product in any way but the company tried to cash in on her walking exploit and the relationship was broken off. Next a total stranger, a 65-year-old retired California electrician, offered to carry Dr. Moore's belongings in his car "just out of the goodness of his heart."

After four weeks the man fell ill and Dr. Moore went on alone.

She disposed of most of her belongings in an abandoned oil drum "somewhere way out west" and went on with only a small zipperd bag. But carrying the zipper bag impeded the swinging of her arms, a motion she needs to give rhythm to her stride. Since then various organizations have furnished escorts to carry her bag and a few accumulated belongings.

Dr. Moore's feet take a terrific pounding on the highway but they're the least of her worries. Right now she is suffering from a severely sunburned nose. She has been averaging about 40 miles a day on her hike across country and says she never experiences the slightest fatigue. She just gets a good night's sleep, drinks a big glass of beet juice, and trudges on through another day.

Job Talks

KAY WILLIAMS

14th Floor, Paul Brown Bldg.

At this time of year many thousands of young people are graduating from high schools and colleges across our land. This has been a day so long anticipated that excitement and exhilaration run high.

On the threshold, however, of one of the very most important steps in their lives, it is really a time for very sober thinking.

What they now do in the next few months regarding their immediate futures will have to do with the way their entire lives may develop.

For anyone to think that to get on a payroll in order to get a pay check in their hand in as short a time as possible is to mean freedom, independence and adulthood—is to have the most illogical concept of the true meaning of those wonderful words.

The greatest compensation in working is to be in a position that gives back to an individual rewards for thinking and doing and being one's self. Whether you become a lawyer, a secretary or a technician it should be only as a result of your decision that this choice will give you fulfillment.

No one anywhere can really be happy in the demoralizing state of job frustration. To know yourself, and to find the right job, make for a combination that is truly not "child's play." It is wise to consider above all all other needs that the investment in the assistance of a professional placement service is to bring a return to you in all of your future days.

A good private employment service has the experience and competence as well as a complete file of all of the best job opportunities in its area.

They are equipped to measure within a very short time your abilities and advise and evaluate your potentialities and discuss with you exactly what you want and should have. They are then in a position to immediately secure that for you. You will not be expected or required to take any job that does not appeal to you. This is an expression of your rights under the free enterprise system prevalent in America. By this method you truly invest in your future and start that future in a manner that will benefit you throughout your life.

I'll be here—right here next Tuesday. Will you?

Ann Landers

Not Strictly Business

Dear Ann Landers:

I CAME to a big city from a small one to get a job as a receptionist. I couldn't get exactly what I wanted so I settled for a waitress job in a cocktail lounge.

Many public relations and advertising executives come in and they are a smart, classy-looking bunch. Yesterday one of the friendlier ones asked me right out why a girl with such beautiful legs was doing waitress work. He said he could get me a job as a shoe model and suggested we talk it over.

ANN LANDERS

I want to get out of the waitress line as the hours are hard and the pay isn't too good. I have no one here to talk this over with. The only thing that makes me wonder is why he didn't suggest I come to his office to talk about it. He wants to come to my place.

I've heard of girls getting discovered this way but I never dreamed it could happen to me. Is it worth the chance?

EXCITED.

Dear Excited: So you never dreamed it could happen to you? Well—it could and it will if you're not careful. Wake up and quit dreaming, girl. The model routine is strictly off the cob. Professional agencies have a mile-long list of girls with beautiful legs who are stepping all over each other to get work. Business men discuss business in offices.

Dear Ann:

I'M MARRIED to a wonderful man. He's a first-class carpenter, steady church-goer, and a fine father. The trouble is he has a needling sense of humor that a lot of people don't understand. I'm afraid he makes enemies without realizing it.

My club met here the other day and Sam said to one of the women who had just got a new permanent, "What happened to your hair? Looks like you got hold of a live wire, Tillie." She smiled (forced kind) and I know she was offended.

The next incident made me write this letter. A woman in the club who has always had a weight problem has let herself go in the past year. She's awfully big and is sensitive about it. He looked at her and said, "Girl you're getting as fat as a pig. I'll bet that corset of yours is screaming at the seams!" She didn't crack a smile and I felt like two cents.

My husband is really a kind person and he wouldn't hurt a fly. He's just trying to be humorous. What can I tell him?

ALICIA.

Dear Alicia: Since he's a carpenter tell him to measure twice and saw once. Jokes about personal appearance are not humorous. They are tasteless and cruel. The clown who ridicules and belittles and calls it "a joke" never fails to make an enemy.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the Post-Dispatch, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

She'll Trade Fads For Square Meal

A FRIEND OF MINE told me of a pair she knew who gave up all butter, cream and other animal fats as soon as the medical investigators hit on the theory that diets rich in fat might be responsible for the high cholesterol blood level believed to contribute to heart attacks. This couple went all out in their efforts and began buying bread spreads and cooking oils at a special health food shop to be sure they contained only corn oil or whatever the approved substance happened to be.

CLARISSA START

I thought of this pair with pity and sympathy when I read the recent news item headlined, "High Protein Linked With Heart Attacks." The story detailed the report of Dr. Broda A. Barnes, Denver researcher, who had been working on a theory just the opposite of the one which was coming to be accepted. In his experiments, patients on the favored high protein diet increased their cholesterol content; those on a diet of egg yolks, cream and butter showed a decrease. I sighed a sigh for the corn oil couple as I slathered butter on my toast and sloshed cream in my coffee. For the first time in months I didn't feel guilty.

But sad as I felt for this couple, I feel even sadder for all of us. If our era in history ever merits a name it is likely to be known as the age of hypochondria, tossed and torn as we are by one "scientifically proven" theory after another.

A newly released book, "Medicine Today," by Marguerite Clark (Funk & Wagnalls) points up some of the confusion which has been created among reducing dieters, who spend an estimated $100,000,000 yearly on special food, drink, drugs, books, vibrators, and health courses, and on the do-it-yourself-doctors who read a scientific report and then serve as their own guinea pig in interpreting it.

Dr. Irvine H. Page, heart and high blood pressure specialist, is quoted as saying, "I'm against this frantic non-fat dieting on the part of well people . . . normal, healthy American people should be extremely wary about changing diets, or eliminating or heavily decreasing the amount of fat they eat."

Fat isn't the only thing, of course. For a while sugar was the culprit, responsible for all our ills. Then someone, maybe a candy manufacturer, invented the term "quick energy." Now you can excuse your lapse from the dieter's code and scoop sugar in your afternoon tea simply by explaining glibly, "Quick energy."

First spinach was good, then bad, and I haven't checked on its current status. Exercise was out but now it's in. The only thing that's remained constant is "tension." That's bad consistently. Yet it hasn't occurred to any of the scientific researchers that the tension may be caused by worry over what we should or shouldn't eat.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could sit down at a dinner table at a party once again and have not only the women but even the men ignore any talk of diet or food fads? Wouldn't it be heavenly if we could go back to just eating—maybe a little less if we're fat, a little more if we're thin—and stop talking about it and analyzing the lethal effects of every mouthful?

Remember how good food used to taste? It still could.

Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

Choking Spells

"Dear Dr. Molner:

"WHEN A PERSON has a choking spell (having got a crumb of bread or cake in his windpipe) is it proper to hit him between the shoulders? We were brought up to think that was the thing to do, but I have heard since that it isn't good. Which is right? E. W. R."

With the example you cite—a crumb of bread or cake—whacking on the back wouldn't be likely to do any harm. The crumb is soft and readily dissolves or is broken up.

It's a different story if the object is larger and hard, say a nut, bread, bone or some such thing. In that case pounding on the back can cause the victim to gasp and inhale—thus jamming the obstruction deeper into the windpipe. Above all, never poke a finger into the person's throat; you may push the object down against the larynx and shut off the breath entirely.

And picking a child up by the heels, or otherwise turning him upside down, is not without danger. If the object is in the windpipe, it can move against the larynx with the same result—shutting off the breath.

Most of these choking spells are the result of something deep in the throat, but not in the windpipe. Coughing is the automatic means of clearing the throat. Let the person cough; eventually he will usually expel whatever is there.

However, a slight touch of panic usually prevails. Somebody has to "do something," and there you are. Actually, the less that is done, the better.

If continued coughing and choking give reason to believe that the object, whatever it is, remains stuck in the throat or windpipe, the proper course is to have the victim examined with a bronchoscope—and you'd be amazed at some of the things fished out of people by this means. The point is, of course, that with a bronchoscope the doctor can see what he is doing. He can avoid the risk of jamming the object against the larynx or otherwise shifting it so the victim can get no air at all.

One of the worst things to inhale remains the ordinary peanuts, but we'll all be better off if we don't try to eat 'em while running, or talking, or laughing. A peanut is small enough to get down in dangerous territory, big enough to be an awful nuisance, and it won't dissolve or soften. A doctor, over the years, gets pretty used to extracting peanuts from throats and windpipes.

By the way: Be especially careful with small children. My own rule is never to give them peanuts. Most of them are so fond of peanut butter that keeping the whole nuts away from them is no great deprivation.

R. E.: Yes, thumb-sucking is a habit. If it persists, it can be hard to break, like any habit. Usually it's a hangover from some feeling of worry or insecurity. To a little child it apparently is comforting. When it continues to the age of 12, it has gone on much too long. I'd have the dentist take a look to see if the teeth are being forced out of position, and discuss with your physician whether a psychiatrist can help. The boy should be convinced that he must stop.

MRS. J. R.: I am sending you a list of all the leaflets and booklets available through this column. I will send the list to anyone, providing a stamped, self-addressed envelope is inclosed with the request.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

BEVERLY HILLS IS MY BEAT

Big Time Charity Swindler

Chief Tells How Woman Hoodwinked Society Leaders

Third in a series from the autobiography of Clinton Anderson, Chief of Police in Beverly Hills, Calif.

By Clinton Anderson

OF COURSE, men are not the only criminals in Beverly Hills and women are not the only victims of love swindlers in Beverly Hills Wealthy men, even some smart fortune-hunters whose background is known to the police, have often been duped by unscrupulous females.

One millionaire, who built up his wealth by a series of fortunate marriages, was victimized by a girl friend who tried to obtain money from him by a false accusation. She sued on behalf of her "unborn child" for a portion of his $300,000 annual income, charging that he was the father. She also claimed he had hired thugs to beat her up. A police investigation disproved her story, and, when no child was born after waiting a respectable number of months, the suit was ruled out of court.

Mrs. Vivian Lingle, loaded with personality and a police record, was a big-time operator in Beverly Hills social circles Her ability to organize "benefits" with prominent women as fund-raisers was really astonishing.

She had the brass of a burglar. One time when we refused her a permit, under terms of a city ordinance which requires charity solicitors to register, she made a dramatic appearance before the City Council and raised Cain. Yet her scheme was just another racket in which the dollars would go to her, and the pennies to charity.

She had been identified with money-raising projects for many years, when she made her Beverly Hills debut during World War II with the Women's Emergency Corps. The group formally disbanded in 1946, but Mrs. Lingle kept right on using its name. In 1953 she sought to raise money "for wounded veterans of the Korean war and their families," by selling chances on a high-priced automobile. She had stacks of tickets printed, listing the Women's Emergency Corps as sponsor. With the help of her Beverly Hills society volunteers, she sold several thousand of them at $1 each. However, the police found she had no arrangement to get and award the high-priced automobile.

After we arrested Mrs. Lingle, we discovered she had forged the name of Mrs. Alice Cooper, mother of Gary Cooper, in indorsing and cashing checks which had been sent to the defunct Women's Emergency Corps. Among these, too, were contributions from Bing Crosby and Ronald Colman. We found 10,000 more tickets for the automobile in the apartment of her partner. Their expense on this little deal, which netted more than $6000 before the police stepped in, was $50.

Mrs. Lingle was not shy about approaching car dealers. Knowing that there were many veterans recovering from wounds in nearby military hospitals, she talked dealers into lending new cars to give the veterans rides. Some dealers waited as long as two months for the cars to be returned, then had to find her and take back their property. But nobody could have her arrested, because she had permission to use the cars.

Nothing was too good for the veterans—or Mrs. Lingle. She established a nice apartment which, she said, was for the use of returning war veterans and their long-separated wives. She prevailed on Beverly Hills women to furnish and equip the place in fine style, and then lived in it herself. She invited the donors in for parties at which liquor and champagne flowed, and raised more money to keep the scheme going.

She lived high for several years on money she collected for veterans. After her arrest, she faced a prison sentence. The day she was to appear in court, she was found a suicide.

We now screen all fund-raising projects through a Social Welfare Committee to prevent unscrupulous individuals from victimizing our citizens. Every year since the committee has been in existence, the number of applications for permits has declined. Applicants know that extensive investigation will be made before a permit is granted, and our investigators have uncovered many rackets.

One slick deal we exposed was a "Veterans' Post," organized by half-a-dozen men who went into the salvage business, temporarily, picking up a nice haul of discarded furniture and clothing from well-to-do homes. The "post" also sold tickets for a benefit dance for hospitalized veterans, but all the ligitimate veterans received from this scheme was two small radio sets.

Another scheme was dreamed up by a man and his wife who collected funds to care for old dogs who had outlived their usefulness. They charged their clients $25 each to make a home for the family pet during its declining years. This racket was particularly good in Beverly Hills where some 3500 dogs live in luxury. To convince customers of their genuine love for pets, the man and wife were active leaders in an anti-vivisection campaign in Southern California. What was wrong with their own dog-saving project was that after collecting the dogs and fees, they took the dogs to a neighboring city, where they disposed of them either by sale or by turning them in at the city pound.

Con men have something for everybody, and this one got the dog lovers until the police found out about it. Nobody dares raise his voice against man's best friend, as a nationally famous actor realized recently when he called headquarters to complain about a barking dog that was keeping him awake. Please make him shut up—but don't use my name!" he said. "I'm a public figure and I've got to love dogs!"

After 30 years on the force I have learned most of the tricks of con men. They continue to flourish in spite of the many warnings which the police department and the Better Business Bureau give the public.

The late Elmer Perry and his Beverly Hills Athletic Club were a police problem for several years. Perry was a smooth operator. A professional gambler, he established the club as a front for his illegal activities. He provided it with a good front by contriving to get civic, fraternal and religious organizations to use the main rooms of the club for nominal fees.

In the back, he ran a big-time gambling operation, frequented by such men as Bugsy Siegel and Al Smiley, and the club was also a contact spot for the gambling ship, Lux, which the late Tony Cornero operated offshore. There naturally was some mingling of guests front and back. On one occasion, at the annual dinner of a respectable civic organization, somebody started a crap game and two "ringers," both experienced gamblers, got all the cash. The unsuspecting guests didn't realize they had been taken until it became a police case.

The group formally disbanded in 1946, but Mrs. Lingle kept right on using its name.

We learned about such doings when a victim complained to us. We watched the club and raided it on a night when Perry had a big game going in the back room. The arrests netted us 11 persons with police records, and we found that two of the players were members of the old Purple Gang in Detroit.

Perry was found guilty, but he never gave up in his campaign to win influential public support. Each year when a new City Council took office, Perry would appear before it and complain of police harassment of his harmless social club.

When we tried to take away Perry's liquor license by notifying the State Board of Equalization of his sinister activities, he fought this move with letters of glowing recommendation from service clubs and political and religious groups which used the premises for their meetings. We were outnumbered and outmaneuvered! However, we continued our strict surveillance of the club until Perry sold it to a group of reputable business people who operated it legitimately.

After Perry was killed in gangland fashion in Los Angeles, I was astonished to learn that a well-known motion-picture director had financed Perry's club.

We had a "wealthy European financier" who supported himself for several months in an expensive hotel suite by playing cards. When the police caught up with him we discovered he was a professional gambler.

Back of a gin rummy scandal that stirred the movie colony were two young male members of prominent families who were winning large sums of money with suspicious regularity. Their victims included a celebrated motion-picture producer, who dropped $30,000, and a Chicago business executive who left town $200,000 poorer.

At that time there was a gin rummy "craze." Hostesses planned their parties so that gin rummy fanatics could have long evenings around the card tables, and the games continued on weekends at beach and country clubs, and at Malibu, Lake Arrowhead and Palm Springs. Inevitably, card sharks with high social connections began collecting heavily from movie celebrities and other wealthy citizens.

The two young con men who fleeced their friends and acquaintances in the movie colony were not reported to the police, since they limited their games to private homes. However, a memorable dinner party at the home of Cobina Wright, a Beverly Hills social leader, brought an end to their activities. Mrs. Wright invited the cream of Hollywood society to her home for the evening. Clark Gable, Charlie Chaplin, Lana Turner, Paulette Goddard and Walter Pidgeon were among the crowd who attended. I was there, too.

After dinner, Mrs. Wright introduced two of her guests for a purpose. One was the late Raymond Schindler, a nationally known private detective. The other was a former vaudeville performer and card-trick magician, Mickey McDougall, who had been hired by steamship lines and railroads to catch gin rummy sharks who were preying on wealthy travelers.

Mr. Schindler told guests of the fortunes card sharks were reaping as a result of the popularity of gin rummy, a game which is admirably suited to their trickery.

Schindler then turned the meeting over to McDougall. With the help of Miss Turner and Miss Goddard, who were in his "pigeons" in an exhibition game, he showed how easily an expert can stack a gin rummy deck. Even without stacking, expert players can know the location of almost every card after one or two hands have been played. A "pigeon" in such a game never has a chance.

It was all handled very politely, and no names were mentioned, but from that time on the depredations of the Hollywood card sharks dwindled to nothingness.

I am invited to many social functions. I like to think it's because I'm popular, but I know I'm really in demand more for protection. Even if I don't go in person, the police department is represented at any gathering where the assembled wealth might be an overpowering temptation to criminals.

When the late Evalyn Walsh McLean of Washington, D.C., leased a large home in Benedict Canyon, and brought the Hope diamond here, I was concerned because of announcements of her plans for a large party. As she was a newcomer in our midst, I went to the house and interviewed her regarding her guest list, to make sure she had not been taken in by any unreliable characters. I suggested that the police department would rest easier if she would not wear the Hope diamond at such a public gathering. "What's the use of having it, if I can't wear it?" she asked.

The party was a glittering success, overflowing with celebrities, furs and jewels. The Hope diamond, sparkling on its owner's neck, was the center of attraction all evening. But it was never out of sight of a detective.

Pass	Pass	5 ♣	5 ♠
Pass	Pass	6 ♣	Pass
Pass	Dble.

Opening lead—king of spades.

STRANGE THINGS HAPPEN in bridge, as witness this deal which occurred in a rubber bridge game. The bidding was spirited, as well it might be under the particular circumstances. North going to six clubs as a sacrifice against the vulnerable five spade bid (which would have gone down one).

West innocently opened the king of spades and South went to town to make the contract. He ruffed the spade in dummy and led a club to the ace.

Declarer then played the ace and another heart, and when West played low, finessed the ten. On the K-Q-8 of hearts he discarded his three diamond losers, West ruffing the last heart for his side's only trick.

East was somewhat aggrieved that the opponents should make a doubled slam contract, considering that East had two aces and West had made a vulnerable takeout double. Nor did he fail to point out, in select verbiage, that a diamond lead would have have defeated the contract two tricks.

We grant that West might have opened a diamond, in view of his spade length and East's persistent spade bidding, but it can be added in fairness that a diamond lead is much easier to find after the hand is over than in actual combat.

MISS HARRIET ANN REUTER, debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis A. Reuter, 2 Kingsbury place, was guest of honor today at a luncheon at Deer Creek Club to which all the young women on the 1959-60 debutante list were invited. The party was given by Miss Reuter's aunt, Mrs. Charles A. Stuever, and her cousin, Mrs. Thomas Lindsey Blayney.

MISS REUTER . . . To Be Honor Guest.

The debutantes were seated at a U-shaped table which was adorned with yellow roses and white larkspur. Arrangements of yellow spider chrysanthemums and white daisies decorated the fireplace before which the hostesses received their guests. An accordionist played during the party hours.

Miss Reuter will be honored tomorrow evening at a party to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Ricker, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dahm, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Kane, at the Ricker home, 17 Berkshire, Richmond Heights.

More than 100 young guests have been invited for cocktails and a buffet supper. The buffet table in the Rickers' green and gold dining room will be centered with yellow blossoms and flanked with silver candelabra holding yellow candles. Supper will be served on the terrace at small tables decorated with hurricane lamps circled by yellow and white flowers. A Dixieland band will play for dancing on the patio above the terrace. Miss Mary Louise Lee of San Francisco, who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Clifford A. Schlueter, 6 Fox Run lane, St. Louis county, will attend the party, as will Dr. and Mrs. Reuter.

Mrs. E. B. McDonald Jr., 57 Jenifer lane, Town and Country, will be hostess tomorrow at a luncheon and swimming party in honor of Miss Sally Elizabeth Spoehrer at Old Warson Country Club. Guests have been asked to wear sports clothes. The table will be centered with a mannequin's head wearing a swimming cap and a necklace of flowers. Each debutante will find at her place eye-covers in different colors, gayly decorated with bees and other insects. The favors may be used while guests sun bathe after luncheon. Miss Spoehrer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Spoehrer, 6 Arbor road, Olivette. She recently returned to St. Louis from Wheaton College, Norton, Mass., where she completed her sophomore year.

Miss Folk will be introduced at two parties. Her grandfather, Paul Bailey Jamison, 6105 Lindell boulevard, will give a late afternoon reception for her Sunday, Sept. 18, at his home, and Dec. 29 she will be presented at a holiday ball at the University Club by her mother and Mr. Jamison.

Martha Carr's OPINION

She's Looking for 'A Good Man'

Dear Martha Carr:

HOW DOES ONE go about meeting a "good man"? I am very lonely and would like so much to meet a nice man, preferably one who has children and would like a new mother for them as well as someone for himself. I am a 40-year-old business woman and believe I have the qualifications for a good wife and mother but how do I find the person who needs me? And by the way, I don't fall into the same category as the women who just want a man to support them.

IMPATIENTLY WAITING.

The best way to meet a good man is through other women. Join a church group, do some volunteer work for one or more organizations, find a hobby club to give yourself new interest in life, and keep to yourself the fact that you're looking for a husband. Your desire to help a man raise his children is to be praised but be careful about stressing this too much or people will doubt your motives. When you broaden your social contacts through membership in various organizations, you will find that other women will introduce you to men of their acquaintance and eventually you may meet a man who fills your specifications for a husband. If you want various lists of clubs send a self-addressed stamped envelope for Martha Carr's leaflets—"Hi Neighbor," "Senior Citizens," and "Hobby Clubs."

Dear Martha Carr:

MAY I JUST SAY to "Anti-Cats" that Confucious say: "He is looking in mirror who looks upon cat with disapproval." Meow! Psst! AN ANTI-PEOPLE SIAMESE.

TO ANN PARKER: Will you please send me the name, address and telephone number of the Golden Age Club to which you belong, so that it can be included in the next Martha Carr "Senior Citizen" leaflet?

IN ANSWER TO SEVERAL MOTHERS-TO-BE who have written in about the organization designed to give help to mothers who want information about breastfeeding their babies—write the LaLeche League of Greater St. Louis, 4064 Federer street, St. Louis, 16, Mo. Or call FLanders 3-5354.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

THE LETTER CRITICIZING parakeets has me really piqued. I was immobilized with two broken legs for about three years and my parakeet was a real pet, talking all day. He can say "Be home early daddy," "You're a pest," "Daddy's baby boy." "Gimme a bottle of beer" and hundreds of other sentences. If that parakeet hater doubts me, I'd like to play him a tape recording of my parakeet proudly piping out these expressions. TOM MC. H.

Send a self-addressed stamped envelope for Martha Carr's "Prayers for Children" and "Grace to be Said at Table."

What Love Means to Women

By Adele Starbird

ADELE STARBIRD

"WOMEN ARE ALWAYS screaming about love," writes a woman novelist with disdain, "but they don't want love. All they want is comfort and security."

She is partly right, but some of the men who have written on the subject have seen it more clearly; they discovered long ago that what a woman wants is marriage. And she wants marriage for the sake of the children she will have.

This is a fact of life that arouses the resentment of the individual male when he discovers it, as some do. A man likes to believe that he is loved for himself alone, for his thoroughly engaging charm. Nobody likes to think that he is being used.

More than one young man has said bitterly, "She wasn't in love with me. She was just trying to get married. When somebody came along who could marry her right now, she threw me over."

It helps wounded pride a little if a man understands that the girl is not acting from selfish calculation but from unconscious wisdom. She herself may think that she wants to marry because all her friends are married, or because she consciously yearns for romance, love and sex, but the deepest reason is the "immemorial memory" of her feminine role as a homemaker. "Life flows in us and through us. It is the drama; we are the incidents."

No reproach should be brought against her for showing a certain animal prudence in preparing for the future. That is a good sign, not a bad one. It shows that she is psychologically sound; it proves that she is in the stream of instinctive life, following patterns long laid down—not a biological freak, not an egotist who thinks no farther than the present moment.

The bird builds her nest before the eggs are laid. Even the simplest organisms go to great lengths to insure a safe environment for their young; the human race can do no less.

When Paul Claudel was French Ambassador to the United States, what impressed him most was that a young couple here could buy a house and spend the rest of their lives paying for it; meanwhile they had a home. The French couple, he said, spent their lives trying to save enough to buy a house.

Diapers, said Henry Bataille, would have spoiled Juliet's balcony. That's one of those bright sayings that fade under scrutiny. Everything in its own time. Diapers would certainly have wrecked the balcony scene, but they would have added a cozy touch at a later date. If Bataille meant that romance cannot survive the intimacies of domesticity, he must have forgotten the many union flags that fly even today on Italian balconies without destroying romance.

The woman novelist was again wrong in her sweeping statement that women did not want love. The truth is that they want to conjugate the verb "to love" only in the passive voice; they want to be loved.

A woman has come a long way from the instinctive level and into the highest reaches of humanity when she can conjugate the verb in the active voice, when she knows that it is more blessed to love than to be loved.

There lies true maturity and it has nothing to do with chronological age. Many a girl at 20 has made that leap into understanding, whereas many a woman at 60 is still in the nursery school of love; still playing the game of being loved, always and forever on Juliet's balcony.

Security for her children, love for her mate — that is what a grown woman wants.

Soviet U.N. Proposal

NEW YORK, June 7.

IT WAS INTERESTING NEWS that the Soviets have presented a program for disarmament which includes a United Nations police force and U.N. inspection. On the surface, it would seem that they have come a long way toward meeting our original desires.

Of course, to present this program and then to attack President Eisenhower in the way Mr. Khrushchev did makes very little sense, unless he is trying to prove to his people at home that in presenting such a program he is doing it in the interests of the U.S.S.R. and not from any consideration for the West.

I cannot help but wish that we might have been the ones to present a program for consideration by the U.N. and the world. Again we will be in the position of criticizing, and one can only hope that our criticism will be constructive.

I SEE THAT Secretary of Defense Thomas L. Gates Jr., at the Senate hearing, said that President Eisenhower had taken responsibility for the U-2 incident on the advice of his aides. Strange advice this. I used to hear it said that the President was never to take the blame for anything.

That was one of the unwritten rules of all those who served in the Government under the President. They knew from the very beginning that whatever advice they gave, if anything went wrong they were to blame—never the President. And even if he acted without their advice, whoever had anything to do with the incident—whatever it might be—accepted the blame; the President was never allowed to take it.

A change seems to have come about. Whether it is a good one or a bad one I do not know, but I think on the whole the old way may have been the wiser.

Hollywood Gossip

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.

BARRY SULLIVAN made his own survey and came up with the fact that the public is not yet tired of Westerns, so he is filming a new one—"The Tall Man," about Pat Garrett, the sheriff who ended the career of Billy the Kid. . . . Olivia de Havilland, who made nine movies with Errol Flynn, tells me she didn't recognize him when he hailed her the last time in Paris, a year ago. In the early years here, Livvy had been secretly in love with him.

VIVIEN LEIGH will meet with Sir Laurence Olivier soon to discuss the divorce. In spite of everything, she is hoping that a face-to-face meeting could turn the divorce into a reconciliation.

JACK CARSON, 45 pounds lighter than a year ago, has a complete new wardrobe. "Cost me," said Jack, "more than five grand. Eating is cheaper."

ALAN LADD is after boxing champ Ingemar Johansson to come to Hollywood again to play a Swedish doctor in Alan's picture, "The Interns." . . . Mrs. Nat "King" Cole, wife of the singer, has the longest white mink stole in captivity—10 feet in length, with a diamond clasp to hold it at the shoulder.

ANTHONY STEELE, a happier man since his divorce from Anita Ekberg, is doing better on the career front. He has a starring role in Rome in "Vendetta of the Barbarians."

JIMMY WOOLF, British producer of "Room at the Top," has made a three-picture deal with Warner Brothers and will live in Hollywood, starting in the fall. Jimmy loves the place and will be an asset to it.

HIGH PRAISE from singer Bobby Darin for singer Frank Sinatra—"I think Sinatra is the greatest lyric interpreter ever born." Coming up for Bobby is a seven-year, one-picture-annually deal at a major studio.

THE MILLINERS of Rome sent Ava Gardner a dozen hats hoping she would wear them—singly, of course—to help get the girls back into headgear. All over the world, more and more, ladies are going hatless.

Mercator's Distortions

By Ramon Coffman

THE READER who asked about the number of continents added this question to her letter:

"If Greenland is larger than Australia, should it not be considered a continent?"

Greenland is less than one third as large as Australia, and falls short of the size required for a continent.

Other persons also have a mistaken idea about the size of Greenland and there seems only one way to explain how this happens. The so-called "Mercator maps" spread false notions of how continents and islands compare in size. They have been discontinued in many schools, but still appear in some places.

Gerhardus Mercator (mur-KAY-tur) lived in what is now Belgium 400 years ago. His chief work was to make maps. Partly because people of that time had a poor knowledge of geography, there were many mistakes in his maps.

The mistakes of Mercator have been corrected to a large extent, but his world map still distorts the size of land masses. Here are a few unhappy facts about such maps:

They make Greenland look larger than South America. (Actually, South America has eight times as much land as Greenland.)

They make Iceland look as large as Borneo, but Borneo really is seven times the size of Iceland.

They make other lands in the Arctic and North Temperate zone seem too large in comparison with lands south of the equator.

Q. Do Mercator world maps have any value?

A. They are helpful to navigators who work with problems of latitude and longitude.

For general use, globes are excellent. Maps of the Eastern Hemisphere and Western Hemisphere, with circular borders, are valuable.
